CONGRESS TOLD OF COMMUNIST LINK WITH WPA

Witnesses Testify to Moscow Orders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—The Workers' Alliance, sponsor of the Right to Work congress which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to address this week, is 90 per cent communist, the house WPA investigating committee was told today.

Herbert Benjamin, Secretary of Workers' Alliance.

Two Negroes, who formerly were active communists, told the house committee of the binding ties between the communist party and the alliance, which is the bargaining organization for reliefers and WPA workers.

Instructed in Moscow.

The committee members sat amazed as Charles H. White, a Negro information writer on the federal arts project in New York City, told how he was sent to Russia by the communist party of America to learn military tactics and street fighting to be employed in this country.

White declared the alliance is dominated by the communist party.

"Ninety per cent of the members are communists," White told the committee. "Others join because the Workers' Alliance is patronized by the WPA and public officials."

White then proceeded to minimize the effect of charges that the alliance is a subversive influence.

"Who in the Workers' alliance would say it is a subversive influence when it is patronized by Aubrey Williams [National Youth administrator]?" White asked the committee. "Who would call the Workers' alliance subversive when he knows that the President's wife is going to take part in the conference?"

Studies Agitation Tactics.

White testified that in 1930-'31 he was sent to Russia for instruction in agitation tactics. While in Russia, he said, he met Herbert Benjamin, now secretary of the alliance, who White said then were preparing for the hunger march on Washington that was to follow in 1932.

White said his trip was financed by district No. 6 of the communist party, of which Benjamin was secretary.

"Were you taught to ride and shoot while you were in Russia?" he was asked.

"Yes," he said. "I practiced sharp shooting once or twice a week, studied the handling of machine guns, the use of barricades in street fighting, and how to destroy tanks."

One and the Same, Says Woman.

Later a Negress, Mrs. Frankie Duty of New York City, a former member of the national council of the alliance and former communist party official—she resigned from both last October—declared "the Workers' alliance IS the communist party."

"The Workers' alliance," she said, "is where we get people in, nurture and cultivate them, and finally get them into the communist party.

"People usually fall for membership in the Workers' alliance in order to get relief. The depression has driven large numbers of Negroes into the alliance for relief. If one wants relief he is told to join the alliance."

Mrs. Duty said that at all times she received instructions from communist party leaders on how to carry on activities in the Workers' alliance.

Lasser "Won Over."

She could not say definitly that David Lasser, president of the alliance, held a communist party membership book, but she said that her district communist leader had told her "We have won over Lasser."

The President's wife is slated to address the Right to Work congress tomorrow morning on youth problems. This is a special session of the congress, called by the alliance to protest against the congressional slash in relief funds and to demand that the President's request for 1 billion 477 million dollars in WPA funds for 1940 be voted.

[Mayor Edward J. Kelly, who had been invited to address the congress, announced in Springfield last night that he had declined the invitation.]

CHICAGO SAFETY PROGRAM WINS IN SENATE, 26-14

Bills Sent to House for Final Test.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—The Illinois senate this evening passed bills authorizing a $90,000,000 superhighway construction program in Chicago and a $30,000,000 secondary road construction program downstate. The bills will go to the house tomorrow.

The vote, 26 to 14, was on party lines, with Republicans opposing the program.

The Chicago project is sponsored by Mayor Edward J. Kelly and the downstate project by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle. Republicans, in arguing against the bills, made no mention of Stelle's possible candidacy for governor on the Democratic ticket next year, but in the lobbies it was freely discussed that he might use promises of roads to aid his candidacy.

Gas Tax Would Pay.

The bills provide that the state may issue $60,000,000 of ten year notes to be retired with gasoline tax collections, half of the money to be spent on superhighways in Chicago and half on farm-to-market roads downstate. They also authorize Cook county and Chicago each to issue $30,000,000 worth of similar notes for urban construction.

Under the program for Chicago five elevated safety highways would be built into the loop from the city's outskirts. The routes would be along the north and south shore, from the west, and from southwest and northwest.

Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago], Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, in asking that the bills be called for passage, said:

"Committees and commissions that have studied Illinois accident and motor transportation problems have all recognized the need for deathproof construction in Chicago. The Illinois Agricultural association has indorsed the downstate portion of this program. The bills have been drafted with competent legal, engineering, and financial advice. They should pass."

Benson Questions Financing.

Senator Arnold P. Benson [R., Batavia], minority floor leader, opened the attack.

"We all favor better roads," he said. "The question is whether this financial plan is sound.

"A joint legislative committee engaged Prof. C. C. Wiley of the University of Illinois school of engineering to study our continued extension of highway mileage until maintenance and replacement obligations now exceed anticipated revenues.

"'To place this additional obligation upon road funds, including $10,000,000 in interest requirements,' said the professor 'would curtail essential work in modernizing main cross country routes and main routes in cities outside Chicago.'"

Senator Wilbur H. Hickman [D., Paris] said there are many sections of the state where farmers lack means of getting to and from the slab roads.

Argues for Rural Votes.

Senator H. S. Burgess [D., Fairfield] argued for rural votes by pointing out that under the bills the state would pay all of the cost of downstate improvements and only a third of the cost of the Chicago improvements.

Senator R. Wallace Karraker [D., Jonesboro], who first did not vote on roll call, finally voted for the measures.

It is expected the bills will undergo attack in the house, where Republicans have a majority. Many representatives believe construction should be financed with current revenues to save interest charges. Others oppose voting $30,000,000 to farm service roads carrying only 6 per cent of the state's trafic, while heavily traveled routes, rural and urban, are sorely in need of death proof reconstruction.

ENVOY KENNEDY GETS ANOTHER HONORARY DEGREE; IT'S NUMBER 6

CAMBRIDGE, England, June 6.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy today was given his sixth honorary degree since becoming American ambassador to London March 8, 1938.

He accepted a doctorate of laws from Earl Baldwin, former British prime minister who is chancellor of Cambridge university.

Dr. Terrot Reaveley Glover, public orator of Cambridge, in an address in Latin said that America still cherished the conception of a republic and had the "friendliest regard for nations still struggling—perhaps, even, had arms for them."

The universities of Bristol, Dublin, Edinburgh, Manchester, and Liverpool previously had made Kennedy an honorary doctor of laws.

VOTE 15 MINUTE REST PERIOD IN DOUBLE MOVIES

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—After a bill aimed directly against double feature movies had failed, the house today passed a measure to limit the length of motion pictures to two hours unless a fifteen minute intermission is provided. The vote was 109 to 3.

The purpose is to reduce eye strain, especially in the case of children, according to the sponsor, Representative Elroy C. Sandquist [R., Chicago]. He said he hoped the movie industry will take heed and take steps to correct present conditions.

"Parent-teacher associations are supporting this legislation," Sandquist said. "They have no thought of restricting wholesome entertainment. Their only concern is that sight be protected. Exposure of children's eye to movies for three or four hours is harmful, according to experts. Theater owners should provide a period of other entertainment during long shows."

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 6.—(AP)—The South Dakota department of the Grand Army of the Republic is to be dissolved officially at the 56th annual convention which opened here today. Only 16 members are left and Levi Voorhis, 95 years old, of Huron, state commander, was the only veteran at the convention. He will continue as state commander, but the organization will no longer be active after the present convention.

Aldermen Plan Sit and Sip Law to Aid Taverns

A city council subcommittee took action yesterday to take the sting out of the current police drive forcing tavern keepers to observe the legal closing hours.

A proposed amendment to the liquor ordinance was recommended after a noisy four hour session. It would permit customers to remain in the taverns and the doors to stay open after 1 a. m. on week days and 2 a. m. on Sundays until drinks served before the closing hour are consumed. The present ordinance requires that taverns be locked up for the night at the closing hour.

Any one buying a drink before the closing time, the aldermen asserted, should have a chance to finish it. There were many broad smiles when Ald. James McDermott [14th] pointed out that taverns should be kept open after hours, anyway, to enable police to observe whether or not liquor was being sold.

Policeman for Every Tavern.

Observers commented that passage of the amendment would virtually require the posting of a policeman in every tavern to prevent the illegal sale of liquor. A tavern keeper otherwise could resume the sale of liquor as soon as the police turned their backs.

Representatives of taverns and night clubs who crowded into the smoke filled meeting room complained that police squads are forcing taverns with all night restaurant licenses to close at the same time others do.

"They can't do that," asserted Ald. Thomas P. Keane [31st].

"Hah," the complainants chorused. "That's what we tell 'em. But it doesn't make any difference. They say we have to close and we have to close."

Call on Allman for Report.

Finally it was agreed to have Commissioner of Police Allman appear before the tavern hours subcommittee this morning to answer to this charge. One spectator suggested that the aldermen pay another visit to the commissioner's office but this was shouted down.

Ten days ago several council members called upon Allman protesting against the tavern drive. He told them shortly to change the law if they objected to the police activity. The attitude of the aldermen yesterday was that they would prefer to hold the second parley on their own grounds.

Raising of tavern license fees and the issuance of special permits for night clubs to stay open until 4 a. m. were considered before the session was adjourned.

Paul Kenny, president of the Illinois Night Club Owners' association, said the night clubs would accept an increased fee of $500 for the extra time. Later he raised the offer to $1,000. Fred Fanke, owner of a night club at 7500 South Halsted street, suggested a $900 increase for a 4 a.m. law.

Tomorrow afternoon the full license committee is scheduled to meet to receive the subcommittee's reports.

Home is where you hang your hat. And Rupert Moser chose to hang his in his automobile, parked in front of 1834 Barry avenue. Moser, who is 43 years old, said he has a home. It's at 1448 Henderson street. He has a wife, too. They quarreled, he told the judge. "I just didn't feel like going home after that," Moser explained. The judge remarked that married men do strange things after family quarrels and turned Moser loose.

Train Speeds U. S. Party to Niagara Falls

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa. [En route to meet their Britannic majesties.] June 6.—[Special.]—There was gayety and good cheer tonight among the American and British officials on the official train from Washington to Niagara Falls to meet King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England.

In the club car sat the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, chatting amiably with all who gathered there. Now he crossed his long legs and laughed heartily. Now he threw an arm over the shoulder of Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who will be the American military aid to the king tomorrow.

Protocol Chief Present.

Rear Admiral James O. Richardson, who will be the American naval aid, thumbed his suspenders and told another story.

George T. Summerlin, who as the state department's chief of protocol must solve every knotty problem of precedence and etiquette, rolled himself a cigaret. The officials cemented international good will with toasts.

Hull Retires Early.

In the car ahead Secretary of State Cordell Hull slumbered. He retired early, for upon him falls the duty of welcoming the king and queen to the United States.

Tomorrow night he will greet them at Niagara's suspension station, a small wooden platform seventeen feet wide. It will be his second trip of the day to the falls. In the morning the secretary and his wife plan to slip away from the official party for their first sight of the falls.

MUCH FINERY ON TRAIN

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Secretary of State Cordell Hull and British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, accompanied by an assortment of military and civilian aids, followed eleven trunks of masculine finery aboard a train for the Canadian border this evening.

Tomorrow night, at Niagara Falls, attired in gold braid and formal broadcloth, the group will welcome King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England as the first British monarchs to visit the United States. The entire party will arrive in Washington Thursday morning.

The nation's capital, which is excited in its anticipation of what the local society editors have labeled with simple reverence THE VISIT, was also near dismay as the result of an unhappy prediction by the weather forecaster.

Heat and Thunderstorms.

A heat wave and an afternoon thunderstorm were the weather bureau's guesses for the arrival, parade, reception, and garden party scheduled for Thursday. A temperature of at least 92 [which means definite discomfort in sultry Washington] is almost certain, according to the prediction, and the thunderstorm, if it develops as predicted, would be just in time to cause disaster at the royal garden party at the British embassy.

Lady Lindsay, wife of the ambassador, ruled that the hot weather might save the American men guests from the ordeal of wearing cutaways at the garden party. While Americans might adopt the comfort of summer whites, Lady Lindsay implied that the true Englishman would never descend to such a level.

As for rain, the ambassador's wife remarked lightly, but not too gaily, slickers and rain capes might be in order. The 700 invited women, who have invested a fortune in flowing garden gowns, shuddered when word spread of this pleasantry.

Won't Tell About Wines.

President Roosevelt was questioned at his press conference this afternoon concerning the brand of wines he would serve at the formal dinner in honor of the king and queen Thursday night. He refused to state whether American wines alone would be poured at the dinner, as had been an-

CHICAGO FACES MILK PRICE RISE UNDER AAA RULE

Foes Mass to Fight U. S. Domination.

Chicago milk consumers are faced with the establishment of a federal marketing agreement binding all producers, distributors, and retailers to maintain an artificial level for milk prices, and with it a substantial increase in the price of fluid milk.

Action to achieve these ends already has been taken by the Chicago Milk Producers' council, an organization claiming in its membership 90 per cent of the milk producers selling to the Chicago market. The action is based upon the Supreme court decisions of Monday upholding the constitutionality of the agricultural marketing agreement act of 1937.

Members of the council said here yesterday that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace since Dec. 20, 1938, has been considering their petition to initiate federal price control in the Chicago milk shed. He has hesitated to act, they said, pending the ruling of the Supreme court in the New York City and Boston milk price control litigation, the cases decided Monday.

Chicago Hearings Start June 15.

Now that federal price control has been approved by the Supreme court, they said, the Agriculture Adjustment administration is prepared to act quickly. Plans have been made, it was learned, for the opening of public hearings in Chicago on June 15 to determine whether federal price control is needed here.

Under the terms of the marketing act federal price control can be initiated in any area if 75 per cent of the milk producers vote in favor of price agreement. It is said that the milk producers' council has informed its members that their votes alone will be sufficient to insure the necessary percentage in Chicago.

Concede Price Increase.

That the appearance of a price control agency in the Chicago market will boost prices to the consumer is conceded by all groups. The producers as well as the city's distributors and retailers believe that milk prices will rise if control is instituted.

In other states where price control is operative the average has been an increase of about 2 cents a quart to the consumer. At the same time the farmers have not benefited from this price increase. Most of the additional sum charged the consumer has been absorbed by the distributor, and the farmer has suffered by a reduction in the general consumption of milk.

Fight on Two Fronts Now.

Entrance of the AAA into the Chicago milk situation can only add another factor to an involved situation. There already are two milk fronts here, namely:

1. In the federal courts where 43 individuals and 14 corporations [including producers, distributors and retailers] are under indictment for alleged plotting to monopolize the Chicago milk market. Oral arguments against these indictments will be heard today and tomorrow before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

2. In the state legislature, where a bill introduced by organized dairy farmers is scheduled to come before the house today on second reading. The dairymen are demanding state control of milk prices as an adjunct to federal control in Chicago.

Prosecution of the defendants in the federal conspiracy case has been lagging, it is understood, because the government finds itself in an anomolous position.

AAA Is Doing Same Thing.

The conspiracy indictments charge that the defendants schemed to hold milk prices at a level fixed by themselves by preventing operations of independent dealers. Yet this is the exact proposal made by the AAA in every instance where a marketing agreement has been initiated.

All the distributors and retailers now under indictment have raised this point in pleadings already on file. If the AAA opens hearings in Chicago to determine the need for a price fixing agreement here the conspiracy case is expected to collapse.

Paul Potter, executive secretary of the Associated Milk Dealers, an organization including in its membership most of the larger distributors in the city, said yesterday that milk dealers have always been opposed to price fixing of any kind.

Predicts Price Fixing Failure.

"Artificial regulation of milk prices elsewhere has failed just as similar regulation of prices of other basic commodities has failed," he said, "If the price of fresh milk in Chicago is fixed by agreement the consumer will resort to the expedient of buying other commodities.

"It's not that the distributors begrudge the farmers a good price for their milk. It's simply that they believe that nobody can arbitrarily enforce prices not subject to the balance of supply and demand."

With these developments yesterday there came a general storm of protest against the Supreme court decisions and the apparent effect of the "packing" of the Supreme court by President Roosevelt.

See Encroachment on Democracy.

In some quarters the condemnation of the court rulings was limited to recognition of the probable increase in Chicago milk prices. The broader view, however, was that the decisions represented dangerous encroachments upon the principles of democracy because they lowered restrictions to governmental regulation of all commerce through price fixing.

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican party in Illinois, took the latter view. He said: "Extension of this idea into other fields leads to socialism. This is a 'foot in the door.' The fact that milk was the commodity for which the price was fixed is not the important thing. If it had been boots, plows, lawnmowers, or breakfast food the result would be the same."

Dwight Green, recent Republican candidate for mayor, whose campaign in the last election resulted in a revival of his party in Chicago, said:

"Yesterday's Supreme court decisions open the door to administrative regulation of many businesses. Experience under the New Deal has shown the capricious nature of such regulation."

G. O. P. Women Vote Protest.

The Women's Republican Club of Illinois voted an indignant protest of the decisions at a meeting yesterday. Mrs. Mabel Krutchkoff, its president, denounced milk price control as the first step in government control of all food prices. The club pledged its influence to fight the milk agreement bill now pending at Springfield.

Mrs. Mary C. O'Hair, 1554 North Dearborn parkway, voiced the attitude of many housewives when she said: "The law is wrong. The farmers will not benefit and the consumers cannot and should not pay more."

George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney at Chicago, said: "The net result of the decisions is that the door is open for more price fixing. The principle is one that will inevitably lead to greater concentration of power in bureaucrats. That's another way of saying citizens will be ruled by arbitrary codes enforced by one man instead of by laws made by themselves and interpreted by the courts."

WHEEL RECORDS OF ANNENBERG IN BY TRUCKLOADS

Hand trucks loaded with books and correspondence of the forty-odd corporations controled by Moses L. Annenberg were wheeled into a room on the fourth floor of the United States courthouse yesterday. The documents are to be inspected by a grand jury investigating the government's claim that Annenberg, millionaire Philadelphia publisher and distributor of racing information, failed to pay taxes on his full income.

District Attorney William J. Campbell said the inquiry would be conducted secretly, with no reports of progress being given out until the jury had made its report. Names of witnesses are to be kept secret.

It is expected that the same grand jury will look into the affairs of William R. Skidmore, McHenry county landowner and reputed fixer for the local gambling syndicates. Skidmore also is alleged to have failed to pay his full share of income taxes.

Gets Separation

Mrs. Marie Novak and her daughter, Mary.

Mrs. Marie Novak, 22 years old, of 5343 South Nordica avenue, yesterday was awarded a decree of separate maintenance from her husband, Joseph, a baker, by Judge William V. Brothers. She also was granted $10 a week support money for their daughter, Mary, a year old.

Mrs. Novak, questioned by Attorney Norman Becker, charged that her husband left her six months after their wedding in June, 1937. Recently, she asserted, he has been following her on the street and at times has employed other persons to shadow her.

It was revealed last week at the inquest into the death of Stanley Zwierzycki, 40, who was shot and killed by Policeman Harold J. Fuhry, that Zwierzycki had been hired by Novak's mother to check up on Mrs. Novak's movements. Fuhry said he shot Zwierzycki in the belief that the man was about to rob him as he sat in his automobile at 45th street and Kildare avenue.

NEAR FIST FIGHT HALTS MILK QUIZ IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Threatened fisticuffs between Representative William T. Schulte [D., Ind.] and Elwood Seal, District of Columbia corporation counsel, broke up a meeting of a house milk investigating committee late today.

The clash started when John S. Barbour, counsel for the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers' association, protested against limitations placed by the committee on cross-examination. Seal also objected.

Schulte asked Seal whether he was representing the people or the milk producers' association. Seal leaped to his feet and shouted: "Shut up. You've made charges by innuendo—you haven't got guts enough to make a statement."

"You're a damned liar," shot back Seal. "I'll punch you in the face before it's over."

"I think the committee has been sold down the river," Schulte replied. "Instead of trying to protect the consumers of the district you are doing everything but that."

"I'd like to knock your damned ears off," shouted Seal.

As Schulte rose to his feet Chairman Joe B. Bates [D., Ky.] adjourned the meeting.

MILK PRODUCER PREPARES FIGHT ON PRICE FIXING

Wisconsin Farmer Hopes to Smash Control.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kaukauna, Wis., June 6.—[Special.]—William Rohan, a farmer and a former Democratic legislator, who has announced he will defy the state's milk price fixing order by selling milk on his farm for 4 cents a quart, was preparing today to handle a rush of business that has been promised him.

Rohan says he will not only sell milk at 4 cents a quart but will comply with every sanitary standard imposed by local or state laws, except that the milk will not be pasteurized. He contracted today for construction of a concrete milk house and equipment which will enable him to insure purity of his product. All of Rohan's cows have been tested for tuberculosis.

Rohan's campaign against price fixing has the approval of most of his Outagamie county farm neighbors and most of the residents, he said today.

Kaukauna is a city of about 6,000 population and Outagamie county, in which it is located, is one of the biggest milk producing counties. The distribution system here is typical of many of the smaller communities in the dairy districts.

Producers Also Distributors.

There are seven distributors with milk routes and each also is a farmer and producer. The retail price fixed by the state in this area is 10 cents a quart and the wholesale price is $1.80 a hundred pounds of approximately forty-five quarts. Dr. W. C. Sullivan, a dentist who operates a farm with about 100 cows, said the wholesale price means nothing.

"Every distributor produces his own milk," he said. "If he gets customers for more milk than he has he buys another cow, but he doesn't buy from any of his farm neighbors." Dr. Sullivan is among those supporting Rohan in opposing price fixing.

Rohan and many of his neighbors believe that the price level which the state maintains for fluid milk reduces consumption and increases the volume of surplus milk which goes to the cheese factories and the condensaries and which pay a much lower rate.

Canned Milk Sales Jump.

Kaukauna storekeepers report that here, as in Milwaukee, condensed milk is replacing fluid milk in many homes. Nic Haupt, who operates one of the downtown stores, said he sells twice as much condensed milk as he does fresh milk.

Ralph Ammons, director of the state department of agriculture and markets, has notified Rohan if he defies the department order he will be prosecuted. Rohan replied that if Ammons interferes with him he will ask for an injunction and try to take the price fixing law to the state Supreme court.

MAYOR ABSENT; COUNCIL DEFERS TODAY'S SESSION

Because of Mayor Kelly's absence from the city, the meeting of the city council scheduled for today has been postponed until next Wednesday. The mayor went to Springfield yesterday afternoon for a conference with legislative leaders.

The council is expected to adjourn for several weeks after its next session while the members take their vacations. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], veteran member of the group, warned aldermen to clear up all pending matters before next week.

FIXING OF MILK PRICES DROPPED AS FAILURE IN '35

Confusion Brought End to 19 Month Test.

BY HOMER NEISZ.

Milk price fixing was tried in Chicago by the federal government nearly six years ago. The experiment was abandoned as a failure after nineteen months of confusion on the part of farmers and milk dealers.

The price control was attempted under the direction of Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, who was given the authority by the first Agricultural Adjustment administration law to set up milk price fixing bureaus in interstate markets.

The first price fixing order went into effect here Aug. 1, 1933. It attempted to set producer, wholesale, and retail prices of milk. It failed because there was no way to keep independent farmers and dealers from selling at cut prices. It proved unpopular with farmers and dealers alike. Producers feared that eventually it would force milk prices higher than consumers could afford to pay.

Unsatisfactory to Producers.

For a year, beginning in 1934, Secretary Wallace tried to fix the price paid to farmers without attempting to fix wholesale and retail prices. That effort proved so unsatisfactory to producers that they asked, and were allowed, to go back to their customary practice of making their own contracts with dealers.

When the first control order went into effect here on Aug. 1, 1933, farmers were being paid $1.75 a hundred pounds for class 1 milk, the milk that is sold in bottles as fluid milk. Consumers were paying 10 cents a quart for delivered milk. The prices to farmers and for retail milk remained unchanged under the control order until Nov. 1 of that year.

Control Breaks Down.

Then the price fixing order was changed to give farmers $2.10 a hundred for class 1 milk. Two days later the retail price jumped to 11 cents a quart.

Control efforts gradually broke down and the order was canceled on Jan. 10, 1934. Prices to farmers dropped the next day to $1.85 a hundred, and on Jan. 19 the retail price was cut to 10 cents a quart.

On Feb. 5 a new price fixing order went into effect, setting only prices paid to farmers. It fixed the farm price at $1.75 a hundred, 10 cents lower than the farmers were getting. The retail price dropped to 9 cents a quart on Feb. 23 and to 8 cents on April 1.

Abandoned March 1, 1935.

The farm price was hiked to $2 a hundred on June 1 and to $2.25 a hundred on July 1. It never again was lower than $2 a hundred while the control order remained in effect. Retail prices went to 9 cents a quart on June 1, 1934, to 10 cents on July 1, and to 11 cents on Jan. 16, 1935. The retail price for delivered milk in Chicago is now 11 cents a quart.

OPERATOR OF ESCORT SERVICE FOR WOMEN DENOUNCED IN COURT

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Ted Peckham heard his business of supplying cash-and-carry escorts to lonely women described as a very serious evil and was fined $250 today for operating an employment agency without a license. He also was given a three month suspended jail term.

His trial in General Sessions court disclosed that a handsome six foot policeman, Thomas Farrell, once had been on the pay roll of the Peckham Guide Escort Service, Inc., which was popularly supposed to have employed only escorts from leading eastern colleges. Farrell joined up to get evidence on Peckham.

SAVE MOTHER FROM GAS DEATH.

Mrs. Beulah Brosius, 27 years old, mother of a son, 7, was revived by firemen yesterday after she was found unconscious from gas. A laundry stove burner in the basement of her home at 10526 South Campbell avenue was open.

229 ARRAIGNED AS GAMBLERS; 228 ARE FREED

It was a big day yesterday for the South State street court when 229 men were arraigned on gambling charges. Never before had such a large number appeared in one day. The previous record was 80.

And Judge Joseph B. Hermes set another record, following the custom of the court, by dismissing 228 because the arrests had been made without warants. The 229th, Alex Ziedman, 2139 South Michigan avenue, accused of raffling $5 and four bottles of whisky in his tavern, obtained a continuance.

All the others were seized in raids on alleged handbooks Monday and over the week-end. Judge Hermes said he thought the large number of raids resulted from the federal grand jury's investigation of the income of M. L. Annenberg, who is said to control the dissemination of race track news.

MILK CZARDOM FAILURE IN EAST, PRODUCERS FIND

N. Y., Boston Price Rule Key to City's Prospects.

Consumers and farmers in two great milk markets, New York and Boston, began months ago to register disapproval of the federal milk price dictatorship that was validated Monday by the United States Supreme court.

Consumers objected to the higher prices. Their protests went unheeded and they took the only course open to them—they reduced their consumption. Last September, in New York alone, the high price level caused consumption of fluid milk to fall off 14,000,000 quarts.

Farmers were angry because they obtained a price increase of only half a cent a quart in New York, while the consumer was forced to pay two cents a quart more. Boston's producers, in general, found the dictated price paid them for fluid milk high enough. But consumption was so restricted, they said, that they had to dispose of most of their production at a sacrifice figure—about one-third of the price set for fluid milk.

Association Asks Program.

The experiences of these two cities may supply a guide to Chicago's prospects if Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, in triumph, sets himself once again to regulate the milk industry here. The matter is not academic. The Pure Milk association, whose members send in most of the city's fluid milk supply, have requested the control.

Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the P. M. A., said yesterday that he believed some action would be started soon on the request as a result of the Supreme court decision. The request for the scheme was made last fall after the federal grand jury indicted many persons and concerns for alleged monopoly practices.

"The court has cleared the way for Wallace," said Lauterbach. "It should be easier now for him to take the first steps toward putting in a marketing agreement."

N. Y. State Rule Fails.

State regulation was tried in New York for several years. It failed. Its proponents declared it was impossible to force farmers to comply with the regulations because much of the milk was shipped in interstate commerce. The state control program was abolished in 1937.

Grade B milk then was selling for 13 cents a quart. Dealers immediately reduced retail prices from 1 to 3 cents a quart. A period of confusion followed. In September, 1938, the federal dictatorship, implemented by a state law, went into effect.

Consumer prices rose sharply. Grade B milk was sold at 13¾ cents a quart. Grade A milk, for which Chicagoans then were paying 12 cents, went to 16¾ cents a quart. In general, price levels were raised 2 or 3 cents a quart.

The prices were held there. After a few months undercurrents of dissatisfaction among farmers reached the expression stage. Suits were filed, in which litigants contended that small farm coöperatives were being unfairly treated.

This was upheld by Federal Judge Frank Cooper, who ruled that the assets of some coöperatives were being confiscated. He held the operation of the milk marketing act illegal. This was the decision which the Supreme court reversed, five to four,

HOUSE TO HEAR EVILS IN CONTROL OF MILK PRICES

Ruehe Will Report Inquiry Results.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Dr. H. A. Ruehe of the University of Illinois school of agriculture will appear before the Illinois house of representatives tomorrow to tell of the economic results of federal and state fixing of milk prices in eastern states and in Wisconsin and Indiana.

The United States Supreme court decision yesterday, opponents of political price fixing pointed out, was solely on the question of constitutionality and not the question of the advisability of federal milk control. The legislature here is deliberating the advisability of a state milk board as proposed in a house bill.

Prof. Ruehe was chairman of a delegation that investigated the results of milk price statutes in other states.

Housewives Pay More.

The delegation agreed that political fixing of prices increased the cost of milk to the housewives. The group included representatives of farmers, consumers, organized labor, and dealers.

The investigation also found that price control did not benefit agriculture in the states involved. The increase received by farmers was solely for that portion of their milk going into bottles. Only a small percentage of farmers sell to this fluid market. Furthermore, a high price for milk to be bottled develops overproduction, and so a larger part of the milk must be sold at the low price of milk for processing.

Representative William G. Thon [R., Chicago] is offering an amendment to the milk board bill to place two consumer members on the board.

As the bill now stands, this board would consist of three producer representatives, three dealers, and the head of the state department of agriculture. The herd owners and the distributors would enforce by law a fixed price for their milk.

ment providing that the milk law shall not be interpreted as repealing criminal statutes prohibiting a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

MEXICAN LABOR CHIEF SEES U. S. AS ALLY IN WAR

Says Workers Will Fight Fascism in Americas.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Vicente Lombardo Toledano.

MEXICO CITY, June 6.—Workers of Mexico will lead the fight against Fascism in Latin American countries and if and when the next world war comes, Mexico will fight side by side with the United States, Vicente Lombardo Toledano, the big boss of Mexican labor, told THE TRIBUNE correspondent in an interview today. The anti-Fascist alliance, as Toledano sees it, will be the United States, Great Britain, soviet Russia, and France.

Lombardo Toledano is a surprising fellow, not at all the domineering boss type. He has the bearing of a professor, and is a smart politician and leader. As leader of the C. T. M. [Confederation of Workers of Mexico] and right hand man of President Lazaro Cardenas, he takes second place only to Cardenas as the biggest man of Mexico.

Sees Strength in Reds.

Lombardo Toledano believes that the possible alliance of soviet Russia with Great Britain and France against the totalitarian states "would render our fight against Fascism in Latin America much easier." This is because, he said, "an emormous force such as that of the soviet would assure the dominance of the alliance powers over Fascism."

The labor chieftain then referred to what he called the inroads of Fascism in Central and South America. He said:

"The Confederation of Workers of Latin America [of which he is president] is working diligently in all of these countries to organize the workers and to prepare them for the struggle against Fascism. I have maintained that in the next world war we could not be neutral and that the workers of Mexico would be fighting on the side of the United States against totalitarian states."

True of All Latins.

Asked whether he believed that would be true of all Latin American countries he said:

"Yes, I do, because even if some government does not want to, the workers and people of that country will force the government to do so."

The Mexican Workers' confederation also is working earnestly in behalf of refugee Spanish Republicans [Loyalists].

"About 25,000 Spanish Loyalist immigrants will come to Mexico in the next few months," Lombardo Toledano said. "The first group of 1,650 will arrive at Vera Cruz on June 11. The C. T. M. will stage a giant manifestation of welcome to these people by 20,000 C. T. M. workers of that port."

Charter Ferry Transport.

The labor chief said the second large number of Spanish refugees would arrive at Vera Cruz on June 20 and added that the steamer Mexique had been chartered to devote three months exclusively to the transport of Spanish Loyalists from France.

Concerning reports that Franco [Fascist] sympathizers in Mexico will combat the admission of the Spanish Loyalists and that a clash is likely to result at Vera Cruz, Lombardo Toledano said:

"We know of no opposition. Of course, there is the opposition on paper, headed by straggling groups with Fascist leanings and political aspirations, but they are not important."

The labor chieftain fairly bristled when the correspondent mentioned current talk that the C. T. M. is losing strength and beginning to break up.

Has 975,000 Members.

"The C. T. M. has not lost a single member, and people who think it will only hope so," he declared. "We have as many members as ever. The exact number, according to a count we have just finished, is 975,000 members."

The C. T. M. is the chief support of President Cardenas and his National Revolutionary party which is the only party allowed to exist in Mexico. Concerning the recent defections of groups within the party and the resignation of Luis I. Rodriguez, the party president, the labor leader said:

"The party troubles date back to political difficulties that only now are reaching a climax. Rodriguez's resignation will be accepted and his substitute appointed around July 1. That substitute will head the party until a permanent successor is chosen in the November convention of the party."

Discussing Mexico's economic situation and the government's expropriation program, Lombardo Toledano said he did not believe the elimination of private property was Mexico's intention, but he added, "at least, not at this time. I cannot predict what turns history will take at some distant future time."

Justifies Expropriations.

"It is an error to believe, as many people of the United States do, that expropriation on the part of Mexico is a theory, and one to be used consistently until all private property is eliminated," he said.

"That is indeed not true. Each expropriation carried out by this country has been justified in itself. The landowners wanted to continue with the feudal system. But the Revolutionary constitution of 1917 set forth clearly that feudalism in Mexico should be replaced with a more just order of things.

"The oil companies refused to abide by the dictates of the Supreme court and the government had no recourse but expropriation under such circumstances. Sugar plantations were expropriated, not as a result of a theory, but rather because the employers refused to abide by the labor law and often because they refused to pay their workers in full."

Gets Year in Prison for Operating a Still

Nicholas Perry, 35 years old, of Hazelcrest, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan to one year in the penitentiary for operating an illicit still at Marley, in Will county. Michael Cifone, 40, and Albert La Borance, 31, who were convicted Monday, will be sentenced later.

ILLINOIS HOUSE BOOSTS AGE AID DESPITE WARNING

Vote Called Menace to Federal Help.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—In the face of a warning from the social security board the Illinois house today decided to fix the state's monthly old age pension at a minimum of $30. The vote was 105 to 10.

The $30 minimum was voted despite the warning of H. L. McCarthy, regional director of he social security board, that the federal government would not continue to help the pension funds if such a bill were passed.

McCarthy made this clear before the public welfare committee and again in Chicago tonight. He said federal law requires that pensions be paid on a basis of need. A flat minimum does not contemplate need, the regional director declared.

Boyle Warns Against Cost.

At present the state is paying an average pension of about $19 to 131,000 persons on its old age pension rolls. James P. Boyle [D., Chicago] told the house that applications for inclusion on the roll are coming in at the rate of 1,500 a month.

The new bill means that the state would provide any sum necessary to augment private funds to a total of $30. If a person were destitute, the entire sum would be provided; if, for example, private resources totaled $12, the state would furnish $18.

Boyle warned the house that the measure would cost the state an additional $40,000,000 for the coming two years. The total appropriation for the current biennium is $54,000,000, Boyle said, and enactment of the bill therefore would bring the cost of caring for the aged to $94,000,000 during 1939-1941.

"The money just isn't in sight," Boyle added.

Fears 75,000 Will Lose Pensions.

Joseph Sam Perry [D., Wheaton] apparently had McCarthy's warning in mind when he told the house:

"If you pass this bill you will deprive 75,000 old age pensioners of their pensions unless you raise money to take care of the increase."

Republicans voted almost to a man for the measure, doing so, they said, to redeem a platform plank adopted at the G. O. P. state convention in Peoria last summer. Several Democrats braved frowns from the administration and backed the measure.

Oral P. Tuttle [R., Harrisburg], who handled the measure for the public welfare committee, told the members that if they voted against it they faced political annihilation.

"If you vote against this bill, you'll be left at home next time," Tuttle asserted.

Linn Prefers Ruin.

"If that's the case, I prefer political ruin," retorted James Weber Linn [D., Chicago]. "My father supported himself until he was 72, then I supported him until he died at 86. But I didn't lie to him about what I could do for him.

"Every member who votes for this bill his voice is lying to the old people of Illinois; he knows the money to pay this pension is not there."

In response to assertions that the social security board would not approve a $30 minimum, Leo D. Crowley [R., Peoria], said similar pensions are in effect in Colorado and Wisconsin.

"And the board has approved them," Crowley stated.

McCarthy Challenges Argument.

From Chicago, McCarthy challenged Crowley's remarks, saying:

"Wisconsin has a $30 maximum and payments are based upon need. Colorado has a $45 maximum, but payments there also are based upon need. If the Illinois bill is passed, the government will withdraw its matching funds."

The measure now goes to the senate.

200 Volunteers Put Out Bush Fire; Save Colony

RIMOUSKI, Que., June 6.—(AP)—More than 200 volunteer fire fighters of the newly colonized village of Esprit, thirty-five miles south of here, tonight brought under control a brush fire which had destroyed fourteen buildings. For a time the fire threatened destruction of the entire settlement. Damage was estimated at about $100,000.

ADVANCE BILLS TO REDISTRICT STATE PROPERLY

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Bills to redistrict Illinois so that Cook county would get its proper representation in the legislature and congress on the basis of population were advanced to second reading in the state senate today.

Introduced in January, the bills were not reported out by the committee on reapportionment until today. Senator Harold G. Ward, Mayor Edward J. Kelly's legislative spokesman, at once moved that they be placed on second reading. No objection was heard from downstaters who since 1901 have blocked every attempt to reapportion the state as required by the constitution.

Under the bills, Cook county would get twenty-six state senators, as compared with nineteen at present, out of the total of fifty-one. It would have eighty-six instead of fifty-seven state representatives. Of twenty-seven congressmen Cook county would get thirteen and continue to share one more with the voters just to the north. Cook county now has nine congressmen and shares a tenth with Lake county.

SEPARATE PRISON FOR ST. CHARLES TOUGHS IS ASKED

Senate Gets Four Bills from Committee.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Construction of a reformatory to confine incorrigibles now in the St. Charles School for Boys is sought in one of four bills introduced in the senate today. The measure was presented by a committee that investigated the unwalled institution.

The four bills were advanced to second reading without reference to a standing committee. They provide that both the new and the present institutions would be known as the Illinois Training School for Boys. The state department of public welfare would have authority to decide which boys should be sent to each place.

Offenders more than 19 years of age would not be admitted. Juveniles from 10 to 21 years old now mingle at St. Charles.

A state commission of five senators, five representatives, and five citizens would select the site for the proposed reformatory.

Start of Building Asked.

An appropriation of $250,000 is asked to purchase the land and start construction. Money to complete the project will not be needed until the next general assembly convenes about a year and a half from now, it is felt.

The state parole board would lose all jurisdiction over boys sent to the two-section training school. At present there is divided responsibility and a double standard. The board has charge of inmates sentenced to St. Charles by the Criminal court of Cook county and Circuit courts downstate, while the school staff paroles those committed by the Juvenile court of Cook county and County courts downstate. All paroles under the new setup would be issued by the school administration.

Courts would retain jurisdiction over inmates of the school up to the time of their discharge. If an inmate did not improve by the time he reached 21, he would not be automatically discharged as now, but would be taken back to the court for sentence to another institution. This would correct one condition criticized by school authorities.

Three Classes Defined.

A three-way classification of delinquents would replace the present definition in the state statutes, distinguishing between vicious and mischievous boys. The three classes would be as follows:

1. Criminal delinquents, boys between the ages of 10 and 19, who have committed felonies.
2. Criminally inclined delinquents, aged 10 to 19, who are found guilty of misdemeanors.
3. Delinquents, boys who run away from home, frequent taverns or gambling places, steal rides on trains, or otherwise show a need for corrective training.

Authority would be taken away from the Juvenile court in felony cases. Criticism has been made of social workers' sob sister activities around the court.

All members of the legislature today found on their desks copies of the committee report. It includes statistical material that sheds light on the problem of juvenile crime.

RONDOUT BANDIT GETS 25 YEARS AS BANK ROBBER

James E. Murray, former west side politician and a paroled convict, was sentenced yesterday in Pittsburgh, Pa., to twenty-five years in a federal penitentiary by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson, for his part in the $111,000 robbery of the People's National Bank of Clintonville, Pa., last Oct. 14. Murray, who is 52 years old, served a prison term for participating in the 2 million dollar Rondout, Ill., mail train holdup in 1924. He was paroled in 1930.

Murray was arrested in Chicago on April 16. He was accused of driving the bandit car in the bank robbery. He denied the charge and asserted he was in Chicago on the day of the crime. Approximately $100,000 in securities taken from the bank was recovered by federal agents, who said they were led to the buried loot in Lawrence county, Pa., by George Slade, now a prisoner in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. Slade pleaded guilty to the robbery. John Dorsch of Joliet, accused of being a third member of the gang, will be tried in September.

G. O. P. JUDGESHIP VICTORIES HELD GOOD 1940 OMEN

Declare 15 Gains in State Offset City Loss.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Politicians sought yesterday to interpret Tuesday's judicial elections in terms of 1940 political trends. Although judges are elected in June to keep bench elections aloof from party politics in general elections, political camps regarded the results as a barometer.

Republicans, pointing to gains of fifteen circuit judgeships in the seventeen districts outside Cook county, contended that the vote followed the Republican trend of recent elections in downstate Illinois. Democrats pointed to the election of Judge Loren E. Murphy, Democrat, to the Supreme court in the 4th supreme district and to the landslide in Cook county for the Democratic fusion ticket.

G. O. P. Takes the Long End.

In the election of fifty-one circuit judges in the seventeen downstate districts, three judges to a district, the voters picked thirty Republicans and twenty-one Democrats. It was a reversal of results six years ago, the last circuit bench election, when the count stood fifteen Republicans and thirty-six Democrats. Nine Democratic judges were defeated. Republican tickets swept northern Illinois, traditional G. O. P. areas; gained in central Illinois, and picked up a seat in the Cairo district in the toe of Illinois. Democrats predominated in the area south of Springfield.

Republicans elected all three judges in seven circuits, two in each of four others, and one in southern Illinois. Democrats elected all three judges in five districts, two in one district, and one each in four others. Chief upset was the Bloomington district, where all three sitting Democrats, Judges Chalmer C. Taylor, Bloomington; Frank A. Ortman of Pontiac, and Horace H. Baker of El Paso were beaten.

Judge Wilson Is Ousted.

Judge Edwin L. Wilson of Joliet, whose injunctions protecting slot machines and law-violating saloons constituted the chief issue in the 12th circuit, was beaten.

Other Democratic judges defeated were Grendel F. Bennett of Marshall, John H. Armstrong of Champaign, Francis J. Coyle of Moline, and Albert H. Manus of Freeport.

As to whether June judicial elections reflect political trends, figures on the three elections in the last twelve years are interesting. In the 1927 Circuit court election forty out of fifty-one judges elected were Republicans. The tide at that time was Republican and next year Hoover carried Illinois by 455,000. In 1933 Democrats elected thirty-six of the fifty-one judges. This was the year after the landslide in which Illinois gave Roosevelt 449,000 plurality. In the 1933 judicial election Illinois voted four to one for repeal of national prohibition and the wet landslide was shown in the election of judges.

G. O. P. managers maintain the Republican swing was manifest Tuesday in the downstate circuit elections.

A. K. Stiles, Republican state chairman, talked with John M. Hamilton national G. O. P. chairman, by telephone yesterday. Both men declared the results in downstate Illinois on circuit judges indicated the swing toward the Republicans is increasing.

Democrats held the election of Judge Murphy to the Supreme court gave a different aspect to 1940 theorizing. In Springfield Harry Hershey, Democratic state chairman, said: "The results of Tuesday's elections constitute a repudiation by the voters of the efforts of certain leaders of the Republican party to inject partisan issues in judicial contests."

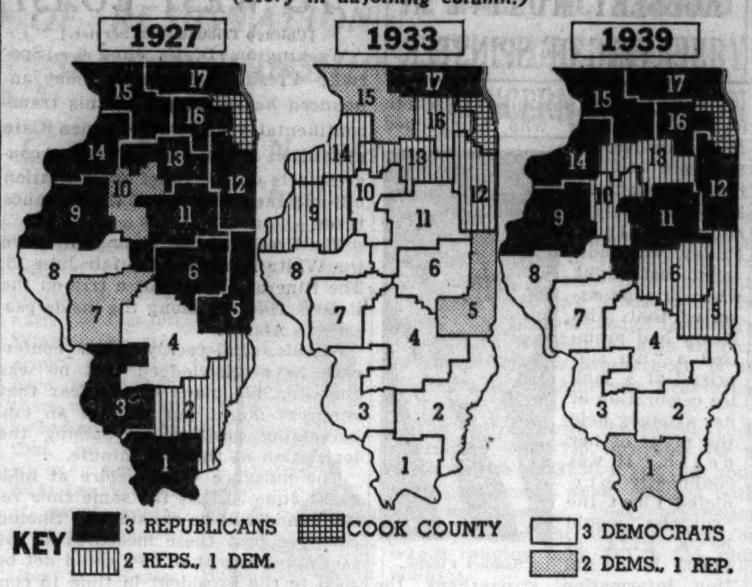
(Story in adjoining column.)



Three maps of Illinois Circuit court districts (designated by numbers) which tell the story of the fall and rise of Republican strength in the last three judicial elections. Each district has three judges; the maps indicate how the two major parties fared in them in 1927, 1933, and this year.

ARCHIBALD MACLEISH TO BE NOMINATED AS CONGRESS LIBRARIAN

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Archibald MacLeish, poet son of a Chicago merchant, is to be named librarian of congress, President Roosevelt announced today. The President also said MacLeish is a graduate in law as well as being an outstanding poet and editor, and is well equipped from the business standpoint.

EDDIE CANTOR MAY BE SAD IF HE READS THIS

HAMILTON, Bermuda, June 6.—A woman witness in describing an assailant in the Trinity Assizes Supreme court told Acting Chief Justice R. S. Hollis Hallett today that the "man's teeth were enormous and his eyes looked like Eddie Cantor's."

"I'm afraid I don't know Mr. Cantor," said the judge.

"What!" exclaimed the witness, "you don't know Eddie Cantor, the screen and radio star?"

The court replied that the witness might take his word for it that "judges don't know anything."

C. K. SCHWARTZ IS RENAMED TO TAX COMMISSION

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—(AP)—Gov. Horner today reappointed Charles K. Schwartz of Chicago and other members of the state tax commission. This put at rest reports that Schwartz might be named chairman of the Illinois commerce commission to succeed James M. Slattery, now United States senator.

Simeon E. Leland of Chicago, and C. W. Terry of Edwardsville were named for two year terms on the tax commission.

Martin J. O'Brien was renamed public administrator of Cook county.

W. C. Jones of Streator was renominated as chairman of the state board of pardons and paroles.

The nominations supplement more than 50 code department appointment made by Gov. Horner in May. All await confirmation by the senate.

ELECTION BOARD TALLIES COUNTY JUDICIAL VOTE

Canvass Expected to Be Completed Tomorrow.

The official canvass of the county judicial election will be completed tomorrow and the official proclamation of winners is expected a week from today. The canvass was started yesterday.

Comparative showings of the candidates found Judge Cornelius J. Harrington leading all the sitting judges in the Circuit court.

Judge Harrington was elected to a vacancy in that court in 1934, but ran ahead of both the Democratic and Republican veterans, including long service judges such as Judge Kickham Scanlan, who has been on the bench since 1909, and Judge David F. Matchett, who has served since 1915. Harrington was the youngest man on his ticket.

John F. Haas, Republican, running on the Democratic ticket for the Harry B. Miller vacancy, received the highest total vote cast in the election. Experts say that a candidate in a two man contest always receives more votes than he would if he were one of a group, such as the Circuit court twenty, but it also brought comment that Haas' name was the last on the entire roster of twenty-six on the Democratic slate.

Like his namesake, the late Joseph F. Haas, a veteran Deneen leader. Judge Haas always has been known as a remarkable vote getter. After serving three terms in the Municipal court he was defeated for reëlection in 1934 along with the rest of his ticket. But in that year, again in 1936, and again last year he led all the G. O. P. candidates for the Municipal court.

The highest man on the Republican Circuit court ticket was Harry S. Ditchburne. The incomplete unofficial returns showed him more than 250,000 behind Harrington, the top of the Democratic ticket.

Judge Michael Feinberg ran last among the Circuit court candidates on the Democratic ticket, but apparently ran ahead of Ditchburne by more than 200,000.

TEACHERS TURN ON HEAT TO PASS PAY BOOST BILL

Union Starts Letter Wave Toward Springfield.

A new wave of letters from the 8,500 members of the Chicago Teachers' union and their friends is about to engulf the house of representatives at Springfield.

The union is urging the passage there of its bill to increase the board of education pegged levy from $48,000,000 to $52,000,000. Known as senate bill 325, the measure provides for the full restoration of teachers' salaries, which are a little less than 10 per cent below pre-depression levels.

Since the bill was passed by the senate early in May, the teacher pressure groups, including the union and its close ally, the Illinois Education association, have maintained a constant lobby to push the measure through the house. It is now before the house municipalities committee.

Receive Fresh Orders.

John M. Fewkes, president of the union, and Miss Helen E. Taggart, vice president, were in Springfield yesterday directing the lobby. They are on leaves of absence from their schools.

Members of the union received fresh orders through the mail from Fewkes yesterday. A mimeographed note said the bill is "NOT dead or doomed . . . our efforts to get it passed must be redoubled NOW, THIS WEEK, if we are to get pay restoration before 1942."

Instructions for Members.

The order continued with three specific instructions to members. They were:

1. Write your home representative. Give your home address on the letter. Do this now.

2. Sign yourself as a real estate taxpayer, if you are one. Get your friends and relatives who are real estate taxpayers to write letters to their representatives.

3. If you know downstate legislators, write them. Get your downstate relatives and friends to write their representatives.

Linn Gets 7,000 Letters.

Similar instructions have been included in each issue of the Chicago Teachers' union weekly bulletin since the bill was introduced. The Illinois Education association has carried on a similar attack through its 9,783 Chicago members. Many of those members are also union members.

2 Teacher Union Officers Dropped by Proviso Board

Harry T. Ewert, president of the Proviso Township High school board, announced yesterday that contracts of two teachers, officials of the teachers' union, have not been renewed for next year. The two are Ralph W. Marshall, history instructor, and president of the union, and Miss Mary Wheeler, girls' athletic instructor, union vice president.

New Probate Clerk

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell (left) swearing in Frank Lyman as clerk of the Probate court.

Frank Lyman, secretary of the Chicago Park district and veteran Democratic committeeman of the 48th ward, was appointed clerk of the Probate court yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Lyman fills the vacancy caused by the death of Mitchell C. Robin on May 31.

Lyman, who is 47 years old, is president of the W. H. Lyman Construction company at 140 South Dearborn street. His father, William H. Lyman, was an alderman of the old 22d ward, and also served as a state representative. In 1932 Lyman was appointed superintendent of the Lincoln Park district. When the Chicago parks were consolidated in 1935, he became secretary of the new park district. Lyman will hold office as probate clerk until the general county elections in November, 1940.

BAR ASKS WRIT AGAINST SALES TAX COUNSELOR

Earl G. Teeter, tax counsel for the United Taxpayers of America, was charged with the unauthorized practice of law in sales tax refund cases in a suit filed in the Superior court yesterday by the Chicago Bar association. The bar association asked an injunction restraining Teeter from practicing law and from soliciting business and collecting fees in tax refund matters.

The bar association asserted that the United Taxpayers of America, reputedly a nonprofit association of taxpayers, in reality is a dummy corporation which masks Teeter's activities in soliciting tax refund claims.

In particular, the bar association asserted that Teeter, although not a lawyer, has practiced law in connection with the decision of the state Supreme court last year which makes probable the refund of more than $6,000,000 to building contractors who had been compelled illegally to pay that much in state sales taxes.

Teeter declared yesterday that there is no basis for the action against him.

HOLD POLICEMAN FOR SLAYING OF SCHOOLGIRL, 14

Self-Defense Claimed by Trooper.

Leighton, Pa., June 6.—[Special.]—A Pennsylvania state policeman was held in $5,000 bail on a charge of homicide tonight in the slaying of Jean Stephens, 14 years old, a seventh grade schoolgirl in nearby Nesquehoning.

The girl was shot to death last night when seated in a state police car being questioned, Corporal Benjamin Franklin said, about a tip on a bank robbery which she had offered. After the shooting her body lay in a morgue for twelve hours before her parents learned of the tragedy.

Maj. William A. Clark of the state police said Corporal Franklin, who is 33 years old, shot the young girl in self-defense.

"We had questionad her a couple of times," Franklin told his superior officers, "and she had volunteered information about recent holdups. Last night Private Edward J. Switaj and I met her about 9:30 o'clock. She got in our car and we parked on School street. She sat in the back seat alone.

"While we were questioning her she suddenly drew an automatic pistol from her purse and shouted: 'I'll blow your heads off!'"

Corporal Franklin drew his gun, Maj. Clark said, whirled and fired about four shots into the schoolgirl's chest. Others said the victim was shot six times. She died in a few minutes.

Neighbors said the girl was well regarded in Nesquehoning, a mining community of 4,000 population.

SEE STRENGTHENING OF ROBBERY MOTIVE IN SLAYING OF SPINSTER

Samuel Pincus.

The trend of a possible new search for the strangler who bludgeoned Miss Rose Neary, 50 years old, in her apartment at 3248 Franklin boulevard last Friday, was indicated last night when friends asserted that Miss Neary had promised a "big surprise" at a jubilee celebration of her synagog held the night of her death. It was confidently predicted that the "surprise" would be a gift of $1,000 in cash. This information strengthens the theory that robbery may have been the motive.

Miss Neary's will was offered for probate yesterday by her attorney, Samuel Z. Pincus. Pincus drew the will, was named executor in it, and one of the witnesses was his secretary. It estimated her estate at $50,000.

Two of Miss Neary's safety deposit boxes were opened yesterday and proved to be empty. A third will be opened today. A suspected fourth is still being sought.

PRESIDENT WILL POSTPONE JAUNT TO WEST COAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today announced he would put off his transcontinental visit to the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco until congress acts on the relief appropriation bill and the extension of the nuisance taxes.

The President had planned to leave the White House for the fair June 15. The itinerary called for a trip on the U. S. S. Houston along the inside passage to Alaska.

At his semi-weekly press conference he acknowledged that he was changing his plans out of fear that congress might put him in an embarrassing position by passing the legislation at the last minute.

The nuisance taxes expire at midnight June 30. At the same time relief funds will be exhausted. Should congress pass these measures at the last minute so that they could not be sped to the President in time to continue the flow of funds the onus would fall on the President. June 30 is the end of the fiscal year.

Bill for Each Square Inch of Illinois' House Calendar

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Today's house calendar measured 338 square inches and contained 397 bills, a record for the session. One thousand one hundred and eighteen house bills have been introduced, 109 more than at the corresponding date last session. The senate has 554 bills. Less than four weeks of the session remain and a big push to pass measures will probably start next week.

BOWMAN'S SOFKURD VITAMIN D MILK

● Bowman's Sofkurd Vitamin D Milk differs from ordinary milks in two important ways.

First, it's mineral-modified by the Sofkurd process. This special treatment makes the pure, fresh cows' milk even more digestible . . . quickly and easily digestible, even for infants and people with "delicate" stomachs.

Second, Bowman's Sofkurd Vitamin D Milk is rich in the Sunshine Vitamin . . . helps to keep teeth and bones strong and healthy.

Air Conditioning Proves Its Worth Again.

While thermometer readings in Chicagoland yesterday ranged from 78 to 96 degrees because of the vagaries of Lake Michigan's own cooling system the temperature in air conditioned Tribune Tower remained at an even, comfortable 75.

THE TRIBUNE'S modern system of air conditioning controls the temperature, humidity, purity, and circulation of the air in the tower and brings coolness to the thousands of men and women working there. This is the sixth year of its use.

North Shore 18 Degrees Cooler.

Yesterday's temperatures in the Chicago district varied in proportion to the distance from Lake Michigan. At 3 p. m. the temperatures ranged from 78 degrees in Wilmette, Winnetka, and Highland Park to 96 degrees in Blue Island—a difference of 18 degrees.

Districts to the south sweltered. In Flossmoor the maximum was 94 degrees, and in Harvey, Homewood, and Chicago Heights it was 93. To the west, Brookfield reported 94, the Chicago airport 92, Oak Park, 91, and Willow Springs and Elmhurst 90. At Libertyville the maximum was 90. Out in the lake, the old Chicago coast guard station reading was 81 The maximum at the official weather bureau station was 89 degrees, reached at 4:50 p. m.

Pays Dividends in Health.

In addition to providing pleasant working conditions, THE TRIBUNE'S air conditioning system has paid big dividends in health. A survey made by J. P. Kreutzer, head of the Tribune Employés' Benefit Plan department, showed that the number of working days lost by sickness of employés has decreased since the system was installed in 1934.

"There has been a marked decrease in the number of cases of heat exhaustion in summer in the Tribune plant since the air conditioning system was installed," Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university medical school and THE TRIBUNE'S health adviser, said yesterday. "There is no question but that a reduction of temperatures on hot days—so long as it doesn't exceed 15 degrees—is beneficial to health and body efficiency."

THE TRIBUNE'S system is designed to reduce the temperature in the tower 15 degrees below the mercury reading outdoors. Occupants of tower offices, however, control the degree of coolness in their rooms. A twist of the wrist does it.

BRITISH TO BUY U. S. MOTORS TO GET PLANES UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—In what is described as a drastic snub to British civil aviation, Imperial Airways today decided to buy American engines in order to get its fleet of fourteen grounded transport planes into the air.

Costing $3,750,000, the planes have been standing idle for five months. Powered by 875 horse power British Tiger engines, one plane turned back twice in the first week with engine trouble. Five were flown a few weeks and then all were grounded as unsatisfactory.

Special government permission had to be obtained to buy the engines. The American motors are to be Wright cyclone, 1,000 horse power models. Newspapers described the purchase as the severest blow to British aviation since British Airways sold a fleet of planes and bought American ones.

SCHOOL ADVISERS STUDY CHARGES OF SUPPLY DEALS

Mayor Kelly's citizens' advisory committee on school affairs met yesterday in the offices of Lester N. Selig, a committee member. Although Dean W. F. Clarke of De Paul university law school, committee chairman, refused to comment after the meeting, it was learned that the seven members present discussed recent charges that the board of education was buying supplies and services from dummy and politically controled companies. The committee decided to seek an early appointment with the mayor.

It has been learned that some members of the committee have asked Mayor Kelly to request the resignation of James B. McCahey, school board president. It also is known that some of the committee will resign if their request for an investigation of the purchasing charges is not acted on by the mayor. All members of the committee were present yesterday except Prof. James Weber Linn and George A. McKinley.

BRIGGS COMPANY AND C. I. O. AGREE TO END STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—(AP)—James F. Dewey, federal mediator, announced tonight that management and union had agreed to settlement of the C. I. O.-United Automobile Workers' strike at the Briggs Manufacturing plant, which has kept more than 70,000 men idle.

The conciliator said the settlement terms would be drawn up later by conferees from both sides.

Dewey said another conference would be called tomorrow. Subsequently, he said, the union will decide whether to ratify the terms of a mass-meeting. Briggs officials indicated their seven plants would be reopened Thursday in event of ratification.

BELATED LETTER OF RESIGNATION SENT BY WINSHIP

Leahy Already Named Porto Rico Chief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today accepted the resignation of Blanton Winship as governor of Porto Rico more than three weeks after he had announced that he would name Admiral W. D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, to the post.

William D. Leahy [upper] and Blanton Winship

At the same time Mr. Roosevelt sent the nomination of the admiral to the senate. Leahy will take over the governorship of the island about Sept. 1 as the navy initiates plans to make the island an American Gibraltar in the Caribbean sea. The President's announcement May 12 that he would appoint Leahy because Winship had long expressed a desire to retire came as a surprise to Winship. He delayed until June 3 the writing of the resignation and Mr. Roosevelt accepted it as soon as it reached the White House.

Winship's virtually forced resignation was attributed here to the friction between him and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, overseer of the island.

In his letter of resignation Gov. Winship said that he was deeply gratified over the selection of Admiral Leahy to succeed him. The admiral will be the first navy man named a territorial governor in a line of army and civilian executives. Winship is a retired general officer of the army.

In the letter accepting the resignation Mr. Roosevelt wrote:

"I am sure that you already know of my high regard for you personally and officially, but I cannot refrain at this time from expressing my appreciation of your long and distinguished career in the service of your government. This applies not only to your work in Porto Rico but to other special and difficult assignments that you have had previously, and which so remarkably equipped you for the governorship of Porto Rico."

CORKING BOTTLE-NEWS

By CALEB

AMONG the earliest of American crafts was that of the glassmaker—the first factory of record having flourished in 1639, and briefly thereafter, in Salem, Mass. Another factory, referred to as the first "successful" one, began operating in Wistarberg, N. J. in 1739; and the two oldest still surviving, are at Kensington, Pa., and Glassboro, N. J.—the latter founded in 1775.

As early as 1808, and continuing into the 1870's, bottles and flasks, in hundreds of half-pint and quart-size varieties, began issuing from the glassmakers' engraved metal moulds. In their day, moreover, these served not merely the utilitarian purpose of containers, but played the commemorative role for places, persons and events delegated, in our own time, to the ubiquitous stamp.

That's why collectors' mouths water over such delectables as the Jenny Lind portrait blown into Kensington flasks of the great singer's day—the Zachary Taylor bottle, bearing the slogan, "Taylor Never Surrenders"—the lovely aqua-colored flask known as the "Flower Basket" . . . product of the Lancaster Glass Works . . . the "Pike's Peak" flask, celebrating the first successful passage of the Rocky Mountains—and numerous others . . .

Visitors in our south Wabash second-floor Collectors' Room find many similar to these trophies displayed in all their splendor, "Sunburst" bottles in deep warm amber, bearing the magic word Keane. "Columbia," "Eagle," "Liberty," "Violin," "Hunter and Fisherman" flasks. The "Calabash," with sheared or collar top, plain or beautifully swirled. Apothecary bottles; lovely three-mold decanters, with the original stoppers; flasks with single or double cornucopia pattern—perhaps enhanced by the prized eagle-and-stars . . . Prizes all—in the favorite early tints of olive, light green, brown, blue, or clear glass.

Characteristic of all treasure-hunting among the yesterdays for today's connoisseur-customers, are the adventuresome thrills we ourselves experience. And when we see the satisfaction-glint rekindled in some veteran collector's eye—we know the search, however arduous, has been rewarded in more than figures on a sales-slip!

CONSTIPATED?
Don't Let Gas, Nerve Pressure Keep You Miserable

When you are constipated two things happen. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, bilious spells, loss of appetite, and dizziness. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, acid indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. Then you can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy, and miserable. Adlerika gives you the DOUBLE ACTION you need. This efficient carminative cathartic relieves that awful GAS almost at once. It usually clears the bowels in less than two hours. No waiting for overnight relief.

HULL AND PARTY GREET KING AT BORDER TONIGHT

A corps of workmen spent today decorating the royal parade route with American and British shields and flags. Every street light post carried these emblems. Enthusiastic shopkeepers along Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, and Connecticut avenues added their efforts, with not a few banners carrying the legend "God Save the King" in large letters.

Prepare to Handle Crowds.

Police were completing detailed plans for handling the crowds that are expected to line the parade route. Parking will be prohibited and all street car, bus, and motor trafic will be blocked whenever the king and queen are traveling about the city.

This means that the citizenry may as well resign themselves to a pedestrian status because the visitors will spend an hour sightseeing after the noon parade and then will again leave the White House for their trip to the British embassy.

All District of Columbia and government offices as well as most stores will be closed for four hours Thursday in order that no Washingtonian may be barred from getting a glimpse of royalty. The battling for favored seats at strategic points along the routes of their majesties' travel continued up to the zero hour.

Invitation List Closed.

The invitation list to the most coveted honor of all—the British embassy garden party—was closed today with approximately 1,400 guests included. Even in the spacious embassy grounds, the spectacle will probably resemble that of a hot Sunday afternoon in a city park, it was admitted.

State department officials asserted that the royal visit would not cost the government more than $15,000. This calculation seemed low, but the officials said that the luncheon and dinner at the White House were not expected to cost large sums. The trip to Mount Vernon on Friday will be made on the presidential yacht Potomac, and the entertaining at the British embassy will be at the expense of the British government.

Representative Martin L. Sweeney [D., O.], who has denounced the royal visit, made his own estimate of the cost based on calculations of what it will cost for the army, navy, and marine corps demonstration and the cost of letting government employés off to witness it. He reached the figure of $300,000.

Mrs. Hull to Be Present.

In the group with Secretary Hull and Ambassador Lindsay who will welcome the king and queen at the United States-Canadian border tomorrow night will be Mrs. Hull, only woman member of the party; George T. Summerlin, state department chief of protocol [authority on diplomatic customs]; Cecil W. Gray, assistant to the secretary of state; Michael J. McDermott, chief of the state department division of information; Robert C. Bannerman, state department chief special agent, and George W. Renchard of the state department.

This committee will meet the royal train when it crosses the border at the Niagara Falls suspension bridge station at 8:35 p. m. tomorrow night. The king and queen will descend from the train for a brief welcoming ceremony. Sir Ronald will present Secretary and Mrs. Hull to the king and queen and then Mr. Hull will introduce other members of the committee. As soon as the introductions are over the committee will board the royal train which will proceed immediately to Washington, arriving here at 11 a. m. Thursday.

GARAGE OWNER IS INVITED TO MEET ROYALTY

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Roy Macdonald Syme, 27 years old, a garage owner of East Orange, N. J., today revealed he had received a special invitation for himself and his wife to be presented to King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England on Saturday when they visit the British pavilion at the world's fair here.

Mr. and Mrs. Syme wrote to the royal party at Vancouver, B. C., several days ago asking for passes to the British pavilion so they might be "close enough to see their royal majesties." Syme received a reply from Sir Louis Beale, British commissioner general at the fair, inviting them to meet the king and queen in person. Sir Louis said that the queen had requested the meeting.

Syme's grandfather was station master at Glamis, Scotland, the queen's childhood home, for twenty-six years. During his youth in England he was an ammunition carrier to the prince of Wales, now duke of Windsor.

DETROITERS JAM WINDSOR TO SEE KING AND QUEEN

Royal Party Crosses Into U. S. Late Today.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINDSOR, Ont., June 6.—The Canadian-American reception of King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain at Windsor tonight rivaled in size and enthusiasm anything produced during the royal tour of Canada. It was considered a forerunner of the visit of their Britannic majesties to the United States, which begins tomorrow night at Niagara Falls.

Beginning at Sudbury early this morning, running through the populous section of southwestern Ontario, the king and queen were seen by well over a million and a half people. The crowd at Windsor, normally a city of 100,000 population, was estimated anywhere from half a million up, more than half of them Americans. American visitors had been registering here from many states for days and Detroit poured its people in all day at the rate of 30,000 an hour.

Extends Far Along Tracks.

The welcome was concentrated at the Canadian National Railways station, but spread from there along four miles of track, where the train moved slowly so that the people could see the king and queen on the rear platform.

The crush of welcome at all Ontario crossroads and towns had delayed the train more than an hour. It was 8:20 p. m. before it stopped in front of the flower decorated platform where Mayor David A. Croll and other officials greeted the sovereigns.

The setting was impressive. Against the Detroit skyline, brilliant in electric lights, Windsor's embankment was a riot of people and color. They were perched on housetops and jammed in every foot of space.

Added protection was given the royal couple today because of the reports of shots near homes of royalty in England and the arrest in Detroit of Sean Russell, reputed head of the outlawed Irish republican army.

Gay Craft on River.

The mile wide Detroit river was gay with moving craft dressed for the occasion. Great excursion boats moored close to the station were crowded with spectators. Police, veterans, soldiers, and red coats of the Canadian mounted police guarded the platform.

Guns, boat whistles, cheering made a mighty din as the train came to a stop. The king and queen came out at once. She was in a rose pink gown and hat, diamonds sparkling on her breast. The king was in a plain double-breasted gray suit. A little girl gave the queen a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

After Windsor officials had been presented, Mayor Richard W. Reading of Detroit and Chief of Police Heinrich Pickert of Detroit were led forward. Mayor Reading had quite a chat with the king and queen, the crowd roaring its approval.

Hemmed in by Crowd.

The king and queen left the train and shook hands with war veterans. They moved along a path that had been prepared. The lane was soon broken, although three mounties and Inspector Albert Canning of Scotland Yard tried to keep it clear. The king and queen were one with the crowd for several minutes, before they were finally aided again to the platform.

The crowd took up the song of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and later sang the British anthem in a wave of sound that rolled through the great crowd and was taken up down the track.

Two mounties took places on the rear platform with the king and queen as the train pulled out—an unusual thing—and a dozen more formed a squad at the end of the train, holding every one from close approach. The royal train was halted for the night near London, Ont.

Ceremony at the Falls.

Tomorrow the train will stop for an hour at London, and for ten minutes each at Ingersoll, Woodstock and Brantford. An hour and a half will be spent at Hamilton in the afternoon, and after a 10 minute stop at St. Catharines, the royal party will leave at 4:10 p. m. by motor for Niagara Falls, arriving there at 6 p. m.

the GIN that made the Rickey famous

There's nothing like a Gin Rickey to show you the difference that Gilbey's really makes in a drink. Half way through a rickey made with Gilbey's you suddenly begin to realize how subtly this international gin gathers together and unifies the satiny taste of the gin itself, the tart taste of the lime, and the bubbly tang of the soda into one deliciously smooth flavor.

And by the time you finish the rickey you know mighty well how much Gilbey's Gin has had to do with making the Rickey a national favorite! Insist on Gilbey's Gin in all your drinks!

GARNER LEARNS HE'LL TAKE BACK SEAT FOR A KING

But Cactus Jack Accepts the News Like a Man.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Vice President John N. [Cactus Jack] Garner learned today that he will be compelled to take a back seat to a king at the White House dinner to their Brittannic majesties Thursday night. But he took it like the chapparal Spartan he is, just as he took the news that he must don a swallow tailed coat and striped trousers to go to the British embassy garden party earlier in the day.

The matter of precedence at the dinner was settled by the division of protocol of the state department, which ruled that inasmuch as King George VI. will be the guest of honor he will rank next to the President and ahead of the Vice President. The Vice President ranks next to the President, says the division of protocol, on all occasions except those at which the President is entertaining in honor of a person other than the Vice President.

Procedure for 40 Years.

According to the division of protocol, this has been the well settled procedure for more than forty years, to be precise ever since the administration of President McKinley, when a famous episode established the official rank of the Vice President as second only to the President himself.

During the preceding Cleveland administration Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, had obtained recognition of his contention that as an ambassador he took precedence over the Vice President. Theretofore Great Britain and the United States had been represented at each other's capitals by ministers. During the Cleveland administration the respective missions were raised to embassies and Sir Julian Pauncefote became the first British ambassador to the United States.

An ambassador, unlike a minister, is accredited to the ruler personally. The foreign sovereign would outrank the Vice President. So Sir Julian reasoned that standing in the place of his king he should outrank the Vice President. Richard Olney, Cleveland's secretary of state, conceded the British ambassador that precedence.

Sir Julian Waits for Call.

When the McKinley administration came in, Sir Julian waited for Vice President Garrett A. Hobart to call on him first. But Mr. Hobart did not call. He regarded his office as subordinate to none except the Presidency and he waited for Sir Julian to call first. The ambassador did not call.

The embassy gave a reception and was compelled to invite the Vice President. But Mr. Hobart's secretary suggested a mistake had been made as the Vice President had not been recognized by a call.

A situation ensued much like that produced by the war of precedence between Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the speaker, and Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Charles Curtis in the Hoover administration. Sir Julian would send his regrets to social affairs at which he ascertained in advance he was not to be accorded precedence over Mr. Hobart.

Finally the Crisis.

The crisis came at the dedication of Grant's tomb. Sir Julian conditioned his acceptance on being accorded precedence over the Vice President. But President McKinley had directed that the Vice President should ride in the carriage with him. The committee sidestepped the dilemma by inviting all the ambassadors as "distinguished guests."

This incident was accepted as a manifestation of the President's decision of the issue in Mr. Hobart's favor. Mr. McKinley's decision was communicated informally to London and the British government gave Sir Julian a hint to abandon his contention. Sir Julian promptly called on Mr. Hobart. Later in the Hobart family circle, Mr. McKinley said to Mrs. Hobart:

"I settled it quickly, or rather you settled it when you said: 'I thought the ticket elected was McKinley and Hobart, not McKinley and Pauncefote.'"

It is not known definitly if the presentation, scheduled for June 17, will take place at Holyrood or at St. John's. Mrs. Carroll will wear a bonnet which she had had for forty years. HOLD OUTLAWED IRISH CHIEF FOR SAFETY OF KING

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—Federal officers said today that Sean Russell, head of the outlawed Irish Republican army, would remain in custody until the king and queen of England leave this area. The royal party arrived in Windsor, Ont., across the Detroit river, tonight.

Russell was arrested yesterday upon his arrival here from Chicago. It was announced in Washington that he was detained by immigration authorities for overstaying a thirty day visitor's visa. Marshall Dimock, second assistant secretary of labor, said Russell was taken into custody on a telephonic warant. A deportation hearing will be arranged.

It was reported that federal agents had been watching Russell's movements on the advice of Scotland Yard authorities in England.

BRITON, INJURED IN CLASH WITH JAPANESE, DIES

SHANGHAI, June 7.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—R. M. Tinkler, British former inspector of Shanghai municipal police, died in Japanese custody today after an emergency operation for injuries suffered in a scuffle with a Japanese naval landing party.

The Briton, 45 years old, was an employé of a British owned cotton mill in the Pootung industrial section of Shanghai. He was accused by Japanese of firing at a Japanese officer and threatening to kill others when they invaded the mill to break up a fight among Chinese strikers and nonstrikers.

Tinkler was disarmed in a scuffle and was hit on the head with a rifle butt. At the Shanghai General hospital it was discovered he had serious head wounds, three stab wounds in the abdomen and a foot injury.

GIRL'S 21 YEAR INJURY SUIT IS FINALLY SETTLED

Judge Joseph Sabath effected a settlement yesterday in the oldest personal injury suit pending in the county courts. The suit was brought twenty years ago against the Chicago City Railway company, now the Chicago Surface Lines, by parents of Lillian Spencer, then 2 years old, whose left foot was injured when she was knocked down by a street car on May 3, 1918.

In 1919 a lower court returned a verdict awarding $5,000 to the child. This decision was reversed in 1921 by the Appellate court of Illinois. Then for sixteen years the case languished in files of the Illinois Supreme court before a new trial was ordered. Yesterday Miss Spencer, now 23; her mother, and representatives of the surface lines agreed in Judge Sabath's chambers to a settlement of $3,500. John E. Crahen, her attorney, said that the costs of appealing the case were $500; of this $300 was paid by the Spencers and the remainder by the surface lines. The Spencers now live in La Crosse, Wis.

FLYER IN CRASH ON OCEAN JAUNT FACES TROUBLE

Mishap Ends Atlantic Hop in Rented Plane.

Camden, N. J., June 6.—[Special.]—Double trouble was brewing tonight for a young student flyer who plunged a rented plane into the sea 175 miles off Cape Cod this morning when it ran out of gasoline when he was on a harum scarum flight toward Europe. The youth, Cheston L. Eshelman, 22 years old, of Carlisle, Pa., was rescued by the Boston trawler Villanova just before the new plane, valued at $2,600, sank in forty fathoms of water.

An attorney for Edward Walz, owner of the plane, said he had obtained a warant for Eshelman's arrest charging him with larceny of the ship, its radio, and blind flying equipment.

Requests Youth's Arrest.

Boston police were requested to arrest Eshelman when he lands from the trawler Villanova. The novice airman was uninjured when the plane fell into the sea but was said to be suffering from shock and exhaustion.

Eshelman's arrest also will be sought by the civil aeronautics authority. Paul Burwell, inspection officer at the Camden airport, said it was possible the young man violated four different regulations of the C. A. A.

Eshelman, a mechanic in a Baltimore aviation plant, had been in a plane only once before and had only ten hours' flying time. He was licensed to fly only in a restricted area near the Camden airport.

Flies All Night in Fog.

The youth rented the plane for an hour's flight but immediately turned it toward the open sea. After flying all night in a fog, he dropped a note near the trawler Storm on the Georges banks fishing grounds this morning asking directions to the nearest land. A short time later his ship plunged into the sea.

"Where did you think you were going?" asked the skipper of the rescue vessel.

"To Mars," the youth cracked back.

BRITISH CLAMOR FOR CHANGES IN ELECTION LAWS

Hope to Prevent Drift Toward Fascism.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—There long has been a trend in England toward the adoption of totalitarian methods. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's power is increasing constantly, partly because of the overwhelming majority which his party, the Conservative, holds in parliament.

Clamor is being raised for a reform of the electoral system which brought this big majority in the last election, when government supporters, with 53 per cent of the votes of the country, got 70 per cent of the seats in parliament.

Opposition parties with 44 per cent of the votes got only 30 per cent of the seats. Liberal critics say proportional representation is necessary to prevent this rigging of the votes of the country.

Opposition Is Split.

At the same time the opposition parties, made up of various brands of liberalism and socialism are unable to unite. They have no strong leaders or big men to guide them. Men of ability in their ranks are too old. The young have difficulty in rising. The Chamberlain government is heavy on the financial interests' side. Members of the cabinet, with very few exceptions, are wealthy men.

Chamberlain now wields more personal power than any premier since Lloyd George in full wartime. He is governing more and more without consulting parliament, his critics allege. Answers to questions raised in parliament are studies in the art of evasion. Opposition parties declare the party system is weakening and already a failure because of huge Conservative majority.

Boards, commissions, and government control over the nation's commercial and industrial life are being extended. Subsidies are given to any languishing enterprise which needs it. These subsidies now are extended particularly to agriculture which is the government's sorest problem.

Crop Control Enforced.

The subsidy on barley and oats, for instance, has just been raised from $5 to $7.50 an acre. On the other hand, if a farmer raises too many potatoes he is subject to fine. The government will pay $10 an acre for plowing up old bracken infested fields and pastures in an effort to increase the area under cultivation at the last minute.

These are measures to check the fearful depopulation of the countryside which is going on. At the same time the prospect of having food supplies cut off in wartime is creating an interest in reviving agricultural production, which has been allowed to lapse for a century. England now could not last twenty weeks without imports from abroad.

Coupled with the decline of agriculture is the indication that the policy of protectionism has failed. Trade figures for April show a shrinkage in both exports and imports. The total fall in exports for the first four months of this year as compared to the same period last year was 20 million dollars.

There are murmurs in the country, even though the Chamberlain government ostensibly has the situation well in hand.

Press Blasts Hitler.

Perhaps the most striking phenomena in this country is the way the press has made a popular ogre out of Reichsfuehrer Hitler and created a myth of Nazi horrors. Obviously, national socialism as a doctrine conflicts violently with English ideology. With this as a basis Germany has been painted here in the same colors as during the world war, except that Hitler is substituted for the kaiser.

Day after day for the last several years the London press has been delighting its readers with stories—largely unconfirmed—of Nazi excesses. Abuses have been magnified out of all proportion. Nazi persecutions and methods naturally have played into the hands of those who fear the reich's power here.

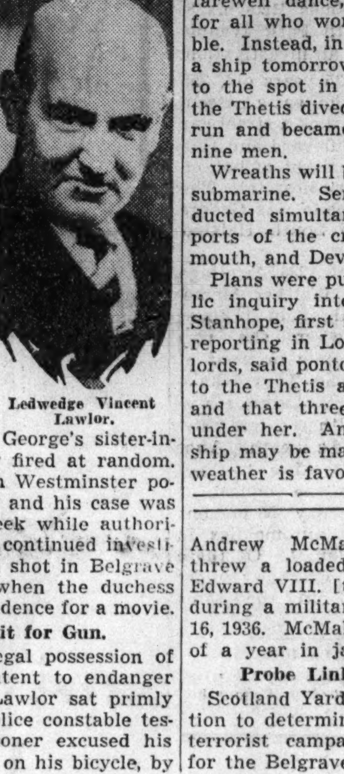
England is donning uniform again in the same manner and in the same tempo as did the Italians and Germans before them.

COURT CONTINUES CASE OF MAN WHO SHOT AT DUCHESS

Fails to Bare Motive of Attack on Marina.

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, June 6.—(AP)—A middle aged steelworker was presented in Magistrate's court today as the man who had fired a sawed-off shotgun at Marina, the beautiful duchess of Kent, and then sought to escape on a bicycle.



Ledwedge Vincent Lawlor.

The story of the strange actions of Ledwedge Vincent Lawlor, 45 year old welder, left unanswered, however, the principal question in the case, whether he had aimed at the duchess, King George's sister-in-law, or had merely fired at random.

His appearance in Westminster police court was brief and his case was adjourned for a week while authorities held him for a continued investigation into the gun shot in Belgrave Square last night when the duchess was leaving her residence for a movie.

Claims Permit for Gun.

Charged with illegal possession of a firearm "with intent to endanger life or property," Lawlor sat primly and silently as a police constable testified that the prisoner excused his action, when seized on his bicycle, by producing a permit for his gun and saying:

"I did not hit any one, did I? It is quite in order. I have a certificate."

The charge against Lawlor, who gave his address as in southeast London, was so broad that it might embrace anything from a prank to a serious attempt on the life of royalty.

Some court spectators saw a parallel with the incident in which George Andrew McMahon, an eccentric, threw a loaded pistol toward King Edward VIII. [the duke of Windsor] during a military procession on July 16, 1936. McMahon later served most of a year in jail.

Probe Links of Terrorism.

Scotland Yard started an investigation to determine whether a planned terrorist campaign was responsible for the Belgrave Square incident and for another in which a window pane in the home of the Princess Royal, the king's sister, was punctured.

The husband of the princess, the earl of Harewood, called Scotland Yard about the window, which had been penetrated by a missile. Police found no immediate connection between the two incidents but had under consideration the possibility that sympathizers with the outlawed Irish Republican Army were responsible. Several members of the royalty-hating organization have been convicted of bombings in England.

The duke, who leaves for Australia in October to be governor general, postponed a visit to Ulster [Northern Ireland] on Apr'l 17 because of threats attributed to the Irish extremists.

The Harewood castle in Portumna, western Ireland, was burned shortly before he and the princess royal were to visit it in 1928. Subsequent investigation indicated arson.

Pats Heads of Children.

The duchess, meanwhile, kept an afternoon engagement to visit an infant welfare center. As new president of the Chelsea Babies' club, the willowy, 32 year old fashion leader patted the heads of scores of youngsters, most of whom wore California-style sunsuits in what the British call a "heat wave." It was 82 degrees.

WIDOWS OF BRITISH SUB VICTIMS ATTEND RITES AT SEA TODAY

BIRKENHEAD, England, June 6.—(AP)—Widows and sweethearts of victims of the Thetis submarine disaster exchanged party dresses for mourning today to wear at a funeral service over the wrecked craft Wednesday.

They had bought gowns for a big farewell dance, planned for tonight for all who worked on the submersible. Instead, in black, they will board a ship tomorrow for a somber cruise to the spot in Liverpool bay where the Thetis dived on June 1 on a trial run and became the tomb of ninety-nine men.

Wreaths will be scattered above the submarine. Services are to be conducted simultaneously in the home ports of the crew—Chatham, Portsmouth, and Devonport.

Plans were pushed for a broad public inquiry into the disaster. Earl Stanhope, first lord of the admiralty, reporting in London to the house of lords, said pontoons had been secured to the Thetis at the bow and stern and that three lifting wires were under her. An attempt to lift the ship may be made in two days if the weather is favorable.

GRANT PARK MAN DIES AT 77.

Kankakee, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Alfred Anderson, 77 years old, resident of Grant Park many years, died last night in a private sanitarium here. The funeral will be Wednesday in Springfield.

KING WELCOMES 20,000 ITALIANS BACK FROM SPAIN

NAPLES, Italy, June 6.—(AP)—The last of returning Italian legionnaires were welcomed home by King Victor Emmanuel today after months of fighting in Spain.

The 20,000 troops marched in review before the monarch. Beside him stood Ramon Serrano Suner, brother-in-law of Generalissimo Francisco Franco and Spanish minister of interior; Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, and Brig. Gen. Gastone Gambara, commander of the legionnainres. The United States was represented at the review by Consul William E. DeCourcy.

Three thousand of the veterans departed by train for Rome tonight with 3,000 Spanish troops who came to Italy to share in a triumphal homecoming. Tomorrow they will march through the streets of Rome and be reviewed by Premier Mussolini.

BRITISH BOYCOTT MAIL SERVICE BY CLIPPER PLANES

Reported to Be Envious of American Success.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—Refusal by the British to coöperate in the establishment of trans-Atlantic air mail service via American Clipper flying boats is the outstanding puzzle in this new era of Anglo-American good feeling supposedly established by the royal visit.

George Tryon.

The British do not like the idea that the Americans got this trans-Atlantic service working before they were able to do so. So it happens that while President Roosevelt hobnobs with King George and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain this week in Washington, Postmaster James A. Farley will not be able to claim an equal success with the Right Honorable George Clement Tryon, his majesty's postmaster general, on the subject of trans-Atlantic mails.

Refuse to Accept Mail.

The British postoffice boycotted the Yankee Clipper entirely on its first trip to Europe, which was concluded on May 23. That is, his majesty's postoffice refused to accept any mail whatever for transport to the United States on the Clipper's return voyage. Postal officials here explained to inquirers that they had had no time to make the necessary arrangements, including rates to be charged, with American authorities. French and Portuguese authorities, on the other hand, had found plenty of time to make all these arrangements.

It turned out, therefore, that letters carried by the Clipper on this initial voyage were taken off at Marseilles, France, and brought to London by French air line. Then they were delivered to London postal authorities, although the Yankee Clipper flew on from Marseilles to Southampton.

Carry Marigolds, Anyway.

This treatment of the Clipper with regard to mail, however, did not prevent British authorities from allowing the flying boat to bring as far as Southampton a quantity of marigolds sent by Mrs. Brice P. Disque, president of the National Council of State Garden clubs, to Queen Mother Mary. Mail was taken off at Marseilles, but the marigolds remained aboard the Clipper until Southampton was reached. They later, with due deference, were presented to Queen Mary by American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy in person.

That was the first trip. On the return trip the postoffice here refused outrightly to accept any Clipper mail. During the course of the next week, however, they apparently communicated with postal authorities in Washington and it was announced that letters for America would be accepted for transport via the Clipper at one shilling and three pence [about 30 cents] per half ounce leaving here at 2 p. m., Wednesday morning, May 31. At the same time some of the newspapers advised that no mail is delivered in America over the week-end, so that it would be just as well to put the letters on the Queen Mary, leaving Wednesday and arriving in New York on the following Monday.

Delays on Marseilles Trip.

The British still refuse to put mail directly on board the Clipper ships in Southampton. They are accepting letters to be transported on the Clippers, but they must be dispatched from here to Marseilles and put aboard a Clipper there.

The question is asked in some American circles here whether British resistance to the use of the clipper planes is connected with the profits on mail transport by British shipping lines.

Yankee Clipper at Marseilles.

SHIP SAILS BACK WITH 907 JEWS WHO FLED NAZIS

Starts Return After Cuba Shuts Doors Again.

Miami, Fla., June 6.—(AP)—The German liner St. Louis informed Tropical radio at 11:40 o'clock tonight that she had set her course for Europe, bearing back to Germany the 907 Jewish refugees who fled that country for Cuba and were denied entry.

Their hopes of landing in the new world dashed by the Cuban government's refusal for the second time to give them asylum, the passengers tonight were bound back up the Florida coast from a point approximately 100 miles north of Havana.

Ship Wanders for Days.

The big ship had wandered up and down the coast since last Friday, awaiting the outcome of negotiations by welfare agencies with President Federico Laredo Bru of Cuba for permission for its downhearted passengers to land.

The message from the St. Louis was terse and gave no additional information. A few hours earlier the craft had notified Tropical radio it still was proceeding toward Cuba.

Renew Plea to Roosevelt.

New York, June 7 [Wednesday].—(AP)—With the German liner St. Louis reporting she had set her course for a return to Europe with 907 Jewish refugees, a committee of passengers today renewed an appeal to President Roosevelt for last minute intervention.

This message was wirelessed from the vessel by the passenger committee: "Cabling President Roosevelt, repeating urgent appeal for help for the passengers of the St. Louis. Help them, Mr. President, the 900 passengers, of which more than 400 are women and children."

WRITES LETTER THANKING NAZIS FOR BEATING HIM

Oakland, Cal., June 6.—(AP)—A carefully worded letter thanking the German Nazis for beating him was received here today from William B. Curts, an American citizen and former University of California student, now held in jail in Stuttgart on a charge of slandering Chancellor Hitler and attacking the German reich.

"The beating I received did me a lot of good—not bodily, but spiritually and morally," the 20 year old student wrote in German to his guardian, Bestor Robinson, Oakland attorney. His letter and one from the consul general in Stuttgart revealed Curts was beaten and arrested for writing a bit of doggerel verse satirizing the Nazi government.

Robinson made no comment on the letter in which Curts wrote: "The trouble began when I signed flippantly on the guest register and wrote a poem I learned in Budapest. I was about to write an apology when other customers gave me a good beating—and had a welcome right to do it."

CLERK, 19, SETS STORE AFIRE TO AVENGE TEASING

Fellow workers at the store of George H. Capper, Inc., 24 South Michigan avenue, liked to tease Edward Jay, the shipping clerk. Jay, who is 19 years old, told Fire Attorney Earle Downes yesterday that it was in retaliation for the teasing that he started a fire in the basement storeroom of the store Monday night.

Jay was held by Central police on a charge of arson and is to be arraigned today in the Boys' court. His full last name is Jakoboski and he lives at 2627 North Kimball avenue. He uses the name Jay, because it is shorter. The fire, which was discovered by Robert Capper, secretary of the company, did no damage.

Statue of Will Rogers Is Unveiled in Capitol

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma today presented to the government a statue of the late Will Rogers. Speaking at unveiling ceremonies in the capitol rotunda, the governor told an assembly of Rogers' friends and family he was presenting for the nation's statuary hall a bronze likeness of "America's best known and most revered private citizen, our unofficial ambassador of good will to the world."

FRANCO TO WAGE ECONOMIC WAR AGAINST ENEMIES

Hits Britain, France for Stand on Spain.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BURGOS, Spain, June 6.—Generalissimo Francisco Franco flayed Great Britain and France today for their attitude toward the new Spain. He spoke at the first peacetime meeting of the national grand council, the nation's highest assembly.

He called for an economic war against all who stand in the way of Spain's prosperity. He said he was prepared to carry on the fight against encirclement, to raise Spanish living standards and to make the country self-sufficient as possible.

Says Jealousies Exist.

With the end of the civil war, Franco said, and with recognition of "our Spain, it seemed all difficulties and jealousies must disappear, but that is not so."

"The agreement which laid the foundation of relations with France," he declared, "is being carried out with reluctant slowness and damage to our economy. In England, too, a great part of the holdings of our banks remain tied up in litigation through the monstrous survival of a fictitious benevolent society which was founded by the Reds in the last days of their cowardly flight."

The generalissimo warned Spanish leaders that the end of the war did not mean the end of discipline and sacrifice but the beginning of an offensive in a new field. He said the most urgent problem is to do away with the unfavorable trade balance by refusing to import anything that is not absolutely essential and reducing imports of essentials.

Charges Secret Offensive.

In the Nationalist victory, he said, Spain achieved a victory of new economic principles over the old liberal theories to which it was opposed, but added: "There exists a secret offensive against our country." He blamed "false democracies," free masonry, and communism.

He expressed thanks to Italy, Germany, and Portugal for their aid in the war and told of the laws and social improvements which had been promulgated "so that neither bread nor warmth may be lacking in homes."

FRANCO ARRESTS 20 ON CHARGE OF KILLING PRIESTS

MADRID, June 6.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco's secret service agents seized twenty persons in Madrid tonight charged with assassinations of nationalist sympathizers and priests and with sacking churches during the civil war. Police of Murcia, Alicante, Barcelona, and other cities rounded up several hundred additional suspected criminals.

Eighteen permanent military tribunals in night session passed out death sentences to an unestimated number of convicted murderers and looters. The rapid clean-up of suspected criminals was continuing by the hour and hundreds were being sent to prisons and concentration camps.

The nationalists have complaints calling for arrests of at least 1,000,000 more persons, and the courts, working at top speed, will require at least another year to clean the dockets. The nationalists have announced that from March 28 to May 26 there were 688 executions.

WORKMAN KILLED IN BLAST.

Walter Bartlett, 28 years old, 127 South Summit avenue, Villa Park, was killed yesterday in an explosion which occurred while he was dismantling an old automobile with an acetylene torch. The accident occurred in a repair shop at 4652 Chicago avenue.

FINLAND DEFIES RUSSIA ON PLAN TO FORTIFY ISLES

HELSINGFORS, Finland, June 6.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko, disputing the right of soviet Russia or any other country to interfere, told Finland's parliament today that the fortification of the strategic Aaland Islands would be started when diplomatic negotiations with Sweden were completed.

Russian objections to fortifying those Baltic islands, Finnish territory near the entrances to the Gulf of Bothnia and Gulf of Finland, caused the league of nations council to delay action on a Finnish-Swedish request for permission to erect fortifications.

HITLER REVIEWS NAZIS WHO WENT TO WAR IN SPAIN

20,000 Troops Cheered at "Victory Parade."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 6.—With campfires burning in Camp Doeberitz, 20,000 members of the Condor legion which fought for Generalissimo Francisco Franco in the Spanish civil war, tonight prepared to return to normal life.

Earlier they had celebrated their "roll call of victory," as Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering called their triumphal parade in Berlin.

They also had heard Reichsfuehrer Hitler thunder in the Lustgarten: "Should the international war mongers ever attack the German reich their attempt will meet with a resistance of which the propagandists of encirclement have no idea. Your fight in Spain, which taught a lesson to our enemies, was also a fight for Germany."

Attacks Britain and France.

Referring to German and Italian activity in Spain, the Fuehrer said it was the "first joint practical demonstration of the ideological similarities between our two countries."

"These motives could neither be grasped among the international plutocracies nor were they admitted," he added. "For years British and French newspapers disseminated the lie among their readers that Germany and Italy had the intention to conquer and divide up Spain and, first of all, to rob her of her colonies. [Spain has African colonial possessions of 128,696 square miles and 934,686 population.]

"This trend of thought appeared less improbable to the representatives of these countries than to us, because the theft of foreign colonies has always belonged to the tried and approved methods of these democracies."

Honor Troops Killed in Spain.

The most impressive moment of the day came when Hitler, after reviewing his troops, went to the temple dedicated to the memory of the war dead. The beating of muffled drums in honor of those killed sounded throughout the park.

Hitler Youths filed out of the darkness behind the columns of the temple and lined up on the steps. Each carried a silver shield bearing the name of a German who died in Spain. In the stands relatives of slain soldiers were the nation's guests of honor.

The welcome to the Condor legion began at dawn. The soldiers left Camp Doeberitz for Berlin. The troops who had returned directly from Spain wore their regular uniforms. Those who returned some time ago were outfitted in khaki which was taken from the stores of the former Czech army.

Troops Get Flowers.

When the legion neared the reviewing stands, young men and women stepped forward and presented flowers to the soldiers, who had pinned oak leaves on their tunics.

Headed by their last commander in chief, Maj. Gen. Wolfram von Richthofen—cousin of Manfred von Richthofen, the famous war ace—the legionaires goosestepped past Hitler with shouldered rifles and fixed bayonets.

GAMELIN NAMED LEADER OF ALL FRENCH FORCES

Land, Air, Sea Units Under His Control.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Gen. Gamelin.

PARIS, June 6.—The French government today raised Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, head of the supreme war council, to the rank of commander of all French defense forces. Land, sea, and air forces thus are unified under his command. By virtue of his position as chief of the army general staff Gen. Gamelin also became commander in chief of the land forces.

At the same time the government re-created in the French navy the title of admiral, which it conferred on Vice Admiral Jean Darlin, who was named commander in chief of the French fleet. Gen. J. Vuillemin was named commander in chief of the air forces.

Gen. Gamelin now is in London for military talks with British officers.

Protection for Prestige.

The chief purpose of these promotions was to protect the nation's military prestige. As a result of the lavishness with which the totalitarian states have been distributing high military honors French generals frequently found themselves occupying inferior positions in diplomatic protocol to foreign marshals, even though the latter actually held inferior rank.

A council of ministers was held today to consider the latest in the series of complications which has made difficult the way of the British and French security pact with Russia.

During the greater part of the meeting Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet outlined the substance of a prospective British-French reply to the last soviet note. It was this note which created the current complication—Moscow's insistence that guarantees of its European frontiers be completed by a British-French promise to join in defending the soviet's neighbor states on the Baltic if they are attacked.

Strengthen Pledges of Aid.

The difficulty is that the Baltic states want no such guarantee. The formula by which the French and British hope to get around this difficulty was not made public today. It was believed, however, that Bonnet outlined to the ministers terms of the joint proposal in which Paris and London strengthen their pledges to join in protecting the weaker states against foreign aggression, but still without mentioning the Baltic states by name.

Attorney's Death Under 'L' Train Is Declared Accident

A coroner's jury found yesterday that Francis T. Carpenter's death was accidental. Carpenter, an attorney 30 years old, was killed by an elevated train May 11 at Wabash avenue and Madison streets as he was about to start home to 1232 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park. Witnesses said he apparently was seized with a sudden illness a moment before he fell from the platform into the train's path.

ALASKA VOLCANO AGAIN BELCHES FIRE AND ASHES

Seattle, Wash., June 6.—(AP)—Mount Veniaswinof, an Alaska peninsula volcano, was reported erupting again on a violent scale today in a radio message from Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Johnson, only white residents near the scene. The volcano's recent nine day outburst frightened the Indians so badly that all but one native family fled from Perryville.

Johnson's message said: "Sky cleared this morning. Volcano could be seen plainly. It was belching fire to greater heights than at any time during the eruption. More hot ashes are falling."

HITLER'S SHOUT OF 'THIEF' STIRS BRITISH LEADER

LONDON, June 6.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's branding of England today as a colony robber drew from Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the admiralty, the retort that Great Britain should answer with the signing of 100,000 army volunteers in 24 hours.

Duff Cooper, who resigned his cabinet post Oct. 1, 1938, in protest against the appeasement policy at Munich, told a national service rally at Finchley that "Great Britain has today been called a thief."

"And she has not been called a thief by some irresponsible street corner orator," he said, "but by the most powerful man in Europe—the chancellor of Germany and the head of 80,000,000 people.

"Those of us who still remember the times of peace before the last war realize it would have been unthinkable that a responsible man—if he is still responsible, which some of us begin to doubt from his actions and words—should launch so violent an insult at what is still the greatest and most powerful country in Europe."

NLRB ACCUSED OF BOOSTING COST TO WEAKEN FOES

Stenographic Fees Run Into Thousands of Dollars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Employers and their attorneys today accused the National Labor Relations board of seizing upon a new weapon—the stenographic record—with which to haze companies and independent unions coming before the board in labor disputes.

Attorneys in labor board cases accuse the board of using the costly official transcript of hearings as a means of coercing the companies to yield to union demands. They charge that the same penalty has been applied to independent unions which the big outside unions want exterminated in their favor.

Under the contract by which the labor board has given a monopoly on stenographic work for all its hearings to the Daniel W. Ross Reporting Agency of Washington, the board and the complaining union get a favored price, compared with that charged to company and independent unions for the official transcript. No private stenographers are allowed to enter the proceedings, so the official reporter gets all the business.

Find Rate Is Elastic.

This monopolistic contract, awarded on a bidding basis, provides that the board get its transcript of the hearing for no more than 12½ cents a page of about 200 words. Company attorneys charge that the board has gotten its record for as low as 3 cents a page. The complaining union and the board work together on the case, so the union does not really require a transcript. They jointly use the board's copy.

The price charged to the company involved in the case is 45 cents a page for regular copy, for delivery within seven days after the hearing. However, in day by day proceedings, it usually is necessary to get "7 o'clock copy" at the exorbitant figure of $1.10 per page. This means the transcript is delivered the next morning.

The intervening or company union legally is entitled to use the board's transcript also, but such use usually is at the convenience of the board and the complaining union.

Pad Record with Data.

The bludgeoning comes in, according to company lawyers who have had the experience, through padding of the record by board and union lawyers to raise the costs of the case in the hope of forcing the company to yield to union demands.

It is alleged that the records are filled with hundreds of pages of immaterial data and unnecessary argument to confuse the issues, which would not be admitted if reasonable rules of evidence were observed.

The high cost to companies can be readily illustrated in such labor board cases as Weirton Steel, where the transcript ran about 80,000 pages; in the American Rolling Mills case, where the company got two copies of the daily transcript which totaled between 30,000 and 40,000 pages, and the New York Times case which cost between $13,000 and $14,000 for the transcript alone.

Nearly Breaks a Union.

In the American Car company case, the cost ran as high as $2 per page, which the Ross reporting agency explains was for some extremely fast service.

One case involving an independent employé union on the west coast nearly broke the union because it had to buy a transcript which ran to approximately 18,000 pages.

Oddly enough, the monopoly investigating committee has sponsored a monopoly in its award of the official reporting of its extensive hearings, now in session nearly six months. The award went to David Lawrence, newspaper columnist and publisher. But the committee is satisfied that the rate is much more reasonable than for similar service in other government agencies. The flat rate is 35 cents per page. Lawrence has employed private stenographers to do the work.

It took three auctioneers working in relays yesterday to dispose of the 861 lots of merchandise at the postoffice auction. It was a sale of unclaimed goods from the mails. LAUNCH BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF ELEVATOR UNION

A legal battle for control of local 66 of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union, which has 3,600 members, was started yesterday. George Scalise, of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the Building Services Employés' union, filed suit in the Circuit court to oust the elevator operators' president, Mathew Taylor, and eleven other officers.

The Scalise organization is an international union and claims direct supervision over the elevator operators, whose charter it issued. Scalise has suspended the dozen officers, but Taylor and his friends have refused to recognize the suspensions.

Specifically the petition, drawn by Attorney Grenville Beardsley, requested that Taylor be enjoined from acting longer as president and that he be forced to make an accounting demanded by the parent organization.

It alleged that Taylor has announced he will continue to collect dues. He is alleged to have converted some of the funds of the union to his own use and to have refused to make any report on finances to Scalise.

HOPE OF TRANSIT ACCORD BEFORE DEADLINE FAILS

Hopes that the city and transit companies would reach an agreement on a unified traction ordinance by July 1 faded yesterday when reports made to the federal court showed that virtually no progress has been made. William H. Sexton, city traction attorney, said the city would have to ask the Public Works administration to extend the July 1 deadline set in its $18,000,000 subway grant.

The city on June 1 asked negotiators for the transit lines to submit by June 15 a set of basic proposals. Walter A. Shaw, chairman of the three man negotiating committee, told Federal District Judge James H. Wilkerson that the committee would be unable to complete its proposals by that time.

Judge Wilkerson expressed surprise at the lack of progress. He directed Shaw to report on the negotiators' proposals June 14, and scheduled a court hearing for June 15.

Philip H. Treacy, attorney representing the PWA, indicated the subway grant may be imperiled if the ordinance is delayed. He said July 1 is still the deadline.

ROMANCE COOLED AS HE THREW HER IN TUB, SAYS WIFE

Their romance was thoroughly dampened when her husband threw her into a bathtub full of water, Mrs. Artelle Mears Bistor asserted. So yesterday Mrs. Bistor, who is 21 years old and lives at 9 East Walton street, filed suit for divorce from her husband, William Bistor, 22, son of J. E. Bistor, Chicago real estate man.

In her suit, filed by Attorney Luis Kutner, Mrs. Bistor said she and Bistor were married on March 18, 1939. On the morning of April 15—the day before the bathtub incident—Bistor struck his pretty young wife in the face and knocked her down, she charged.

The plunge into the bathtub climaxed their month long marriage, according to Mrs. Bistor. She charged that Bistor, in a fit of unprovoked anger, picked her up and tossed her, fully clad, into the tub. They separated that day. She asked, in addition to the divorce, alimony and permission to resume her maiden name.

UNMARRIED MEN FORM FOURTH OF CITY WPA ROLLS

Single Women 4.7 Pct. of Total, Survey Shows.

Unmarried men make up 25 per cent and unmarried women 4.7 per cent of all of WPA workers in Chicago, Charles E. Miner, Illinois WPA administrator, disclosed yesterday. The WPA basic wage of $55 a month is more than twice as much as these persons would receive if they were on the rolls of the Chicago Relief administration.

Chicago WPA officials have admitted that in assigning reliefers to WPA jobs they make no distinction between unmarried persons and those with families. Relief officials have pointed out that assigning a man with a family to a WPA job decreases the relief load to a greater extent than does the assignment of an unmarried person.

WPA statistics given out yesterday and Monday by Miner came from a survey of 212,310 reliefers on the WPA in Illinois during March. Included in the survey were 98,638 WPA workers in Chicago. Eighty-seven per cent of those investigated in Chicago were men and 13 per cent women.

59.8 Per Cent on Rolls Year or More.

Miner's figures, prepared by Paul Kerschbaum, WPA state statistician, also showed that 59.8 per cent of the WPAers in Cihcago had been on the government pay roll continuously for one year or more and that 19.9 per cent had been on the WPA three years or more. The figures included only the last continuous employment, excluding previous times that the men or the women may have been receiving WPA checks.

Negroes, who comprise approximately 8 per cent of Chicago's population, constituted 32.4 per cent of the persons on the Chicago WPA rolls, Miner said. In an earlier statement he said Negroes make up 20 per cent of the state WPA rolls.

E. E. Ferebee, CRA statistician, estimated that 40 per cent of the cases on the direct relief rolls are Negroes. He also presented figures showing that 47 per cent of the CRA rolls are composed of unmarried persons.

Continuous Rate High.

Miner said that 63.2 per cent of the Negroes on the Illinois WPA rolls had been there continuously for a year or more, and that 18.7 per cent of them had been on the rolls three years or more. Statistics covering all persons on the rolls—both white and colored—showed that 55.6 per cent had been on the WPA rolls continuously for a year or more and that 18.4 per cent had been on more than three years.

Age computations on a statewide basis revealed that older persons have had longer continuous employment on the WPA than younger persons. From a low of 7.7 months of continuous employment for youths of 19 years the figures for employment for each age group rose to 20.1 months of continuous employment for those 65 years of age and older.

606,922 Get Aid in April.

Eighteen per cent of the population of Chicago, or 606,922 persons, were dependent upon some form of public assistance during April, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission reported yesterday. The public assistance programs included direct relief, old age assistance, WPA, and blind and mothers' pensions.

The IERC said 1,330,109 persons, or 17.4 per cent of the people of Illinois, were supported in the state during April by these programs. Direct relief cared for 573,249 of these persons, WPA for 679,915 persons, and the other forms of relief for the rest.

The Chicago Relief administration spent $3,158,487 during April, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission reported yesterday.

RULES RELIEFERS CAN EAT, SLEEP IN CAGE HOTELS

Revokes Order Putting Men in Shelters.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Unemployed men who want to live in cage hotels at the expense of the Chicago Relief administration, instead of receiving their relief at the CRA's own shelter, will be permitted to do so, Leo M. Lyons, CRA head, announced yesterday. He thus revoked an order issued April 28 in which he directed that men who had been in residence at the hotels for six months prior to their application for relief should be sent to the shelters.

The hotels are known as cages because, in many instances, their rooms, which are big enough to hold a bed and a chair, have walls and ceilings of wire netting. They are most numerous in the area around West Madison, Halsted, North Clark, and South State streets.

CRA Has Two Shelters.

Lyons' order yesterday provided that men who can prove that they lived in such a hotel for six of the nine months prior to their application for relief shall be returned to the cage hotel of their choice, instead of being sent to one of the CRA's two shelters. One shelter is at 1426 South Newberry avenue, and the other at 1310 South Ashland avenue.

J. H. Smith, assistant business manager of the CRA, said that the average cost, including food, per man per month in the shelters is $6.48. He also said that each man's meals cost, at a conservative estimate, 15 cents a day.

The CRA allows $6.50 a month for a man's rent in a cage hotel. Men who live in these places, Lyons' order said, are to be fed at the shelter. In cases where the hotel will agree to feed a man for what it costs the shelter to give him three meals a day the shelter superintendent and the social worker handling the man's case may allow him to eat at the hotel, with the CRA footing the additional bill of about $3 a month.

Shelters Have a Curfew.

"Large numbers of men had lived in lodging houses [cage hotels] as long as other men have been living in rooming houses," Lyons said. "We did not feel that it was fair to discriminate against any group of venders—in this instance, the owners of the lodging houses."

Members of Lyons' staff, including those most closely connected with the shelter work, in the past have said that the shelters are better places for men accustomed to cage hotels than are the hotels. The shelters, however, require men to be in by 10 p. m. and to be reasonably sober. The shelters have a capacity of 1,900 men. There were 1,249 men in them at the last count on Monday night.

Issue a Duplicate

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor granted a charter today to Homer Martin's Independent United Auto Workers union, the same document that was taken away from the auto workers after they withdrew from the American Federation of Labor and joined the C. I. O. in 1936.

President William Green of the A. F. of L. formally presented to Martin and a delegation of his board members a duplicate copy of the engraved charter, first issued in August, 1935, before the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. split. Green explained that a duplicate was necessary because the original was lost.

The A. F. of L. chief said it was the same charter and contained the same jurisdictional terms as the one authorized by the A. F. of L. in 1934 when it voted to set up an industrial union for auto workers. The original charter covered the organization of workers in the auto industry exclusive of tools, dies and machinery which remained under the jurisdiction of other A. F. of L. craft unions.

Kansas City Drug Ring Leaders Sent to Prison

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—(AP)—Angelo Donnici, accused by the government of directing a 12 million dollars a year narcotic ring from his saloon around the corner from the Federal building, was sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $7,000 today by Federal Judge John C. Collet. Angelo Nigro, chief lieutenant of Donnici, was sentenced by Judge Albert L. Reeves to serve ten years. William Meehan, the contact and delivery man, was sentenced for five years.

FEWER X'S SOON WILL MARK SPOT ON WPA CHECKS

That host of people who make X marks, instead of signing their names, is going to be taught how to write. The board of education announced yesterday that WPA administered classes for adults who cannot read or write English will be opened shortly. They will be taught by WPA teachers. WPA officials said all WPA workers who make X marks instead of signing their names on receipts will be offered the course. It will not conflict with the present adult education classes of the school board, which are basically for the teaching of Americanization and citizenship.

IF YOU WANT TO RUIN A YOUNG MAN, don't bother to make a drunkard of him . . . or steal his wife . . . or blackmail him. Those little activities might get you into trouble. There's a much simpler way—a "blameless" way:

> GET HIM INTO DEBT. Get him in debt up to his ears. Make sure, year after year, that he spends more than he can earn. Watch him struggle as the debts pile up. Watch the creditors hound him. Watch worry wear him down. Watch his health fail. Watch him crack up!

Bearing this in mind, Liberty Magazine wonders if it hasn't occurred to some group—interested in changing our American form of government, happy to find it so easy—that THIS IS ALSO THE SURE-FIRE WAY TO RUIN A NATION.

Don't take Liberty's word for it. Read the history of other nations. Go back as far as ancient Rome, if you wish—then skip to modern Germany. HITLER GREW OUT OF THE SOUR SOIL OF FINANCIAL COLLAPSE.

Liberty is not questioning the integrity or motives of the top men in Washington. Liberty knows them to be sincere humanitarians, patriots. But Liberty is not so sure about some of the "help"— the advisers you didn't elect — the schemers of grandiose and always costly schemes.

YEAR	RECEIPTS	EXPENDITURES	PUBLIC DEBT
1933	$2,079,697,000	$5,142,954,000	$22,538,672,000
1934	3,115,554,000	7,105,050,000	27,053,086,000
1935	3,800,467,000	7,375,825,000	28,701,167,000
1936	4,115,957,000	8,879,798,000	33,545,385,000
1937	5,293,840,000	8,105,159,000	36,427,091,000
1938	6,241,700,000	7,766,374,000	37,167,487,000

(Figures of U. S. Treasury Department for years ending June 30. 1939 debt—on May 22—$40,234,253,652.)

And the disease grows more menacing in 1939.

Any eighth-grade pupil knows that 2–3=less than zero—an absurdity in arithmetic.

Every year, the financial strength of our Government is "growing" just that way—by shrinking to less and less than nothing.

This is the kind of "growth" through which governments disappear.

Faith and hope are sustaining our financial structure now. Faith in the American people—based on their long-time record, not their recent performance. Hope that their good sense will force a change in Government policy—before it is too late.

Will it mean anything to you, personally, if our present Government should fail financially?

You'll lose more than your life savings and insurance.

YOU'LL LOSE THE GUARANTEES OF LIBERTY WHICH ARE YOURS UNDER THE CONSTITUTION—FOR THE CONSTITUTION WILL BE GONE WITH THE WIND.

That is why Liberty, week after week, is fighting editorially for what seems to have become a dead issue in Washington—A BALANCED BUDGET . . .

> ("Balanced budget?" says John Q. Citizen. "I don't like arithmetic. Turn on the radio.")

Why Liberty—and its publisher, Bernarr Macfadden—are fighting for the day when Washington will say—NOT "how can we raise more money?"—but "how can we spend LESS?" . . .

> ("Forty billion dollars?" says John Q. Citizen. "That's away over my head—but I guess those fellows down in Washington know what they're doing.")

Why Liberty is fighting to augment the 2,500,000 families who read it with other millions of Americans WHOSE VOTES ARE NOT FOR SALE . . .

> ("Me sell my vote?" says John Q. Citizen. "I'll slap you down! But if they cut my brother Ed off WPA—or don't kick through with my equalization check—watch me fix 'em next election!")

Why Liberty invites you to join this crusade to save Democracy . . . not from dictatorship, but from a nearer, more threatening foe. Save Democracy FROM ITSELF!

LIBERTY—American liberty as we know it and value it above all else—will end unless the deficits end. IT'S A MATTER OF ARITHMETIC.

IS THIS THE REAL REASON WHY ENGLAND SWAPPED KINGS?

WHY HAWAII CAN'T BE THE 49TH STATE

Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, former Commandant of the 14th (Hawaii) Naval District, has had an experience with the "Paradise of the Pacific" going back to its days as an independent monarchy. With 370,000 people now living on the islands, this "population has never for a moment relinquished its efforts to make Hawaii a state of the Union." You will want to know on what basis Hawaiian citizens of the United States claim the right to Statehood—and why the Navy says "no."

THE JUDICIAL ELECTION.

The results of the judicial elections in Illinois Monday are no less gratifying because they were expected by most observers. In the large majority of contests throughout the state the voters followed the principle that the best guarantee of an independent judiciary is the reëlection of those judges whose conduct on the bench has given no cause for removal.

While victory in Cook county nominally went to the Democratic ticket, the real victory was for non-partisan judicial selection, since the Democratic ticket included all the sitting Republican judges.

In the coalition maneuvers preceding the campaign the Republicans undoubtedly had some cause for complaint. They forfeited whatever advantage they might have gained from their grievance, however, when they nominated a full ticket.

Had the party nominated only candidates to oppose those judges whom it deemed unfit for reelection it might have received a more respectful hearing. Instead, the managers of its campaign undertook an attack upon all of the sitting judges. They said things that they knew were not true of judges of acknowledged integrity, ability, and experience. The voters recognized this campaign of falsification and saw behind it a partisanship that has no place in judicial selection. Their action Monday was a merited rebuke to such tactics and their sponsors.

In the 17th judicial district the attempt of the C. I. O. to take reprisals against Judge Dady because he balked the lawless activities of its members failed dismally and deservedly. In the 12th district, on the other hand, the voters had no difficulty in getting rid of a scapegrace judge.

The number of Republicans elected in downstate districts increased by fifteen, further evidence that that area is returning to its traditional Republican affiliation. Several Democratic incumbents failed of reëlection. Their conduct in office, so far as we know, had been good. But they were elected during a politically abnormal period, and it is probable that their tenure on the bench had not been long enough to impress the voters with the desirability of reëlecting them on that ground alone.

A Democrat won the Supreme court contest. Both parties nominated able men. Both Judge Murphy, the victor, and Judge Crampton, his opponent, conducted campaigns free from partisan appeal and in keeping with the dignity of the office they were seeking.

MILWAUKEE'S EXAMPLE, AND COOLIDGE'S.

Fifteen years ago the city of Milwaukee started a savings bank account, with the ambitious purpose of paying off the city debt. Continuous thrift and compound interest have raised the account to eight million dollars. Milwaukee's city controler has estimated that the growing fund will overtake the declining debt in four more years, making it possible to pay off all the city's obligations.

Here is something unusual: For to be deeply, if not hopelessly in debt, is to be like all the other cities. Growing liabilities of municipalities constitute one of the unsound elements in the financial structure of the country. The extent of the growth is not generally appreciated. From 1912 to 1934 cities put out an enormous volume of bonds, which being tax exempt were readily sold. Although provision was made for amortizing most of these obligations, new indebtedness was incurred more rapidly than the old was paid down. In the twenty-two years the outstanding debt of the cities grew from three and one-half billion dollars to eighteen and one-half billion dollars. Unfortunately, ability to pay taxes to carry or pay off debt did not increase in the same proportion.

In the last eight years two thousand cities have failed to meet obligations to pay two billion dollars when due. Busted cities became so common that a national law was passed to permit them to become bankrupt freely. There would still be such a law but for the Supreme court.

Meanwhile, the Roosevelt administration has offered incentives for municipalities to go even more deeply into debt. When the obligations suggested by Washington were of a nature that they had to be ratified by the people, approval was frequently denied. Some cities have turned down millions of easy money rather than put out any more promises to pay in the future.

Abstinence from new debt is, however, far from general. And the outstanding municipal obligations are probably nearly as large as reported four years ago. That means that they bring the total government debt of the country close to the sixty billion dollar mark. Thus the combined public debt is not the staggering sum of forty billion dollars, but 50 per cent more.

Milwaukee is proving to the country that a continuous increase in debt is not necessary, but that it is possible and feasible for a city to reduce and even pay off its debt burden. Similarly, it will be recalled that the national administrations previous to the present one proved that a continuous increase in the federal obligations was unnecessary and that it was possible and feasible to reduce the public debt by more than ten billion dollars in a period of seven years, at the same time, by the way, that tax rates were being steadily cut.

THE CONSTITUTION IS DEAD.

The latest series of Supreme court decisions will no doubt bring forth the usual crop of recondite comment which will tend to conceal an important reality. The reality is that the constitution as we have known it and as it has existed for 150 years is dead. In a real sense we are no longer ruled by the constitution.

In the place of three independent branches of government we have an executive and a legislative assembly and a Supreme court, both of which are dominated by the executive. The executive has been trying for nearly seven years to usurp the powers of congress. He now has a Supreme court which will uphold the usurpation.

Constitutional government is limited government. The men who devised our form of government had the wit to see that men can be free only when government is restrained and accordingly they restrained it. They employed several devices for this purpose, of which one was the separation of the powers of government. That separation no longer is a fact. We are experiencing autocratic government by an executive who issues orders to congress to enact laws which he desires.

Sometimes, as in the dairy case decided on Monday, the encroachment on the legislative branch's prerogatives goes even further. An official directly under the President and responsible solely to him is permitted to write the law raising the price of milk, and that kind of law has now been held to be as binding as if it had been enacted by the representatives of the people in congress. Citizens can be fined and sent to jail for violating it. Only four years ago in the NRA case the court unanimously rejected that kind of tyranny as "delegation run riot." Today the protection of the constitution no longer is operative against the executive.

The executive dominates the judicial process as well. As it exists today the court is in name only an independent branch of government. The four new members appointed by Mr. Roosevelt were selected not so much for their legal learning [which in at least one instance was so fragmentary as to be almost nonexistent] as for their unquestioning support of the New Deal. Between the lines of the chief justice's latest dissent may be read the humiliation he feels at the low estate into which the court has fallen under his leadership. He sought through compromise to maintain a moral ascendancy over his colleagues and thus preserve the ideal of constitutional government, but his tactics have failed. He is today a sick man and the smile is on the face of the tiger.

For 150 years the politicians in Washington were restrained, also, by the clauses in the constitution which restrict the operations of the federal government to certain specified matters. Later, by the fourteenth amendment, a limit was placed upon the powers of the states to regulate the conduct of the citizens. Both fences have now been obliterated. The right of the federal government to regulate interstate commerce, a right which was intended to prevent a state or a common carrier from interfering with the free flow of commerce among the states, has now been interpreted as authorization for fixing prices at a higher level and thus restricting the flow of commerce. If congress can do this in the name of interstate commerce it can presume to run any man's business and fix any working man's wages; for all practical purposes congress can now regulate Americans in their daily living as thoroughly as Mussolini regulates the lives of Italians. A week ago the court decided that the fourteenth amendment is no bar to the imposition of death taxes by two states simultaneously. The constitution which formerly set the citizen free and bound the government in chains no longer is operative. It is now the citizen who is in chains and government is free to rampage at will.

The decision upholding the rights of free speech and assembly in Jersey City is interesting but relatively unimportant. It would be nice if civil liberties could survive amid totalitarian economic management, but to think that they can is to ignore recent developments all over the world. When politicians run everybody's business civil liberties disappear. We had a sample of that under prohibition. Unfortunately we didn't learn the lesson. Hence the New Deal and the death of the constitution.

Editorials of the Day

GEN. GRANT AND GEN. FRANCO.

Bloomington [Ill.] Pantagraph.

At this season, when thoughts of the public revert to the times and occurrences of the civil war, an interesting contrast is suggested between "conquerors" in our own great civil strife and the conquerors of the late Spanish civil war.

Gen. U. S. Grant, leader of the victorious Union forces in April, 1865, granted to his subdued opponent, Gen. Robert E. Lee of the confederates, the most generous terms possible. In the agreement at Appomattox, Gen. Grant stipulated only that the confederates should lay down their arms and cease resistance to the constitutional government of the United States.

No "hostages" were taken, nor mass executions by firing squads of the leaders in the collapsed rebellion. Grant permitted the southern soldiers to take their horses and other property home with them to assist in rebuilding the devastated south.

By contrast, we read that Gen. Franco took more than 1,000 prisoners of the defeated loyalist army in Spain, tried them by court martial, and summarily shot some 688 of them. This was meant to terrorize opposition to the Franco régime and to "stabilize" the country. How soon with such methods will a new era of terror and bloodshed break out?

BASEBALL COMPETITION.

Indianapolis News.

Major league baseball attendance figures for Memorial day provide material for interesting speculation on the state of the national pastime. The total, 244,860, is impressive, but there are surprises when the figures are broken down. The most obvious point is that National league teams drew 20,000 more persons than did American league teams, which are supposed to play a superior brand of baseball.

Though the National league's margin may be explained in part by the fact that there was no American league game in New York, while the Brooklyn-New York game drew 58,296, there is a better reason than that. There is a clew to it in the attendance in the smallest city in either league. More than 40,000 Cincinnati fans turned out to see the pace-setting Reds take two drubbings from the champion Cubs. It was the second largest baseball crowd in the country, 5,000 more than turned out for the Yankee-Red Sox games.

Competition is the life of baseball. There is plenty of it in the National league this year, virtually none in the American. It is about time for the Yankees to give their rivals a chance. They can do it by merely giving their shanghaied farm hands a chance.

REMARKS ON ROYALTY.

We, the American people, will have guests in our house for a few days of this week—royal guests who come as strangers to our folkways, although they reign over a kindred nation. Under the elementary rules of hospitality this is not an occasion for derisive humor on the part of the host. No moratorium can be placed, of course, upon native wit; but its expression, during this historic visit, should be kindly.

The only royal personage who has been gazed upon by these republican eyes is well remembered for graciousness, although that was a happening of long ago. In the summer of 1893 the Infanta Eulalia, a princess of Spain, came to Chicago to see the Columbian Exposition. She rode down a boulevard, and a curbstone boy, close to the wheels of her carriage, gave her a cheer. She smiled and bowed—to him alone, for there were no others near. . . . This was balm to him, particularly since she was a very good looking infanta—a title which could easily be translated into the modern meaning of "babe."

Yes, we missed David of Wales, and Marie of Rumania and the others, for they were not in the day's work. Chicago's most stirring occasion of the kind, as we remember, was the visit of Prince Henry of Prussia, in 1902. When he came to the campus which we then inhabited, we had a new college yell ready for him: "Keep on hollerin', keep on hollerin', Unser Henry Hohenzollern." Henry's most publicized exploit in Chicago was drinking champagne out of the slipper of a soubrette from "Babes in Toyland." You will find it on the first pages in the files. It was an absolute lie, invented by the press agent of the show. We knew the culprit, and have heard his confession.

THE MONTH OF ROSES.

How can the roses tell when it is June?
See how they burst in bloom upon the day!
They seem to know they will be needed soon
For making bridal arbor and bouquet.
The sweet girl graduate must have her flowers;
Commencement finds the roses ready all.
They thrive on misty April's many showers,
Nor heed soft, balmy Maytime's tempting call.
However cold and long the winter be,
The roses sleep, await appointed time;
And when their moment comes, unfailingly
Delight the world with loveliness sublime.
Some sort of lesson in all this reposes—
Away with lessons! Welcome, June and roses!

Schools of Thought About "Windy City."

Please allow me to "settle this argument" anent the origin of Chicago's nickname, the Windy City. I was city editor of the old United Press in 1892-'93 and wrote the news of the Columbian Exposition. During the battle royal between the Chicago and New York newspapers for the prize of housing the great and only World's Fair the Gotham press, led by Charles A. Dana in his Sun, scoffed, ridiculed and jibed at the superior claims of Chicago, dubbing it the Windy City on that score. But our wind won.

The Class in Freak Typography.

Incunabulus specializes in the old fashioned long "s," using "f" as its representative; Flossie turns all her "o's" into capitals; and a certain Timosius has entered the field with "v" instead of "u," in the Roman and inscriptional style. Now up springs a certain Arby, who combines all three in 100 words of typographical dementia. We're not going to publish it, but we're giving him credit for trying to make the Line the hardest way.

HYMN OF THE GRADUATE.

Now comes the time:
These last few days slip by on small
Swift silver feet.
So silently, so swiftly do they fly
That scarce we know we have them 'ere they're gone.
Now we are Seniors,
Standing within the pale—
Alma Mater's chosen ones.
Soon we will be
Naught but the outer guard—
Walking forth, stiff and straight,
Watching with hungry eyes the new recruits.
Yet while our banners fly,
Let us be happy.
We still belong here.
None can deny us.
And each man has some day his place
In the sun.
Others before us have had to leave, sorrowing;
Those who will follow
Shall some day depart.
We have been joyous here. We shan't forget it.
We shall remember, though tears dim our vision,
Though harsh city noises deafen our ears.
We shall remember
Our dream dotted campus—
The sweet tower chimes ringing clear in the daytime—
Tolling soft in the twilight
To tell us the hour.
We shall remember.

In Defense of Maxwell Street.

Alarmed at reports that Maxwell street is about to be sterilized and otherwise modified by the ministrations of architectural planning, we hurried to its market area, fearful that the visit might be our last before the transformation.

We doubt the wisdom of putting Maxwell street in formal dress. Let its pantaloons and girdles wave as they do now, in intimate abundance under the sun. Let its mountains of shoes still rise in sole revealing confusion. This is Maxwell street, where the people are themselves. Newcomer.

IS YOUR BLOOD PRESSURE TOO LOW?

FROM a correspondent has come a request for an article on low blood pressure. He writes: "Rather frequently you have something to say about hardening of the arteries and the increased pound within the vessels. My condition is just the opposite. I am handicapped by an inadequate tension."

While it is true that narrowing of the blood conduits—which may occur with advancing age—is likely to bring about a higher level than normal, there are certain persons who appear to be feeble physically and who behave as though their tissues were but sparsely furnished with nutriment.

In a recent report Browne and Horton set forth their observations on a 70 year old man who complained of spells of debility and dizziness. He noted that on rising in the morning everything in the room seemed to swim about; so much so that an occasional fainting attack ensued. During the day—on assuming an erect posture after sitting or lying down—the same phenomenon was repeated. As time went on the episodes multiplied. When walking out of doors—almost without warning—he would be overwhelmed with a seizure which passed as he leaned over, pressing the abdomen against the thighs.

On examination a curious situation presented itself. With the patient reclining, his pressure readings were average—140 systolic and 90 diastolic. But on standing a pronounced drop was recorded—namely, to 65 systolic and 35 diastolic. Repeated checks confirmed these findings. Here was a man in whom posture determined the force of the blood flow within the vessels. The explanation of the vertigo and collapse was clear. The brain was evidently receiving but a fraction of the circulation needed. The resulting anemia and deficit of oxygen to the nerve cells accounted for the manifestations.

Because of the hint that recovery would follow bending forward, the patient was fitted with a firm abdominal binder, which squeezed the blood from this area to other parts of the body where it was more essential—the brain, for example. Various stimulating drugs then were tried, and it was found that ephedrin sulfate—although it brought about but little change in the circulation—counteracted his sense of failing strength. With the daily use of this compound he felt so much better that he regarded himself as practically cured.

We must not look upon blood pressure—high or low—as a disease. It is merely a symptom, the underlying causes of which have still to be determined. As we can readily understand, if the heart muscle has been subjected to some weakening process the power to pump will be diminished. Then, too, we must recall that the whole circulatory apparatus must be kept in tune. This means that if the abdominal organs become engorged the brain and the muscles may lack a supply sufficient to preserve function. If the capillaries in the skin dilate suddenly a huge quantity may be diverted, so that unconsciousness may come on.

There are many, however, who experience undue fatigue or prostration, and whose pressures are lower than they should be. A rise will occur only as exercise is practiced. A sufferer may be obliged to make himself engage in activity when he is disinclined to do so. Again, augmenting the food intake often is helpful, with a half hour of rest lying down after each meal. The program may include an extra quart of milk daily, taken between meals, and a rather larger amount of protein [meat] than one has been accustomed to. The balance in the dietary elements may have been neglected, and one individual gained immeasurably in vitality and well being through raising the sugar percentage, particularly at 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. Two or three lumps at each interval banished a sense of exhaustion.

FIBROSITIS.

F. C. writes: How does fibrositis differ from other forms of rheumatism? What is the best treatment?

REPLY.

Fibrositis refers to changes, such as scarring, etc., which occur in muscle tissue in the course of an infection. Heat and gentle massage are indicated.

BLOOD PRESSURE IS LOWERED.

U. R. writes: Frequently on standing up everything goes black for a few seconds. What causes this?

REPLY.

A temporary lowering of blood pressure with an insufficient supply to the brain. Change your position gradually and the trouble should disappear.

WHEAT GERM OIL.

T. P. writes: Is wheat germ oil good for the nerves?

REPLY.

This is an excellent source of vitamin E, which is thought to be associated with some forms of sterility and persistent miscarriages. Little is known about its other functions.

IT SMELLS NICE.

A. R. writes: What benefits can be derived from using extract of witch hazel after shaving? Does it dry the skin? Is it advisable to use it daily?

REPLY.

Witch hazel smells nice, is soothing, and slightly astringent. No harm in its daily use.

1. In general, a minor can repudiate his contracts. Conceivably the transaction might be legalized through guardianship proceedings. This would necessitate the employment of an attorney.

2. We do not understand the question.

3. In general, no. We could have advised to better advantage if you had stated the facts on which your questions arise.

SEES A BATTLE ROYAL AHEAD.

Hotel Regis, Avenida Juarez 77, Mexico, May 30.—Now that we are war-minded as a result of the insidious expert propagandists in Washington and Europe, and canal-minded by second-rate, one state amateur propagandists in Florida, it is an opportune time to plant our feet firmly on the ground and face the future. There will be no war of consequence within the next few years for the simple reason that dictators and rulers know what a real war means and costs in modern times and are not ready for such conflict.

But that a war is coming is inevitable. That war will be waged for control of the North American continent because of its wealth produced through partial development. When the great catastrophe occurs it will be a battle royal between America and England defending North America against the rest of the world. The reason for voicing such broad statements is obvious when first hand observations have been had.

That an amalgamation between the bankrupt, hungry dictator countries and countries of poor masses will be effected is doubtless. The first objective will be London gold and second, America. The first move will be frustrated by England's antiquity famed minds moving her money and official capital to Canada. This gesture is obvious for the simple reason that the United States of America cannot divide her forces by going to Europe to wage a defensive battle. The English speaking people united on the North American continent would be impregnable, but vulnerable points must be reinforced. Our fleets will have a big job and must be given latitude of operation to discharge it effectively. Rapid maneuver from Pacific to Atlantic is essential. An open transit is necessary. A public canal cannot be fortified. One small ship of the hundreds that go through the Panama canal could blow it to bits. A canal across Tehuantepec, Nicaragua, or northwest Panama exclusively for naval purposes must be built and, along with Hawaii, fortified to the sky limit.

M. M. CORPENING.

A WAY BACK TO WORK.

Vincennes, Ind., June 2.—Back in 1932 the writer advocated the control of labor saving devices that did not relieve drudgery. The only answer was: "You cannot stop progress."

This seems to be an accepted conclusion. Webster's definition of progress is: "Advancement or improvement in mental, moral, or physical condition." I am told that two million people could be put back to work in the tobacco industry alone with the elimination of labor saving devices on cigars and cigarets, and with the government tax removed the consumer would get the same values at the same price.

There are many other luxury items that could employ more labor by doing away with the labor saving devices—probably enough to put the country back to normal and allow the manufacturer to pay for the labor instead of taxes that go for relief.

In short, the writer sees no progress in taking our labor out of work that is a pleasure and placing it on the WPA work that is a drudgery and should be done by machinery.

WPA SQUAD SURVEYS.

Chicago, June 3.—THE TRIBUNE says the city council housing committee has suggested a WPA survey to determine cost of city services to rundown and slum areas.

That survey is already in operation. Last week a GPU squad of fifteen to twenty WPA workers invaded our district on the northwest side. In a body they peered at us from the alley, then peered at us from the street, then sat down on a shady corner leisurely to discuss matters.

Presently one of them rang the doorbell to inquire if we were tenants, how long we had lived in the house, and what rent we paid. After civilly answering the questions peace was restored for a little while. The doorbell rang again and another chart bearer appeared to ask the owner's name and address, if not the occupant. The following day the squad again patroled our street. Again the doorbell rang, another chart bearer wished to know whether we were white or colored, how many people lived in the house, how many dependents, were we American born, and so on ad infinitum. Then the gang again assembled in a shady spot to compare charts and coördinate their information.

I live on a quiet residential street. There are no rooms for rent signs and practically all the property is occupied by owners. We pay sufficiently high taxes to carry our share of city costs were we not saddled with hordes of such boondogglers. This last delegation estimated the survey would take at least nine months, and that would be a most conservative estimate. Before this invasion another group, heavily weighted with tape measures, inspected our shade trees, taking their girth and distance apart.

Shades of our forefathers, where is that much vaunted freedom of the citizens of this so-called democracy?

MRS. DALE.

DOWN WITH BRITTLE TREES!

Chicago, June 3.—Why are so many people finding fault with the removal of trees in the city? These trees are being removed because certain varieties are dangerous, to people who pass under them because of brittleness, and then, too, these same tree roots are causing hundreds of dollars of damage to sewers, thereby causing considerable expense to the property owner. There are things to consider other than bird nests and leaves changing color.

Let us consider the true facts. As long as these trees are causing damage and are endangering lives I say "Let's take them down."

WILLIAM HOLLOWAY.

ASSESSOR'S MEASURING STICK.

Chicago, June 3.—I wish to reply to Thomas James Norton's assertion in your column that the assessor has no right to base valuation of buildings on their reproduction cost "or any other arbitrary practice."

The fact is that the state tax law [rule 14] does require this method. It says: "Local assessment officers shall take into consideration among other things, these measurements and descriptions, the scheduled reproduction standard unit costs, and depreciation elements, and all such elements shall be applied uniformly to all buildings or improvements to which in the judgment of the local assessment officers these elements are uniformly applicable."

Herein the law compels the assessor to measure all elements of value. Mr. Norton recognizes only one element for earning properties—earning power. Under my present approach to real estate values earning power is being measured as one of the factors. But it cannot be held to be the only one because well managed buildings would be assessed higher than poorly managed buildings. To consider one element exclusively would upset the constitutional insistence that all property be valued uniformly.

Assessed values can be criticized only if they are not uniform between one property and another. The method employed in ascertaining these values must be such as will operate uniformly in every instance where it is employed. I do not believe that this can be done by any other method than consideration of every element — location, physical construction and depreciation, and fair cash value.

JOHN. S. CLARK,
Assessor of Cook County.

FROM THE SAMMONS FAMILY.

Chicago, June 2.—Sammons Landing was named for my uncle, Joseph Houston Sammons. He was my father's older brother, who lived in Michigan a good many years. His letters to us were written first from Little Point au Sable, later from Sammons Landing. He had not moved and we always supposed the name was changed from Little Point au Sable to Sammons Landing. Later he moved to Kenosha and his last years were spent there.

Two of his sons served in the civil war—William Henry and Charles. For many years the older son, William Henry, affectionately called "Captain Sammons," was doorkeeper in the house of representatives at Springfield, Ill. Charles was employed as secretary at the soldiers' home in Danville. Both are now deceased.

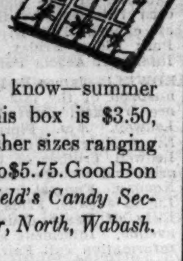
Karastan Rugs Shown At Two Great Fairs

It Doesn't Melt



It's a wonderful hot-weather box, this. Filled with the kind of thing you like to nibble on—and nothing messy to melt. The box sketched is 2 lbs. 10 oz., and has nine compartments full of mints, dates, salted nuts, caramels, hard candies, hard-center chocolates . . . you know—summer confections. This box is $3.50, and there are other sizes ranging in price from $2 to $5.75. Good Bon Voyage gifts. Field's Candy Section, Third Floor, North, Wabash.

Be Peony-Fresh In Cool Batiste

There's old-fashioned charm, sweet summer coolness, in this adorable coat and gown of sheer batiste. Wear it on little week-end visits or drift down to your own breakfast table, looking as fresh as a peony. The skirt billows out in great crisp folds and both gown and coat are trimmed in soft ecru lace.

Gown and matching coat, $16.95
The coat, alone, $10.95

Choose it in peach pink or larkspur blue or white; the color that suits you best. And don't hesitate a minute about popping it right into the tub. For all its fragile, delicate air, it washes and irons just as beautifully as the batiste blouses and unmentionables your grandmother used to throw into the family wash every other Monday.

You'll see more and more matching sets this summer, for they're extremely becoming, very wearable and not too revealing. You'll find this sweet cool ensemble in our Lounging Apparel Section on the Fifth Floor, South, State. priced at $16.95. We have the coat separately, too, and without the gown, it is $10.95. Have it in two colors!

Ten million footsteps can't be wrong. At least where Karastan Rugs are concerned. In fact, these amazing long-lived rugs not only "can take it" from one great Fair, but remain so beautiful that they're invited to participate in another.

Four Karastan Rugs were shown in Chicago's Century of Progress. Over these rugs, 5,208,183 people walked. Now—at New York's World's Fair you may see three of these Karastans in the "Maison Coty" exhibit. They not only show no signs of wear, but have retained their full beauty and lustre, looking even more lovely, more mellow.

Over ten million people are expected to attend the Coty exhibit . . . twenty million more footsteps to test the great wearing qualities of these three Karastans.

And the fourth Century of Progress Karastan? It is now on exhibit in our own Karastan Galleries on the Third Floor . . . for you to see.

French Market Rich In Gifts

There's something synonymous about a lovely June bride and a wedding gift from romantic France.

If you know a bride—and if you don't!—you should know about Field's French Market on the Second Floor. It's an "old world" spot filled with treasures found in the old apothecary shops, peasant farm houses and remote villages of the French Provinces.

From Rouen, Lyons, Provence

From Rouen came tobacco jars in pewter; from Lyons, antique gold and white apothecary jars; from Provence, sturdy quilted petticoats (use them for upholstery, they're delightful). There are intriguing old scales used in French market places that are perfect for a buffet or table. Old copper cooking moulds are very scarce and usually hard to find, even in France, but in Field's French Market you'll see wonderful ones. And—if the bride you know wants a house with a plate rail, wouldn't she love a set of earthenware plates, each a French Fashion drawing of the early 1800's?

Pique And Organdy For A White Froth

Do you want an easy recipe for looking serenely cool and crisp this summer? The secret is in stirring up a froth of white and sprinkling it liberally throughout your wardrobe. And one of the simplest ways to accomplish this little trick of Fashion cookery is to edge your frocks, your suits, and even your hats with white eyelet pique or embroidered organdy. It's a smart idea for your new clothes and works wonders with a slightly bedraggled last-year's outfit.

Embroidery In Daisy Design

Field's has a particularly attractive new collection of these bands and edgings for you to choose from. There is one very fresh looking style of eyelet pique with a daisy embroidered design that is very flattering to any neck or sleeveline. And if you're looking for the frilly type, we have a delectable organdy with embroidery and edged in lace style that's just about as ethereal as anyone would care to get. Both types are a joy to live with because they wash and iron so beautifully.

You may select either style by the yard in bands and edging to match. Prices range from $1.25 to $2.25 a yard. First Floor, North, State.

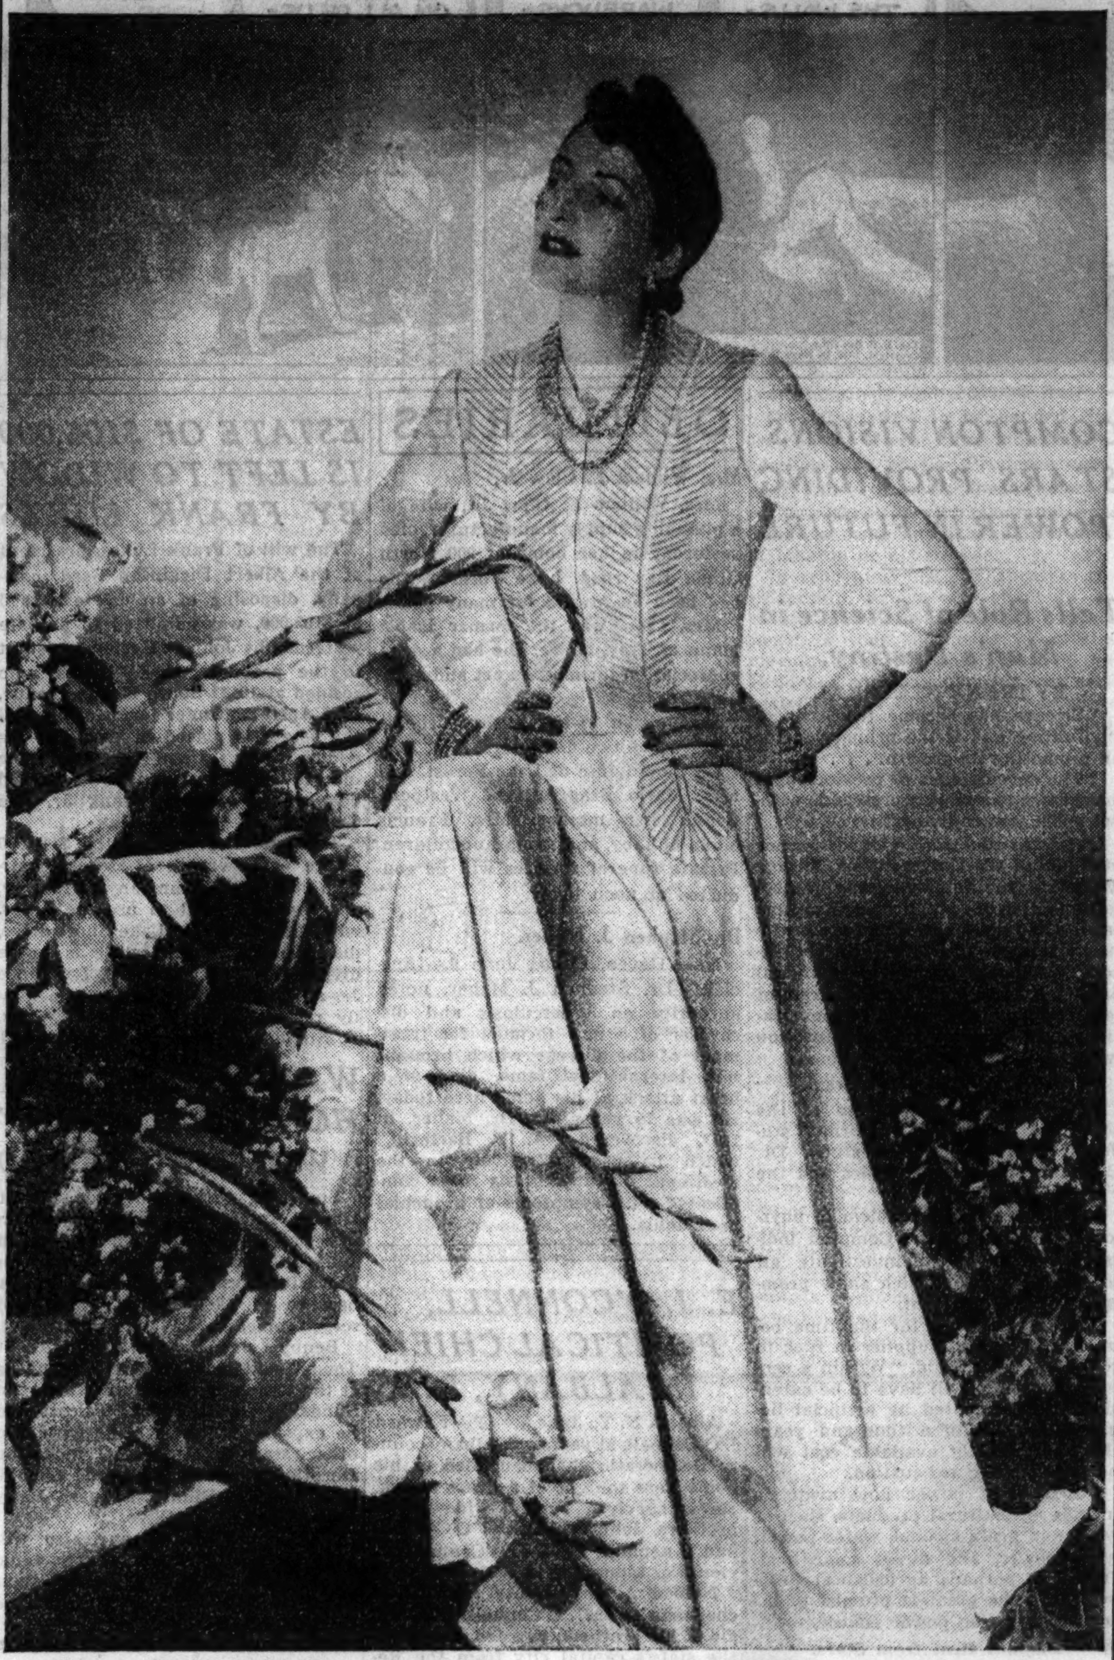
White For Dinner—At Home—Abroad



This is our special suggestion for frosted chic . . . an evening gown of rayon crepe, with quilted jacket that zips smoothly to the throat. The costume has that simplicity which looks formidably expensive—and yet it's $39.75. In Field's Salon, Sixth Floor, South, Wabash. Pile gold jewelry on white evening clothes, for drama. The 60-inch featherweight necklace of gold beads is $4, each of the gold bracelets is $5. In the Costume Jewelry Section, First Floor, South, Wabash.

John Gunther Here Saturday

John Gunther will be in the Waiting Room, adjoining the Book Section, Third Floor, North, State, at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, June 10. He will autograph his books and greet his friends informally. His coming is occasioned by the introduction of his new book, "Inside Asia."

Mr. Gunther tells in "Inside Asia" how events and personalities are directing the course of events in one third of the globe.

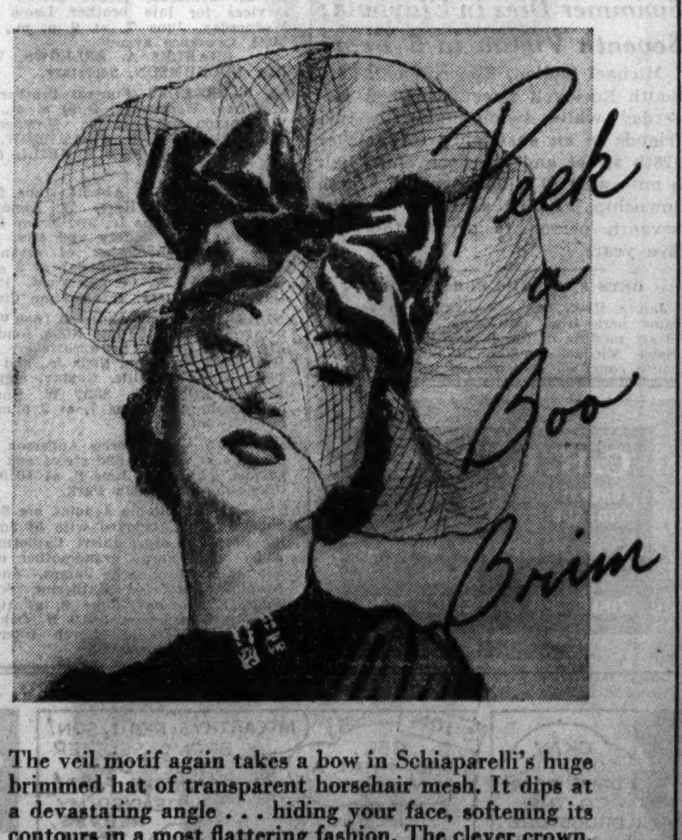
That Simple Old Device, The Name Tape, Still Saves A Lot Of Time And Trouble

There's a lot in a name when it's your own and is attached to your possessions. "Name-Makers" tapes make it easy to "personalize" all your belongings and those of your family.

Marking things with a name saves loss and a lot of unnecessary annoyance. Things don't stray unaccountably when you're on summer vacation trips and are sending out laundry from hotels hither and yon. The children's clothes and sheets don't get mixed up at camp. Your household linens, the family socks and underwear come properly back home from the laundry.

They come in white, the name printed in fast color. Your order will be filled within ten days. Three dozen "Name-Makers" tapes, $1. Six dozen, $1.25. Nine dozen, $1.50. Twelve dozen, $1.75. Fancy Goods, Third Floor, South, State.

Horsehair hides your face in Schiaparelli's startling



The veil motif again takes a bow in Schiaparelli's huge brimmed hat of transparent horsehair mesh. It dips at a devastating angle . . . hiding your face, softening its contours in a most flattering fashion. The clever crown, loops of stiff satin ribbon, rides lightly on the tip top of your head. Wear it in the daytime or evening.

Travel Begins At Field's

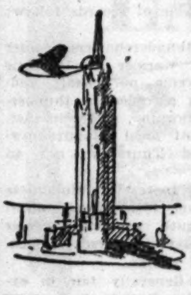
Our Travel Show Is The First Stop On Any Itinerary

Even if you'd never been out of Illinois, you'd feel like a well-traveled person after seeing our Travel Show. It's that kind of show. Really interesting and illuminating.

Now, there's no need to wonder whether you'd like a Dude Ranch . . . come and find out before you decide to go! There's no need to wonder gropingly how big the New York World's Fair is . . . a scale model on our Sixth Floor gives you a clear idea. No need to get inaccurate notions about the Golden Gate Exposition . . . our diorama of it presents the whole thing in miniature.

That diorama is so big that we were hopelessly balked in our plan to have it on the Sixth Floor. It wouldn't work. It's so astonishing and huge that there was no practical way of getting it to the Sixth Floor. So that's on the First Floor, in the Luggage Center, Middle, Wabash.

All the rest is on the Sixth Floor, North, Wabash. You'll find you feel like Dorothy of Oz.



We've really made an effort to make the whole country come alive for you. We have brought displays and exhibits from north, south, east and west. We're showing movies. We have had the cooperation of the railroads. We are interested in your interest in sharing other territories . . . not only in imagination but actually in experience.

We've provided fashion shows, which start at 12, at 2, at 3, and at 4 o'clock, each day through June 10. We have included a packing demonstration . . . it's fun to see an expert, and find what is considered "scientific" packing.

The movies include colored films of the two Fairs, shown daily.

We hope you'll come to our Travel Show. We're sure you'll agree that, no matter where you're going, the first stop on your itinerary should be Field's.

We Planned On Your Needs Before You Did

By the Editor, Fashions of the Hour

Maybe you're a young girl going on your first lone trek and loving the idea. Maybe you're a mother-of-three, completely undismayed at the prospect of getting your husband and children safely to the other end of the country. Maybe you're a newlywed looking forward to a postponed honeymoon. Or maybe you're a business woman going home to North Cupcake to spend two weeks with the family.

But whoever you are, and wherever you're going, it's a vacation. Travel. The most exciting time of the year.

Field's know how it is. We've been preparing for your trip a long time . . . before it was even an incipient idea in the back of your head.

For The Belle Of The Beach

We've everything you need . . . but have you thought of Germaine Monteil's beach basket? You'll be the belle of the beach wherever you go, with this sun kit over your arm. It's of Frenchinspiration, American execution. The basket is hand-woven, and lined with bright green water-repellent material. In it there is a lipstick, a box of powder, a tube of suntan oil and a tube of sun cream (and room for lots more). All the cosmetics are Monteil, of course. And the basket is $5, in the Cosmetics Section, First Floor.

No Sore Feet This Trip

As for feet . . . feet are apt to be a summer trouble, on and off vacations! But it's folly to fill your luggage with shoes—eight pairs of uncomfortable shoes won't do the job one pair of adaptable, comfy ones will do. May we rise to remark that our little calfskin sandal is air-cooled, simple, and charming. Practically guaranteed to give comfort, and smart as anything, with its square heel and crossed straps. You'll have to have it in navy . . . and you may have it in white, and in coral pink. It's $6.75, and not to be intimidated . . . wear it in the boudoir, for dancing, for play, for travel. Play Shoes, Fifth Floor, Middle, Wabash.

This Book Is "Catching"

There's a book you must take—no matter which of the above women you may be. You might not think it would be fun to spend a summer with four little girls in New England, doing all the cooking and chores on a small "farm." But you'll think so after you read "FREE . . . For Three Months Only." In fact, the the book is so thoroughly charming that you'll probably start looking around for four little girls, a place in New England, and three nice, unused months. Dwight Hutchison has that specific kind of enthusiasm which is hopelessly contagious. Her delightful little volume is one which certainly should go in your vacation luggage. It's $2, in the Book Section, Third Floor, North, Wabash.

Baby Size Chin Ka Check

Chin Ka Check is probably an obsession with your children, and if they refuse to be torn away from their game while you're en route, keep peace in the family with our 75 cent edition. It's almost infinitesimal, it's got little holes to stick the pegs in, it will do as well on laps as on tables. For train travel, it's the equivalent of a heaven-sent dispensation. In the Game Section, Fourth Floor, Middle, Wabash.

THE DUCKS ARE FLYING ON YOUR OWN TERRACE WALL

And so life-like, they almost "honk." These amusing, colorful birds are the newest vogue in wall decoration. They were created by a master craftsman, cast in aluminum and painted in natural colors. (You should see the Cardinal!) Most of them are lifesize. They're practically indestructible. Easily cleaned. They make handsome, original bridge prizes. And if your husband is a hunter—enough said.

GEO. P. GARDNER, FINANCIER, DIES AT 83 IN BOSTON

Served as Officer of Many Corporations.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—[Special.]—George Peabody Gardner, 83 years old, financier, philanthropist, and a member of one of the country's oldest families, died today at Bourne, his summer home. He was well known in Chicago and had been an official of large corporations there and elsewhere.

Although Mr. Gardner gained prominence in financial and corporation circles, including an intimate connection with the development of some of the nation's largest industrial concerns, he was known as a leading churchman, humanitarian and patron of arts.

Family Came Over in 1624.

He was a direct descendent of Thomas Gardner, a planter who settled on Cape Ann in 1624. His port folio of trusteeships and directorships included almost as many schools, hospitals, and libraries as it did commercial interests. One of his principal interests was the Children's hospital, of which he was president emeritus.

He was born in Boston, the son of George Augustus and Eliza Endicott Peabody Gardner, and was graduated from Harvard college in 1877.

Held Many Corporate Posts.

He was president of the Provident Institution for Savings here, president and a trustee of the Amoskeag company; president of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance company; vice president of the Chicago Junction railroad and Union Stock yards company, and a director in several corporations, including the American Telephone and Telegraph company, State Street exchange, Union Freight Railroad company, First National Bank of Boston, and Old Colony Trust company of Boston.

On June 11, 1884, he married Miss Esther Burnett, daughter of Joseph and Josephine Cutter Burnett. Surviving, besides his widow, are a son, George Peabody Gardner Jr. of Brookline; a daughter, Mrs. William M. Mayes of Ojai, Cal., and a sister, Mrs. George H. Monks of Boston.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR NEW VIADUCT IN BLUE ISLAND

The county board yesterday awarded a contract for construction of a new viaduct on Burr Oak avenue over the Rock Island railroad tracks in Blue Island. Thomas McQueen is the contractor who submitted the winning low bid of $472,389. The present viaduct was closed to trafic two years ago because it was unsound.

STATE ST. BRIDGE SPAN'S REMOVAL NEARLY FINISHED

Piers to Be Blasted from Subway Path.

Removal of the State street bridge's steel span, first step in the demolition of the entire bridge structure over the Chicago river, is nearing completion, Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, said yesterday. All the south leaf and most of the north leaf of the 250 foot steel span have been taken down.

The bridge is being removed to make way for construction of the State street subway tunnel under the river.

Old Piers to be Blasted.

Preparations are being made by the Fitzsimons & Connell Dredge and Dock company, contractors, for the second phase of the work, which will be the blasting of the huge concrete piers that supported the 1,200 ton span.

Before blasting of the piers on the south side of the river can be begun the contractors will have to cut off about four feet of Wacker drive overhanging the river. Heavy steel sheeting will be sunk 60 feet below the surface of the water along the face of the river bank to prevent a cave-in of Wacker drive when the piers are blasted.

The final stage of the work will be dredging of the river to remove the blasted débris.

Viaduct Being Razed.

Work also is going forward on the removal of the 320 foot viaduct which spans the railroad tracks north of the river and connects with the bridge proper.

The work of demolition was begun on May 15 and is scheduled to be completed about July 10. The cost is $67,050.

The old bridge, which was 70 feet wide, will be replaced by a modern structure 108 feet wide at a cost of $3,500,000. This will be paid for by the city from funds already on hand raised by a bond issue in 1931.

Day by Day on the Farm

By HOMER CNEISZ

Shear 109 Breeding Ewes

June 6, 1939.

FLEECES were removed from the 109 breeding ewes at the Du Page county farm last week. The rams and the yearling ewes were sheared early in March.

Not all the wool has been weighed, but 10 representative fleeces averaged 5¼ pounds. This is considered a fair weight for fleeces from Southdown ewes, although it is lighter than the clip in former years. Weight of the wool clip at the farm has decreased each year for the last three years.

Averaged 7 Pounds in 1936.

The average weight of fleeces last year was between 5½ and 6 pounds. The year before they averaged about 6 pounds. In 1936 the fleeces averaged nearly 7 pounds, with some of the yearling Southdown fleeces weighing more than 9 pounds each. Southdowns are considered strictly a mutton breed and ordinarily produce the lightest wool clip of any of the common breeds of sheep.

The flockmaster says the wool is of good quality and he expects it to bring a satisfactory price. Wool is selling several cents a pound higher than at this time last year.

The ewes and lambs have been put back in clover pasture after spending nearly two weeks eating grass and weeds in the lanes and odd lots about the farm. They had eaten the clover almost to the ground when they were taken out, but it was about ten inches high when the sheep were returned to the pasture. There is a mixture of red, white, and alsike clovers in the field and all are in bloom. Bees are buzzing around the clover blossoms.

Drenched for Worms.

Neither the ewes nor the lambs are being given any dry feed. The lambs were fed in creeps until some of them got so big they could no longer get in creeps with openings small enough to keep out the ewes.

All the ewes will be drenched this week with copper sulphate solution to control stomach worms. They were drenched a month ago. The treatment will be repeated every thirty days until cold weather.

The lambs will be drenched for the first time when they are weaned. That will be about the first of July. They will be treated regularly at thirty day intervals after that.

Lamb Crop Small.

The drenching solution is made by dissolving four ounces of copper sulphate crystals in three gallons of water. The dose for mature sheep is four ounces of the solution. Lambs are given smaller doses, depending on their size.

The lamb crop is small this year. Some of the breeding ewes were sold last fall and the 109 left in the flock produced only 80 lambs. This is the poorest showing the flock has ever made. What lambs there are have done well. They have made faster growth than usual.

COMPTON VISIONS STARS PROVIDING POWER IN FUTURE

Tells Role of Science in Man's Destiny.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

"Science has become the basis of civilization and is the primary factor in promoting its growth. . . .

"The development of previous ages has grown to a mighty crescendo within which we are living."

This was the word picture former students of the University of Chicago attending the fourth Alumni school got from Prof. Arthur H. Compton, faculty physicist and Nobel prize winner, last night at a dinner in Hutchison Commons. Nearly 4,000 alumni are attending a week long program of lectures and laboratory demonstrations on the Midway in connection with their 1939 reunion.

Probe Sources of Energy.

In line with the purpose of the school as a stimulus to former students toward continued study, Dr. Compton spoke on "Physics and the Future."

One of the major problem of physics of the future, Dr. Compton indicated, would be to investigate all sources of energy which show promise of being important.

"We are favored for the time being with plentiful supplies in fuel, in coal and oil," he said. "Within a century petroleum will have to be extensively supplemented by artificial liquid fuel. Within a thousand years the more readily available coal will be approaching exhaustion.

"Sources of power now available include agricultural products, such as wood and grain alcohol, water power, wind power, and direct solar heat. Of these, perhaps agricultural products have the greatest promise of becoming a major power source.

Radiant Heat from Stars.

"A hopeful lead is the inexhaustible flow of energy from the sun and stars in the form of radiant heat. . . . Within the last twenty years several theories of stellar heat have been put forward, the most promising of them based upon atomic nuclear reactions similar to radioactivity.

"In the laboratory it has been found that such nuclear reactions can be produced, and are capable of supplying heat in the necessary amounts. There is thus no reason to be pessimistic with regard to power supply. It may require a decade, a century, or a thousand years, but there appears no reason to fear man's inability to find an adequate new supply."

In the field of electric lighting, Dr. Compton said, there is considerable room for improvement.

Insects Not to Supplant Man.

At the afternoon session alumni were told by Carey Croneis, associate professor of geology, that the much talked of possibilty of insects inheriting the earth as human beings pass into extinction with the dodo is merely a fanciful notion. "Insects," he said, "passed their peak long ago; they are nearer extinction than is man."

This afternoon in Mandel hall a symposium for laymen on recent developments in medicine will be given by Dr. George F. Dick, Dr. Dallas B. Phemister, Dr. Lester R. Dragstedt, Dr. Paul C. Hodges, and Dr. Walter L. Palmer. At a dinner meeting in Hutchison commons Dr. Morris Fishbein will discuss "Quackery—1939 Model." The Alumni school will continue through Tuesday. Clifton Utley is the director.

GRAND JURY MAY SIFT SLATTERY STOCK DEALINGS

School Fraud Charges Probe in Prospect.

The June grand jury, which was impaneled yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley, is expected to consider two cases involving officialdom. The jurors may hear evidence in regard to the stock purchases by Mrs. Ethel Johnson, daughter of Senator James M. Slattery, and of charges of waste in the purchase of supplies and materials by the school board.

Judge McKinley did not give James A. Walker, 240 South 6th avenue, La Grange, a banker, the new jury foreman, or his associates, any special instructions. None was requested by State's Attorney Courtney. The prosecutor, however, has announced that he has both the Slattery and school board matter under investigation and should soon be ready for grand jury presentation.

One of the deals under scrutiny by Mr. Courtney and his staff was the purchase of $23,000 of Commonwealth Edison company stock by Mrs. Johnson while Slattery was chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and in a position to influence rates and rules of the utility.

Mrs. Johnson Secretly Quizzed.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin and Auditor John Byrne were investigating the Slattery dealings before Gov. Horner, political ally of Mr. Courtney, appointed Slattery, last April, to fill the vacancy of the late Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Mrs. Johnson was secretly questioned on May 25 in the office of First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley. She was spirited away from his office before she could be interviewed. Charles [Chick] Evans, one time champion amateur golfer, former La Salle street broker's employé, was similarly treated at the prosecutor's office two weeks before.

Dodges Subpena for Days.

Mrs. Johnson dodged a subpena for several days before she appeared for questioning. It is reported that Gov. Horner insisted she apepar for the questioning after a conference in Springfield with Senator Slattery.

Prosecutor Courtney and his assistants have steadfastly refused to discuss either the Slattery or school board inquiries. The substance of Mrs. Johnson's testimony was learned from political associates of Senator Slattery who have been watching with interest the progress of Courtney's inquiry.

Mrs. Johnson, the wife of a state sales tax employé, corroborates the story told by her father. She said she was the purchaser of the Edison stock with the money given her by her father after the death of her mother in 1932.

Singled Out by Father.

Mrs. Johnson, one of ten children of Senator Slattery by his first marriage, said she was singled out by her father at a family gathering to be rewarded with $25,000 as settlement of her mother's estate. She gave no reason why she was picked out for the award in preference to her brothers and sisters.

The money was kept in Senator Slattery's safe deposit box, as far as Mrs. Johnson knew, from 1932 until last year when she decided to use it for investment. She said she never saw the money from the time it was given to her by her father and later placed in the safety deposit box until she asked him for it six years ago.

The Edison stock was purchased in two blocks, exactly six months apart. She said her father went with her to get the money from the box and make the stock purchases through Evans, a friend of the family. She said she asked her father about the Edison stock and he said it would be a fine investment.

Fails to Explain Purchases.

Mrs. Johnson did not explain a number of purchases and sales other than for Commonwealth Edison stock in her account. She said she didn't know anything about these transactions nor could she explain how it came that these purchases and sales resulted in a loss of approximately $8,000. When the account was closed out, she said, her original investment was returned to her plus a $2,000 profit on the Edison deal in spite of the $8,000 in losses incurred. She merely stated that she did not remember signing any stock deal authorizations.

After the money and profit was returned to her in cash, Mrs. Johnson is reported to have said she returned the money to the same safety deposit vault from which her father had originally taken it.

Called Open, Above Board.

Senator Slattery last month in Washington admitted he knew of the stock deals made by his daughter. He issued a statement at that time saying that the stock transactions were open and above board and in no wise affected his rulings as chairman of the commerce commission.

Assistant State's Attorney Austin and Auditor Byrne, who spent weeks on the inquiry, refused to discuss their recent inactivity. It is reported they are waiting for orders from Courtney to submit the results of their inquiry to the grand jury.

The grand jurors can under the law take the inquiry into their own hands and demand that Courtney and his assistants produce the results of the investigation. The jury could issue its own subpenas for witnesses and records and if necessary ask Judge McKinley to supply them with their own legal adviser.

MAYER OUTLINES DELINQUENT TAX CURB PROPOSALS

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, urged yesterday that two steps be taken at once to reduce tax delinquencies in Cook county and throughout Illinois. He advocated: First, the formation of a consolidated bureau in Cook county to coördinate tax assessing, collecting, and record keeping, and: Second, the passage of a bill introduced last month in the state senate to create a special state commission to study tax laws and make recommendations for changes.

The suggestion for a consolidated Cook county bureau was first made last fall by the Citizens' Committee on Tax Collections. It calls for the correlation of the county's tax assessing, billing, and collecting divisions. These activities are now divided among the the county assessor, the county collector, the state's attorney, the county clerk, and the County court.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEEK TO UNRAVEL MANTON TANGLE

Face Serious Obstacles in Reopening Receiverships.

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Federal investigators today began dissecting the mass of tangled affairs left over from the conviction of Martin T. Manton, former senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, who was found guilty last Saturday of selling justice and who faces a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Officials expect to be handed the assignment of reopening the complex receiverships of the Prudence company and of the Fox Theaters corporation. These were bankruptcy proceedings complicated by official acts of Manton or his friends.

In reopening the Fox Theaters receivership, which was about to be closed after seven years, officials faced serious obstacles. For the cleanup of the intricate affairs of the Prudence company alone it was estimated that a force of fifty accountants and ten or twelve lawyers will be required.

Master Will Reopen Cases.

John C. Knox, senior judge of the federal District court, who had to take over the Fox case upon the resigation of Manton, recently ordered a thorough reëxamination of it by a special master. Creditor groups had objected to the operation of the receivership by Milton C. Weisman and his predecessors, appointed by Manton.

The federal investigators will concentrate on lawyers involved in cases in which Manton received bribes. Leads developed at the trial as to their connections with shady transactions will be followed until all the circumstances of lawyer participation in the justice selling conspiracy are uncovered. It was pointed out that the statute of limitations will not protect them as it does certain laymen involved in a case.

If criminal participation by lawyers is discovered and three years have not elapsed since commission of their acts, they will be prosecuted as was Manton. If the time statute comes to bear officials will resort to disbarment proceedings.

Losers to Get Rehearing.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Attorney General Frank Murphy believes opportunity for redress should be given losing litigants whose cases were heard before former Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton, and who now feel they have justifiable grounds for appealing decisions in which he participated. Among private cases it was suggested those most likely to be subject to review will be those in which there was a split vote in the court, and in which Judge Manton determined the outcome.

Lame Duck Senator Duffy Proposed for U. S. Bench

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, recommended to President Roosevelt today that he appoint former Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin to a federal judgeship for eastern Wisconsin. A vacancy was created recently when Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger resigned the post he had held since 1912. Crowley made his recommendation at a White House conference.

Education Note.

A young cousin of Miss Pauline Tomlin, who is in the sixth grade of a south side school, informs her that the class is learning Three Little Fishes and will sing it for assembly instead of The Star-Spangled Banner.

After Bryn Mawr.

That young woman with tortoise shell rimmed glasses and brown hair falling to her shoulders you might have seen in the foyer of the Harris theater between acts at the opening of One for the Money was Gertrude Macy, the producer. There have been a series of titles after Miss Macy's name since she was graduated from Bryn Mawr. First Miss Macy, secretary to Katharine Cornell; then Miss Macy, assistant stage manager. (That was in Dishonored Lady.) She also played a part in that production. She was Miss Macy, stage manager of The Barretts of Wimpole Street, and company manager of Alien Corn. That meant learning the theater business from the box office end. She was general manager of Miss Cornell's St. Joan. And she still is Miss Cornell's manager, although she now has entered the producing field with One for the Money. Two for the Show may follow.

You'd never guess, seeing Raoul pene du Bois' distinguished decor for the production, that when Miss Macy first heard Nancy Hamilton's lyrics and sketches it was in a barn. Miss Hamilton first presented them in summer stock, and their spontaneity and gayety caught Miss Macy's fancy. . . . The bit called Parlor Game—take the word of one who has gone in heavily for them—shouldn't be missed. Nor My Day, and The Story of the Opera.

An example of tact and diplomacy was given by John Hoysradt at the Colony club the other night. Before he was announced a table of patrons were singing My Wild Irish Rose with considerable feeling. Turning the Hoysradt smile full on them, the blue-eyed one time Groton schoolmaster said he understood there was an act going on at their table and that he'd like to have them put on theirs first. He got their attention and prevented what every entertainer, especially one who goes in for subtlety, dreads—noisy, inattentive patrons. Another "must"—Hoysradt's mimicry.

Streamlined Melodrama.

When Orson Welles opens at the Palace Friday night he will do The Green Goddess, streamlined to seventeen minutes. William Archer wrote the melodrama to prove to George Bernard Shaw that he was playwright as well as critic. Only because it is the most perfectly constructed melodrama ever written can it be reduced to seventeen minutes and the essentials maintained, Welles says.

It gave Chicagoans who had known Orson Welles' father a start the other night on radio's Knickerbocker theater to hear Orson introduced by Dick Wells. Orson's late father was named Dick.

Even Though Reducing, Eat Proper Foods

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Women, at this moment, are being subjected to conscience nagging about the state of their figures. Summer is right around the corner and summer clothes do not allow as much figure fault-hiding as winter things permitted.

We do not want you to break out into a reducing rash. We don't want you to accept some of those diet programs that are still being whispered around that are going to leave you without pep for enjoying the new silhouette you create for yourself. We think you are too grownup in reducing education not to be aware that there are maintenance foods which must be consumed and which you may consume and still arrive at the wanted scale figures.

Only as a reminder, then, of what maintenance food numbers are, we present you a brief guide compiled by a milk concern that drew this dietary information from outstanding food and nutrition experts.

Milk—a pint to a quart a day. Milk may be used as a drink, or as an ingredient in food. Cheese or ice cream may be used as a substitue for part of the milk.

Fruits—two servings daily, including either a citrus fruit, pineapple, tomatoes or their juices.

Eggs—at least three a week, preferably one a day.

Meat, poultry, and fish—a serving of one of these daily. Dried beans, peas, lentils, or cottage cheese may be used occasionally in place of the meats.

Bread and cereals—at least one-half of the cread and cereals eaten should be of the whole grain type.

Butter—daily. But no sugar required.

Sea foods and iodized salt—regularly, in goitrous regions, for iodine.

Water—six to eight glasses a day, or as needed.

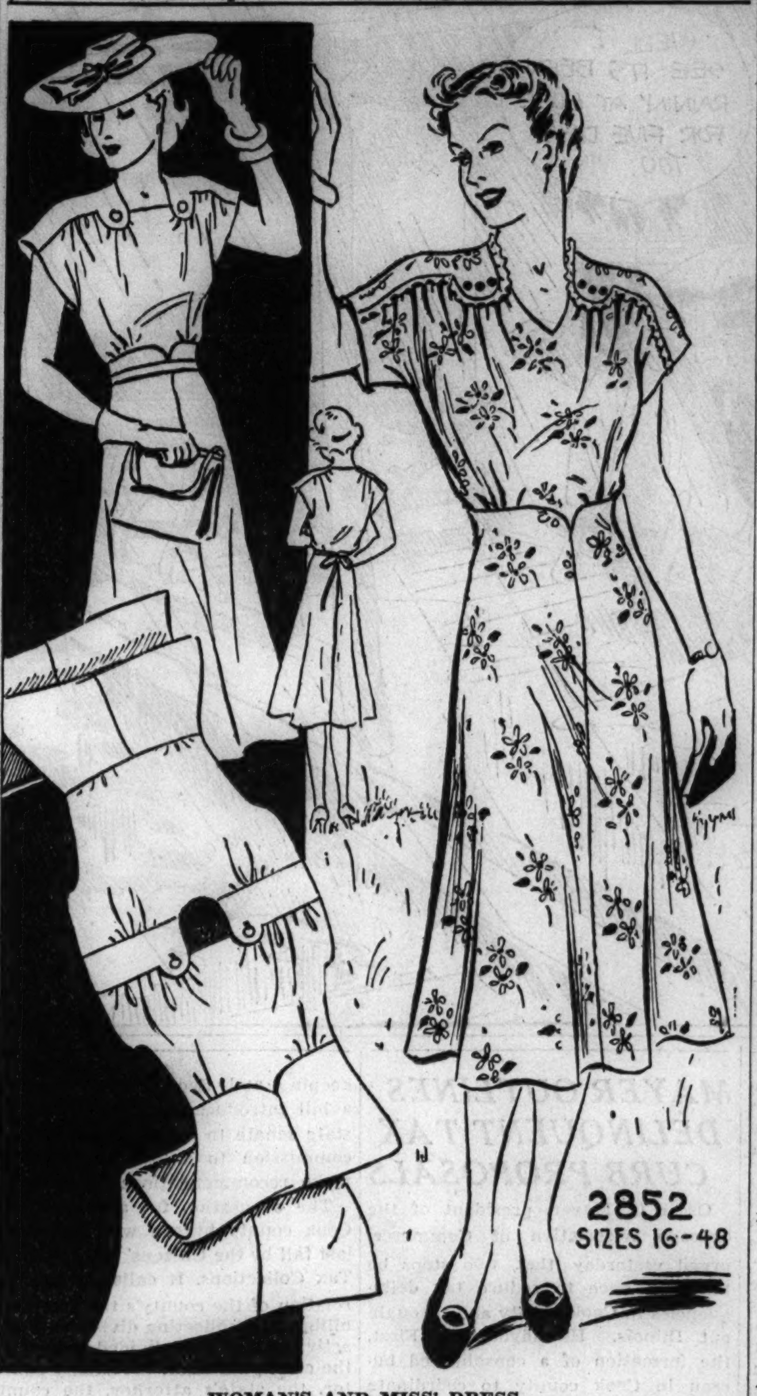
Commencement exercises for 170 engineering graduates will be held at 4 o'clock tomorrow in the Museum of Science and Industry.

Flattery for Larger Figures



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The woman who wears a larger size will appreciate the simplicity and flattery of this summer dress. It is designed to make the waistline seem slimmer than nature made it, and creates a welcome illusion of breadth in the shoulderline. The soft fullness originating in the shoulder yoke makes the bodice graceful and soft. The neck is V. Trimming the shoulder yoke is ruffling or any other type of edging you prefer. The simple skirt is slightly flared, just enough for grace and comfort.

All types of summer fabrics make up well in this frock, and it is a dress you can sew almost with your eyes closed. If you want to create a more tailored air, use buttons on the shoulders instead of edging.

Style No. 2852 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The colorful summer edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower for 15 cents the copy, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Those gloriously rosy and gold colored mangoes are again in the markets. This tropical fruit, which tastes a little like a peach and a little like a melon, isn't exactly dirt cheap, but gourmets will buy it at any price, and 25 cents or so isn't too much for most of us to pay for a rare fruit which isn't often to be found in this part of the country.

One mango will serve two persons for dessert. Chill the mango and cut it just before serving, for this fruit loses some of its priceless aroma and discolors somewhat if it stands after cutting.

If you can't find mangoes in your neighborhood they're being sold in several fruit stores in the loop district, or cantaloupe or honeydew melon may be your choice of dessert for this easy to fix summer dinner:

SHORT CUT DINNER.
Browned Hamburger Cakes
Shoestring Potatoes or Chips
Salad Bowl: Lettuce, Watercress, Cucumber, Green Onion, French Dressing
Baked Tomatoes Italian Bread
Chilled Mango or Chilled Melon
Iced Tea or Coffee

Browned Hamburger Cakes.

[Four.]

1 pound ground round steak
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons chopped onion, if desired
4 long bacon strips

Mix meat and seasonings, and shape into four cakes. Dip in flour and wrap a bacon slice around each, securing it with a toothpick. Brush skillet with fat, and brown cakes on both sides. Reduce heat and continue to cook until bacon is done. Hamburgers may be cooked rare, medium, or well done when round steak is used in them.

Shoestring potatoes and potato chips are available in many bakeries and in some groceries. It will be easier to buy them than to try to make them at home.

Use a sharp dressing for the salad. Roquefort cheese may be crumbled into it if cheese is liked. All ingredients should be cold, and the vegetables should be very crisp.

BAKED TOMATOES.

Allow a half tomato for each serving, a whole one if they are small. Cut each in two crosswise, and place in a well buttered shallow pan or baking dish. Brush with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top each with a spoonful of fine, dry crumbs which have been fried in butter for a minute or two. Bake the tomatoes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until they are soft.

If Roquefort cheese isn't used in the salad dressing, grated American might not be amiss as a topping for the tomato halves. Do not peel tomatoes, for the skin will keep them in shape as they bake.

* On the House *

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

When things around the house fall apart—and catastrophes like this do happen even in the best ordered homes—there is an adhesive available which will glue two materials—metal and wood, glass and canvas, felt and rubber, and so on. This liquid adhesive is waterproof, heat resistant, and strong.

Nature seldom repeats. This fact, together with the fascinating changeableness to light reflection which fine woods afford, makes a wood paneled room the delight of the possessor. Now for moderate cost homes there are a wide variety of fine flexible veneers.

In the least expensive brackets these wall surfacings can be had in flatcut oak, mahogany, oriental wood, in the slightly higher cost bracket are veneers of lacewood, prima vera, knotty pine, flatcut walnut, striped mahogany, and quartered oriental wood; while in the higher cost brackets there are the more exotic woods, including figured English white harewood, macassar, ebony, Congo rosewood, figured avodire, and zebrawood.

These can be delivered to any part of the country, together with special adhesive for use in application. Real "wooden wallpapers," these, since they are applied like wallpaper, but have the beauty of solid wood panels.

Father Ill, Joan McArthur Will Delay Wedding

BY JUDITH CASS.

MACKINAC ISLAND is going to miss what certainly would have been a lovely wedding but Chicago is gaining one, for Miss Joan McArthur and her fiancé, John Whiting of Putney, Vt., have decided to postpone their marriage. They had planned to be married this month at the summer home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Selim W. McArthur, but because Dr. McArthur has been seriously ill and will not be entirely recovered before the end of the summer, the young couple now plan to be married here probably in the autumn.

Dr. McArthur, who is in St. Luke's hospital, is well enough so that Mrs. McArthur is leaving today to attend Joan's graduation from Bennington college on Saturday. About the 25th of this month the whole family, Dr. and Mrs. McArthur, Joan and Betty, the subdeb of the family, will go to the island to remain for the whole season. Dr. McArthur will go directly from the hospital to the train that will carry him north.

Every one of the hundreds of friends and patients who have been so concerned about Dr. McArthur's illness will be glad to know that he is improving. Dr. McArthur has been since 1916 on the staff at St. Luke's, where his father, the late Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur, was chief of the medical staff. The younger Dr. McArthur succeeded to that office in 1936.

Mrs. McArthur Active at Shop in Hospital.

Mrs. McArthur is one of the most active members of the woman's board of the hospital and with Mrs. Grant H. Laing, Miss Lyla Woodruff and Mrs. J. Beach Clow manages the new shop in the hospital. The shop is only two months old, but it is doing a boom business, for it fills a long felt want for patients and visitors alike. In its stock are games, toys, magazines, cigarets, plants, sandwiches, and delicious ice cream sodas and milk shakes.

When Miss McArthur was at home this spring doing field work she found time to work occasionally in the shop and when she returns on Sunday she undoubtedly will lend a helping hand there again until she goes to Mackinac. She is specializing in surgical photography.

Gardner-Sieber Nuptials Today.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in St. Luke's church, Evanston, Miss Gertrude Sieber, daughter of the Louis Siebers of the Orrington hotel, will become the bride of Henry A. Gardner Jr., son of the Henry A. Gardners of Winnetka. The Rev. Gerald G. Moore will read the service, and a reception will follow at the Orrington.

Miss Sieber's attendants will include Mrs. Albert Early of Rockford, as matron of honor, and Mr. Gardner's schoolgirl sister, Evelyn Gardner; Miss Jane Wheeler, Mrs. Harry Nye, Miss Ann Louise Hankins of Shaker Heights, O., and Mrs. Henry Barber of Springfield, as bridesmaids.

Gifford Gardner, a student at Yale, will be his brother's best man. Ushering will be Robert and France Anderson, cousins of the bridegroom; Robert Childs, Philip Von Ammon, and Hamilton Reidy. Mr. Gardner and his bride will live on the north shore.

Zimmers Arrive for Siqueland Wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Johannes Zimmer [Margo Siqueland] have arrived from Norway to be in Chicago until after the marriage of her sister, Miss Alyce Siqueland, to Dr. Zimmer's cousin, Ditlef Knudsen, on June 24. Others who will attend the wedding include the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ellen Knudsen of Norway; Oluf Tostrup, the Norwegian consul of New York, and his wife; Alexander Wilding White of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Frederick Stillman of Dallas, Tex.

Dr. Zimmer will be the best man, and his wife will be the matron of honor. Miss Knudsen, Mrs. Stillman, Mrs. Hans P. Pettersen [Inger Paasche], a bride of two months; Mrs. William Beaudry, and the bride's cousins, Miss Lulu Mae Moore and Miss Muriel Moore of Lake Geneva, will be the bridesmaids.

Mr. Tostrup, Mr. White, Mr. Pettersen, and Henry Hutchinson Melhoos will usher. The ceremony will take

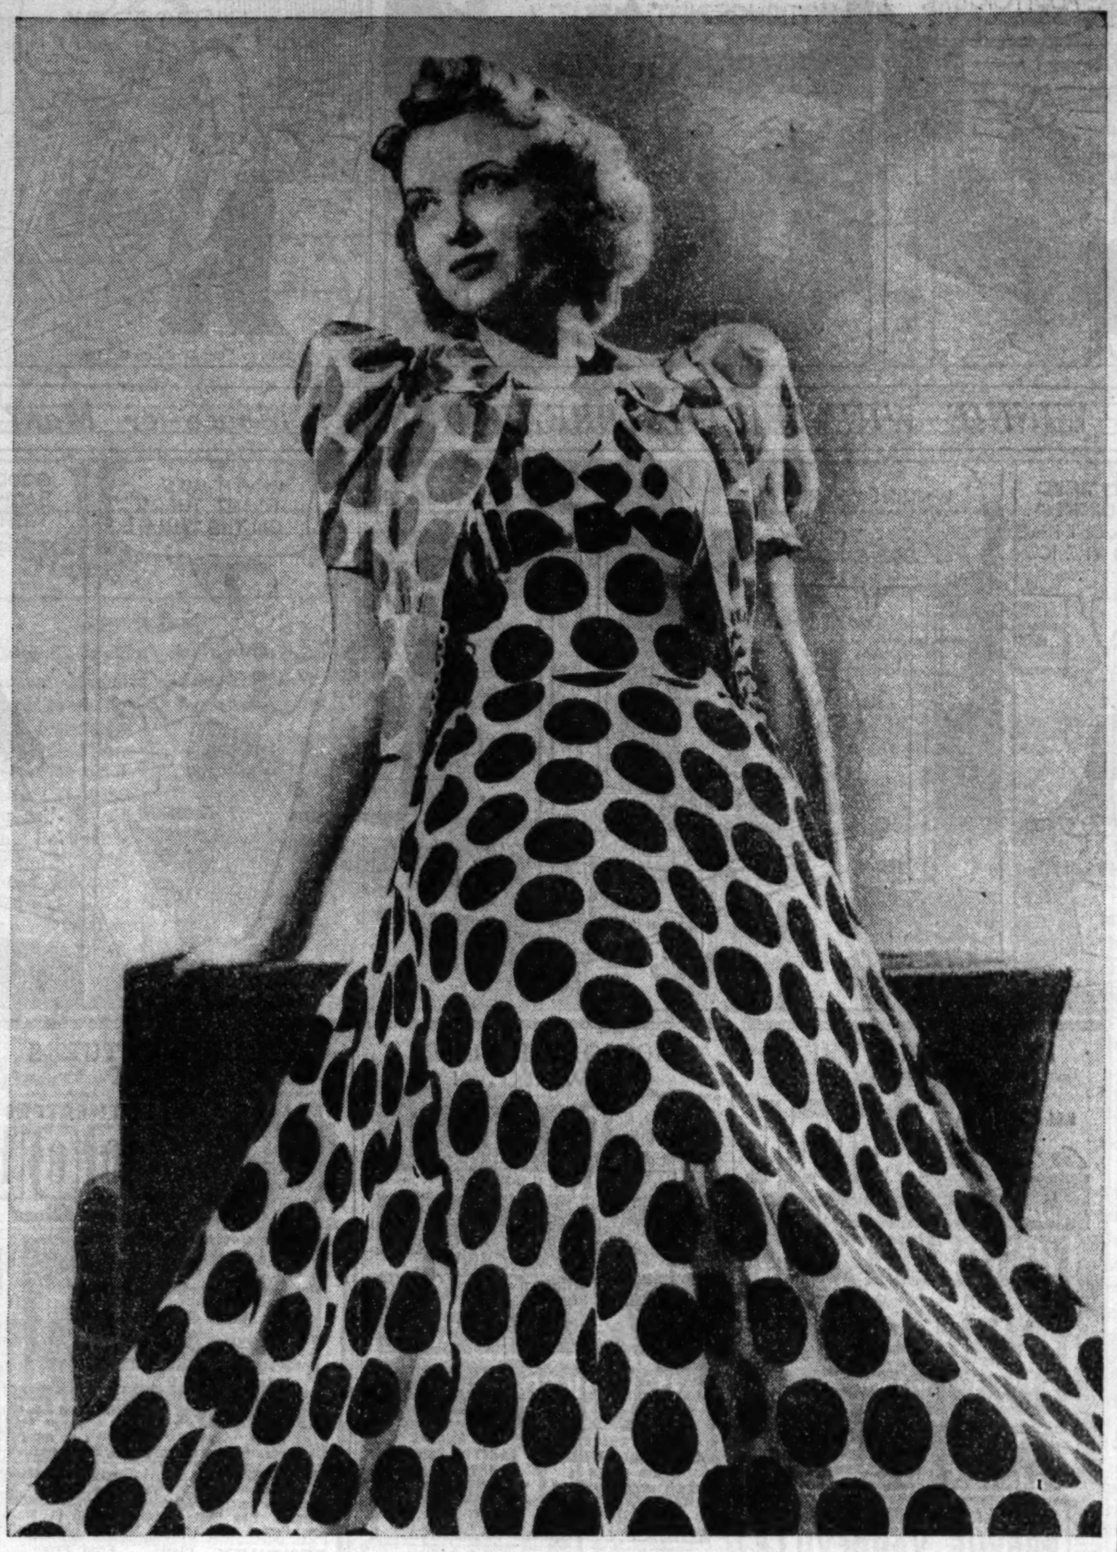
Strong Contrast for Dinner Dress



[Tribune Studio Photo.]

The summer dinner dress and matching jacket of outside dotted crepe uses two strong colors for contrast. The billowing full skirt is of white with huge dots of navy blue . . . the belted short jacket is of white with flaming red dots. White accessories and white flowers in the hair complete the cool charm of the ensemble.

Clinging Jersey Styles Newest of House Coats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sleek, almost fluid jersey is used for the new summer house coats that are creating no end of shopping enthusiasm. They are the superglamor loot of the week. Modest price marks make them even more alluring. One model comes in four flattering colors, a dull white which is a knockout, a poetic pinky-gray, a blue, and a rosy red.

This particular find is one of the perfect models that can be worn two ways. It is just as flattering worn either back or front. The sleeves are brief and classically draped into the shoulder. An exceedingly small waistline is accentuated by the very full and wide skirt. For about $12 you get this negligée fashioned like a sumptuous house coat or a gown that can easily be worn for informal summer dinners. It's sculptured Grecian grace in plumskin thin jersey.

The second find is the gray and black gown cut with long tight fitted sleeves, a deep square cut neckline and a circular skirt. Ruffles of fine organdy provide frosting around the neckline and around the very narrow cuffs. This gown has a devastating charm, dramatic with the frills of white to contrast the sooty black and romantically different in the dove gray with the same filmy white ruffles. Priced around nineteen dollars, it can also double with great distinction as a dinner gown.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Smooth, white hands, lovely to look at and pleasant to touch, can afford a woman more real satisfaction than any other one of her beauty points. There was a time when hands were considered beautiful only if they were small and plump and rather helpless looking, and really had to be one of nature's gifts. That day is gone, fortunately, and now they can be large or small and of most any type and still be a beauty asset so long as they are well groomed.

For the last two weeks we have been dipping our fingers into a jar of hand cream that seems to have accomplished a great deal for us. Our hands are softer and, while we don't want to brag, they even seem whiter. This cream is chalk white, slightly fragrant, and looks as if it had been whipped until it was light and spongy. It's as smooth as satin and a light film spread over the hands is easily massaged into the skin.

You probably know how provoking it is to wash your hands, apply a cream, and then find that you have to do the whole thing over again because of a forgotten task necessitating another hand wetting.

This little problem is solved, for one of the unusual features about this cream is that one application serves as a softener and with repeated washings acts as a lotion. Sounds very queer, we know, but it works this way. You use the cream as you would any hand lubricant. Then, if it is necessary to again wash your hands or immerse them in water for any reason, the cream that has already been applied combines with the water to form a lotion. After drying your hands a gentle rubbing takes the place of another creaming. Of course this will not go on indefinitely, but can be repeated several times.

We like this cream for daytime use because it does not leave the hands sticky or greasy. But it is enough of a lubricant to make it an excellent night cream. FLORENCE MURDOCH.

Good Morning!

Here's a race track movie in which the right horse doesn't win the race, and the mousy comedian hogs the limelight right away from the handsome hero, the attractive heroine and the fascinating villain.

The amusing todo which keeps you smiling and intrigued for about sixty-seven minutes, is occasioned by the loss of $50,000 of Bookmaker Foster's money, which Ted and "Sleeper," who work for him, have permitted to escape their vigilance.

They explain to the boss how it all happened, but he's a tough guy who doesn't believe in Santa Claus, and who promises direly that there'll be two new faces in heaven if the dough isn't back in his pocket by the following midnight. . . .

The money is traced to Susan Bannister, secretary to a rich and unpleasant Mrs. Sweringen who has refused to look at the advertising matter with which the money had inadvertently been mailed. . . . Susan, feeling that the gods had dumped this fortune in her Cinderella lap, starts out to spend it. . . .

Right about then the desperate Ted catches up with her. . . . What follows is for the picture to show you.

Bright little show! Ably presented and played. . . . Funny little Etienne Girardot is most amusing as a screwy—but—well—never mind. . . . And that Richard Lane—[Foster]—is GOOD!

See you tomorrow.

New Woman's Board to Assist in Work of Travelers' Aid

A new woman's board of the Travelers' Aid society was organized at a tea yesterday at the Arts club. The speakers were Dr. Howard B. Carroll and Mrs. Herbert W. Kochs of the senior board and Miss Madeline MacGregor, the executive secretary. The new board will assume responsibility for the children's work of the society, helping to finance it through a benefit in January each year, and providing volunteer service when needed.

Dr. Carroll explained the work done by the Aid, and Miss MacGregor told about the Chicago agency. Mrs. Edward S. Price and Miss Martha Borland of the senior board poured. Miss Julia Drake, daughter of the Lauren J. Drakes, was elected temporary chairman of the new group.

Miss Hatfield is a graduate of Northwestern university. Mr. West attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Northwesern university and is now in his last year at Northwestern medical school.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Our Town.

Hollywood, Cal., June 6.—Grauman's theater, after a month's experiment with the Folies Bergere show, in the flesh, has decided to go back to moving pictures. . . . The seventy-five person show did big business, but the overhead was too steep and there are not enough shows of its type to permit continuous bookings.

Katharine De Mille returns to flickers in "Isle of Destiny," now shooting at Grand National Studios, with Wally Ford, Gilbert Holand, and June Lang being photographed in that new cosmo color process. . . . The director is Elmer Clifton. . . . He directed Clara Bow in her first pictures, if memory serves right.

With Work as studio manager at Universal, and a Fox as business manager, no wonder President Nate Blumberg reports his company is in the black. . . . This is the time of year when Hollywood people are able to use their swimming pools. . . . They get about three months' use out of them, spend the other nine months sweeping leaves out of the water. . . . A shower is a better investment.

Nickey Arnstein settled that "Rose of Washington Square" suit for $25,000.

Band Leader George Olsen and Darryl Zanuck have the most notable teeth in show business. . . . No job in this town has so scant a future as that of a stand-in. . . . No better looking couple in this town than blonde Annabelle and dark haired Tyrone Power. . . . Not, mind you, that the Lombard and the Gable are at all corney looking.

Edward Arnold always looks as if he just arose from an eight course meal that was prepared by George Lamaze. . . . Warning to all coast piano owners: Helen Morgan is in town. . . . No other performer ever became identified as a piano top sitter. . . . Tom Gallery always sits in the orchestra.

Simone Simon is doing very nicely in Paris. . . . It's a photo finish between "Mikados" and "Lincolns" this season. . . . The amazing thing is, as Herman Mankiewicz points out, that neither the stage nor the screen has been able to make a "B" President out of Lincoln.

Sudden thought: I never heard a girl who could sing a song better than Marion Harris. . . . Wonder where she is now? . . . M-G-M wastes Robert Young in a lot of unimportant pictures. . . . There is no better light comedian in town, either, and in addition audiences like him. . . . Think I'll form an association to see that Leo the Lion does right by Robert Young from here in.

If the studio publicity men voted, Herbert Marshall would win a popularity contest hands down.

Arthur Treacher can look more contemptuously bored than anybody else out here. . . . Billie Burke is a grown-up Gracie Allen. . . . Their old vaudeville pals, incidentally, are delighted that Burns and Allen have made up with Block and Sully, because that was a feud that didn't make sense. . . . Block and Sully were show-stoppers at Loew's State this week.

Jules Stein, head of Giant Music Corporation of America, is a former Chicago eye specialist. . . . He got the idea of his corporation from vaudeville. . . . In the old, old days bands went into a hotel or café and stayed there for a year at a time. . . . Stein figured that if vaudeville rotated acts every week, bands should be operated the same way, and made a fortune out of his idea.

Anita Louise has a harp in her living room. . . . In Nat Finston's Beverly Hills home there are six organs and pianos. . . . Gus Kahn has two pianos in his living room. . . . I've got a piccolo and an inferiority complex. . . . Show me a race track and I'll show you Stu Erwin and June Collyer. . . . Read John Steinbeck's "The Red Pony."

Martindale's, where the movie crowd buys their books, reports that "Grapes of Wrath" and "Days of Our Years" top the fiction and nonfiction lists this week with "Mein

The River Bend Feud

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1939: By William MacLeod Raine.)

SYNOPSIS.

Jeff Hunter, an American mining engineer, awaits execution in a Mexican jail by order of Pancho Banderas, rebel leader. A peon friend helps him escape to Texas. Jeff meets Joan Raleigh, lost in the vastness of her feudal estate, and assists her home. He meets her brothers, Bill and Phil, and Phil's wife, Mary Lou. When they learn Jeff went to college with their cousin, Raeburn, he is invited to be their guest. An old feud against the Raleighs is being renewed under the leadership of Butler Lane, suspected of poisoning their aunt, his wife, and forging her will. Banderas, routed from Mexico, has joined Lane. Jeff offers to try to make peace with the better element and with Jim Williams, calls at the ranch of Carl Nielsen. En route they are pursued and fired on by Banderas and his men, who follow them to the ranch. Jeff manages to disarm them. Nielsen is shocked by the outlaws. The feud has prevented a romance between beautiful Olga Nielsen and Bill Raleigh. Joan and Phil disappear—kidnaped in their own plane and made the prisoners of Banderas. Phil tries to buy their escape from the bandit. Jeff, Raeburn Raleigh and Jim Williams kidnap Lane Butler from his hotel and force him to arrange for the release of Joan and Phil. Meanwhile Banderas agrees to ransom terms with Phil. He kills one of the gangsters who becomes suspicious. He takes the captives to the bank at Raleigh where Phil is to obtain money. When Jeff and the Raleigh searchers reach the hideout they find only the body of the dead gangster.

INSTALMENT XLV.
RANSOM PAYMENT.

The Raleighs and Pancho passed into the bank. At sight of them the manager, who was also cashier, teller, and bookkeeper, opened wide his eyes. Phil cut short his exclamations.

"Just now we are in a hurry, Bowman. I need all the money you have. How much is here?"

"Do you mean in the safe, too?"

"Yes."

"A little under eight thousand," the manager said.

"Get it. I'll write a check."

"All of it?"

Bowman slid a look at the big Mexican. He had known Pancho in the old days when he had been merely a troublesome bully and ruffian, before the man had gained notoriety as a killer with no regard for human life. He had been afraid of him then and was more so now.

"Don't talk," Banderas ordered in Spanish. "Do as you are told." He added savagely: "Or I'll pump lead into you."

The blood drained from the face of the bank manager. He walked back into the cage and began to work the safe combination.

Phil got a connection over the telephone with the president of a San Antonio bank. Since the morning papers had been full of the kidnaping the banker was not astonished at Raleigh's request for twenty thousand dollars to be sent at once by plane.

"Of course I'll see to it right away. I'll get the plane off soon as I can. You and Miss Joan are all right?"

"Quite. I wish you would get this money to me in five and ten dollar bills, Mr. Sanford. Please keep this matter as secret as possible. I don't want any officers butting in until after the business is finished."

The bank president promised to arrange for the transportation in person and to send a special messenger with the bills.

The telephone was inside the cage, and during the long distance talk Pancho stood at Raleigh's elbow, his ear close to the receiver. Phil was careful to make no sudden motions and to speak in a cool, matter of fact manner. His sister backed him up. She sat on a high stool in front of the desk used for the bookkeeping, and read the morning San Antonio paper which had arrived a few minutes before. On the front page was a story of the kidnaping with pictures of herself, Phil, and the Rex ranch.

She tossed it over to her brother after he had finished telephoning. Phil smiled. "I don't see your picture here, general."

"There will be plenty of pictures of me in the papers before I'm through," Pancho boasted.

"There have been a good many already," Phil said. "We may live to see one with the caption, Pancho Banderas, President of Mexico."

Bowman had been piling bills on a table. "Do you want the silver, too?" he asked tremulously. "All I mean is, it will be rather heavy."

"Que diablo! I'll take it all," the bandit said. "Sack it."

The manager did so, then found a large canvas sack in which he put the smaller ones. He tied the end with a piece of cord.

Banderas had no wish to be trapped inside the building. He moved the party out to the street. In front of the bank was parked Bowman's coupé. From the banker the outlaw got the ignition key. He told Joan to get into the car and took the driver's seat beside her. Raleigh and Bowman he directed to stand by the window on his side of the automobile.

"We'll wait here the way we are until the dough comes," he said. "If nobody starts anything we'll get along fine. If any one does, it won't be so good for three of us."

Occasionally people drifted along the street—some Spanish-American women shopping supplies, a mule skinner to get a new singletree, a native boy with two horses to be shod. All of them showed astonishment and spoke to the Raleighs.

Both Phil and Joan spoke pleasantly to all of them. They were promoting the idea that all was now well, that Banderas had found them lost in the brush and brought them back. To each of the pedestrians greeting them they parroted the same story. It would have got across better if all of them had not known the evil reputation of the bandit.

The sun climbed higher. Phil looked at his watch. In a few minutes it would be noon.

"The plane ought to be here soon," he mentioned. "In another half hour, I'd say. Maybe a little longer."

"It had better be," Banderas answered sullenly. "I'm tired of sitting around here."

A barefooted brown little man on the rump of a burro jogged up the street and drew up beside the car. He slid from his mount, took a slip of paper from his wide sombrero, and spoke to Bowman. "I have a check, señor, from the company for eleven dollars. For wood."

The banker glanced at Raleigh and then at the outlaw. He did not know what to say. The dark eyes of the customer followed those of Bowman. At sight of Phil his jaw dropped with surprise.

"But, señor, I thought——" he began, and stopped abruptly. His gaze had found Joan and Banderas sitting in the car, a sight altogether too much for him.

Banderas held out a huge hair-matted hand for the pocketbook. "Cash it tomorrow, Señor Raleigh," he jeered.

Tamely Phil handed over the billfold. He was playing for big stakes—for his sister's safety—and until that was assured he did not want to challenge the supremacy of the bandit. After that . . .

"The bank is closed today," the manager said timidly, hoping this explanation would meet with Pancho's approval. "Come tomorrow with the check."

"Sí, señor." The little Mexican turned to his burro.

"You will stay here with these other men," Banderas told him.

Pasqual was puzzled, but he asked no questions and he voiced no protest. He had been told to stay by a man notorious as a killer, so of course he would stay. He said again, "Sí, señor."

A River Bend rider drifted across the street and was ordered to join those in attendance. The man looked at his employer for instructions and Phil nodded to him to do as directed. Not five minutes later the village blacksmith arrived—and stayed.

The eyes of Banderas gleamed with sadistic pleasure. Many years ago, in his boyhood, he had been driven out of the smithy on account of a bit of malicious mischief.

"Ho, ho, Mr. Grant!" he cried. "It is nice, ve-ry nice, to see you again. Now you can pray to your God, for I am going to send you to meet him in five so little minutes."

The color deserted Grant's face, but he did not flinch.

Phil interceded and was told roughly to mind his own business.

"Let him go, general," Joan begged. "He is a good man."

"So," Pancho cried. "I am to let him go. You beg for him, carissima?"

"Yes. He has a wife and children."

"You will perhaps buy his life?"

"By God, no," Phil broke out.

June 7, 1939.

The ill-fated Empress Charlotte of Mexico was born on a June 7th. It can be a constructive day if one's power is wisely directed, but if the destructive element is allowed to dominate it can be most unsatisfactory. Justice should be served today.

Humor Is Aid in Making Man Good Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We have no statistics at hand to support a claim recently heard, namely, that comedians make the mates easiest to live with. It was some one in the amusement world speaking, and he named off dozens of couples who make their living catering to the risibilities of the masses.

The wife of one of the well known "comics," Mrs. George Givot, agrees heartily that the man with a sense of humor—in balance—is the perfect mate. He knows the moods of others. His professional experience teaches him how to extract cheer at all times. Then, Mrs. Givot argues, if a man can keep an entire audience in good humor it is no small wonder that he knows how to treat the one person whom he loves. And comedians, she thinks, have the knack of making troubles seem lighter, which gives their home associates a chance at happier living.

"It makes little difference how far away your beloved may be," Mrs. Givot comments on separations, "as long as the one you love remains in your heart. And what better stamp on your heart than that of a beloved whose sense of fun and laughter keeps you cheered always?"

How different, Mrs. Givot observes, the relief at the departure of a mate who perpetually nurses a grouch, who can see only the dark side. One must wish he would never return. There can be little pleasure in anticipating a reunion.

Of course, there are not enough comedians to go around to supply home laughter for all the wives in existence. And, true, some wives have grouches on their hands through their own making. They fail in their part as good natured, light hearted helpmates. It takes two, we think, to keep up the light hearted tone in a home. But it is a blessing above all blessings to be part of a home atmosphere in which life is taken with a sense of fun and good humor.

Velma Montoya Has Modest Success in Her Dance Recital

Without touching upon any particular note of novelty or demonstrating any outstanding mastery of her chosen idiom, Velma Montoya gave modest pleasure to her audience in a program of Spanish dances in the Woman's Club theater last evening. She is essentially an eager young dancer who has gone some distance in making the technical materials of classic and folk Spanish dancing her own.

Both her temperament and her appearance—neither of which carries the least hint of the Iberian peninsula—would seem to militate against more than an academic success in the field.

Sonya Illianova played Miss Montoya's accompaniments and contributed several piano solos. Her solid, easy technique and musical propriety indicated a valuable talent. Somehow, however, she seemed to project the feeling that she remained aloof from her playing and was not quite wholly interested in it. C. S.

USE LYSOL

to help Deodorize and "De-Flea" your Dog

WHEN you wash your dog, do as many kennels do—add a teaspoonful of "Lysol" for each quart of bath water. The clean odor of "Lysol" disappears soon after drying and leaves Fido freshly non-fragrant. To combat fleas and lice, add 2 teaspoonfuls of "Lysol" per quart of water when you wash him. (Don't get the solution in his eyes.) Disinfect kennels and runs with "Lysol", to help prevent Infections.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Kampf" still hanging on. . . . Girls tell me that the most oomph-y male voice on the screen is that of Charles Boyer. . . . Gene Raymond and Edgar Bergen wear white ties and tails more consistently than any of the other Hollywoods.

Phil Harris closed at the Wilshire bowl after a nine months run. . . . That wasn't a run, that was a marathon . . . Barney Oldfield's blast at the Indianapolis race must have scorched a lot of his old pals. . . . Oldfield asserted that the annual 500-miler served no purpose because auto companies do all of ther own motor testing anyhow.

No temperament on "The Woman" set. . . . Yet Jerry Lester's topspinning routine at the Vaudeville proves to other masters of ceremonies that there is something new under the sun, if they want to dig it up.

Writer Gives Advice to the Tired Mother

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When I write, as I began to yesterday, about mothers doing something about the running of their day so they won't be so constantly overtired I have my ear to the ground and can almost hear their objections.

"But you don't understand how much I have to do. There isn't a thing I can skip. I must have a clean house. I must keep the baby clean. My husband's hours are irregular." This or some other form the "buts" will take.

So, let me voice my "but." It is: But I do understand. I know what the cares of a hourse are. I know every step of taking care of a baby—a small child, a big one. I understand about managing on a small budget, about city and country living, about being closely confined to your family and about sickness and money troubles. When I try to hold out a helping hand to overtired mothers I do it realizing their difficulties.

I also do it knowing that I can offer no cure-all, knowing that some of the circumstances that wear a woman down can't be changed. But I do it, too, knowing that many situations that look like blind alleys aren't blind alleys at all. Either there's a big, sunny opening you didn't see because you didn't go far enough, or there's a chink that can be widened to a good way out if you're absolutely determined to find one. For where there's a will there's usually a way. If you'll just make up your mind that you will not drag through the days, worn out—no joy to yourself, your child or your husband—you'll find a way.

Each mother's problem is an individual one, of course. All I can do is to summon to mind my own experiences, those of my friends and of people I've observed in a wider circle of contacts, and make general suggestions. Those suggestions will be based on two contrasting plans: A plan of doing, and a plan of not doing, or eliminating.

You will do by thinking and acting constructively about your health, perhaps going to the doctor for expert attention. You will call on your husband or relatives, or coöperate with other mothers, or pay modestly [and it can be done] for occasional outside care or work.

You will eliminate by cutting out unnecessary housework, fancy clothes and washing for the baby, and such things as cooking elaborately and marketing carelessly. But such advice can't be covered in a day, so tomorrow's and several articles after will be devoted to concrete suggestions on the subject.

"Tips for Tired Mothers" is a leaflet of interest to parents and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

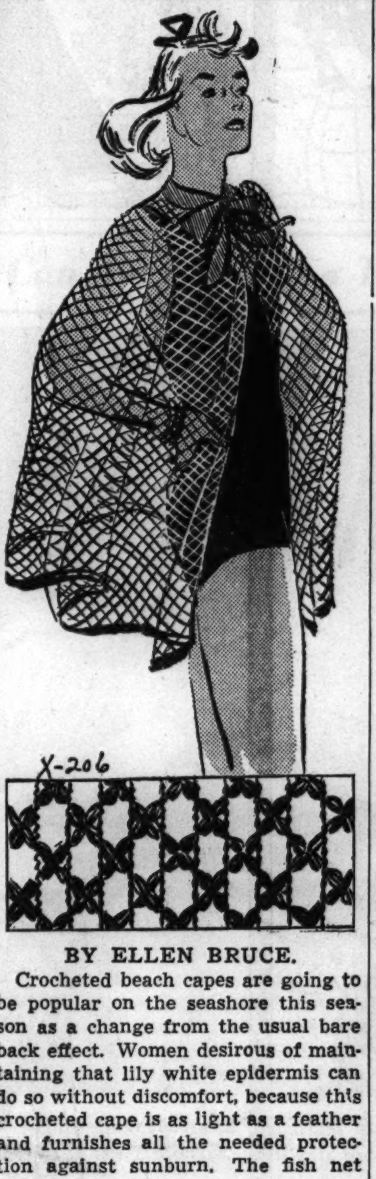
Crocheted Beach Cape Is a Smart Shield from Sun



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted beach capes are going to be popular on the seashore this season as a change from the usual bare back effect. Women desirous of maintaining that lily white epidermis can do so without discomfort, because this crocheted cape is as light as a feather and furnishes all the needed protection against sunburn. The fish net stitch is popular and easy to create. Cotton is the perfect medium, and the color is a matter of choice, although the original model was crocheted in white.

For instructions in crocheting the beach cape, No. X-206, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

The Housewife

If you have just finished painting and the bedroom, living room or dining room seems extremely plain, you can give it an ornamental touch that is also gay and clever by using one of the new wallpaper borders.

These borders can be used just as well with plain painted or calcimined walls as they can with ones that are hung in wallpaper. And they come in all sorts of lovely colors and designs. They can be put in the normal place for borders, at the top of the walls, and also they can be pasted over the dado, or around the door and window frames. When put around a window they create a frame effect, and no curtains are necessary, especially if you're using Venetian blinds.

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

If anybody had told South, in the hand shown below, that he would have trouble in making a mere game, especially after he had been raised in trumps, he probably would have chuckled heartily, but that was before he played the hand. Afterward, the defenders did the chuckling.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 hearts	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Two full minutes went by after North's four heart bid before South passed, and even then, the word came out of his mouth with obvious reluctance. I cannot say that I blame him. Nor can I deny that, in his position, I might have been irresistibly tempted to one more little try for a slam. Actually, however, South's great self-control should have paid a beautiful dividend, inasmuch as four hearts was the absolute limit of the hand. Considering that he went down a trick, however, he might as well have had the fun of trying for a slam and going down an extra 200 points.

West opened the diamond king and declarer, probably congratulating himself for his conservatism after seeing the dummy, won with the ace, and cashed the ace and king of trumps. It must have been a bit disturbing to find the 3-1 break, but declarer was not yet daunted. He cashed the A-K of clubs, then exited with a diamond, obviously hoping to develop a situation that would require West to lead up to the A-K-J of spades. That is what would have happened if West had not been alert but, as it happened, West was a national master [which was hard luck for the declarer].

West clearly saw what probably would happen if he were to win this present diamond lead with the ten spot. He could cash the high heart and diamond queen, but after that would be forced to lead either a club or a spade. He strongly suspected, from declarer's method of play, that declarer now was void of clubs, hence a lead of that suit would permit a discard in one hand and a ruff in the other, nor was it more attractive to have to lead a spade from the queen. After considerable thought, West deliberately jumped up with the diamond queen, cashed the high trump, and then exited with the diamond ten. East naturally caught on to his partner's intention and overtook with the diamond jack, returning a spade. Declarer now was helpless to avoid the loss of a spade trick and with it his contract.

Undoubtedly, declarer thought he was the victim of circumstances, and in a sense he was, but let us note the difference that would have been made by a slight change in play. Let's be big-hearted and make West a present of the first trick with the diamond king. It does not matter what West plays to the second trick, but let us assume that he plays the diamond queen, as good a defense as any. We win with the ace and, as before, cash the A-K of trumps and the A-K of clubs. We then exit with our one remaining diamond. East can win if he chooses and return a spade, but now we have West in our power. We win with the spade ace and throw West on lead with the high trump. He must return either a spade to our K-J or a club that will let us discard the spade jack while ruffing in dummy.

I call my readers' attention to the fact that holdup plays [such as the holdup of the diamond ace at the first trick] have many more uses than are generally realized.

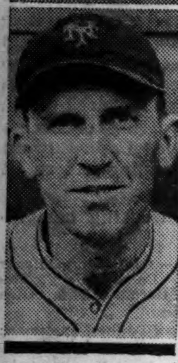
GIANTS BREAK HOMER RECORD-- 5 IN ONE INNING

Make 7 in All; Rout Reds, 17 to 3.



Joe Moore.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The New York Giants, booed heartily yesterday, reached baseball heights today in setting one major league home run record and equaling another as they routed the first place Cincinnati Reds, 17 to 3.

The new record came in the fourth inning when five Giants—Harry Danning, Frank Demaree, Burgess Whitehead, Pitcher Manuel Salvo, and Joe Moore—hit for the circuit. Previously the major league mark for homers was four in one inning, set by the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1894 and not equaled until the Chicago Cubs came through with a similar performance in 1930.

The Cubs enjoyed their home run spree at the expense of the Giants on May 12, 1930, in Wrigley Field. The late Cliff Heathcote made the first of four home runs in the seventh inning after which Hack Wilson, Charlie Grimm and Clyde Beck followed with circuit drives.

All After Two Are Out.

The record for seven homers in one game—before that big fourth inning Joe Moore and Mel Ott had connected for four base blows—tied a record held jointly by the Detroit [National league] club of 1886, the Philadelphia Athletics of 1921, and the Pittsburgh Pirates of 1894.

And the Giants didn't start their barrage until two were out in the inning. Danning stepped up and hit his sixth homer of the year. After Ott walked and Zeke Bonura singled, Demaree knocked one out of the park.

That was the finish for Peaches Davis and Rookie Wes Livengood came in. He walked Tony Lazzeri and pitched a home run ball to Burgess Whitehead. It was Whitehead's first of the year. Then Manuel Salvo, the winning pitcher, slammed a ball high against the right field wall. It caromed into the Giants' bullpen and Salvo just beat the relay to the plate. Then Moore came through with his second home run of the game. Danning struck out to end the inning.

Giants Chase Vander Meer.

The Giants, at the time they broke loose with their history making barrage, had a 6 to 0 lead. They knocked out Johnny Vander Meer in the first inning with a three run blast, added one in the second—that was Moore's first homer—and counted twice in the third, one of them Ott's homer.

After the big fourth the Giants weren't completely worn out and managed to push across three more runs in the fifth. Meanwhile Salvo was holding the Reds, who had compiled a mark of 18 victories in their last 22 games, to 11 hits. The league leaders bunched four of them in the sixth inning for their three runs.

The Old Maid's Song.

O, give me Diogenes' lamp
And let me go out for a hike;
Across the whole country I'll tramp,
Or pedal my way on a bike;
I'll travel the snow covered hills,
I'll make the hard rocks my divan,
I'll wade through the rivers and rills
In search of a man, just a man.

O, give me just one ray of hope
And watch me cavort o'er the plains,
Through measureless forests I'll grope
In spite of the hardships and pains;
I'll venture where woman ne'er trod
Since first this creation began,
Through marshes and valleys I'll plod
In search of a man, just a man.

I'll go where the savages cry
Like beasts in the dead of the night,
I'll risk a few ears and an eye
And never complain of my plight;
I'll beard the wild boar in his den,
I'll frown down the barbarous clan,
And then with my little lamp, then
I'll look for a man, just a man.

And if I should fail to come back
Don't think I've eloped with the Sphinx.
Just utter a sapient crack
And lift a few sociable drinks;
Destroy all my letters and bills,
And sell my old Buick sedan,
And think about this till it thrills:
"I've got me a man, a real man."

Song Without Notes.

I am longing for the chilling winds to die,
And the sun to shed its glamor on the road;
For there's sorrow in my heart, I know not why,
And my back seems bent and broken with its load.
O, I'm hungry for the songbirds of the south,
That whistled from the sweet magnolia trees;
I'm lonely for a girl with cherry mouth,
Whose song at eve dropped blessings on the breeze.

In the evening when the snow pecks at the pane,
And the rowdy winds carouse outside my door;
In my dreams I'm strolling down a blossomed lane,
A freckled, barefoot lad, as oft before
I strolled with her who packed my head with dreams.
We vowed we'd face the sunsets hand in hand;
O, every day crawls as a year, it seems,
Till I get back to her and Dixieland.

CUBS BOG DOWN AFTER SCORING FOUR RUNS IN 1ST

Phillies Collect Three in Winning Ninth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—The Cubs swooned again this afternoon in the presence of the ferocious tail-end Phillies, a team which has won fourteen games this year, five of them from the Cubs. The Phillies have lost twenty-seven games, two of them to the defending champions. The score of today's wild spectacle was: Phillies, 9; Cubs, 8

Today's flop perhaps was the most grievous of the several suffered in numerous fainting spells this season. The Cubs led, 4 to 0, at the end of the first half of the first inning and at the end of the fifth, before a rookie from the University of Mississippi came in to stand them on their heads for three and a third innings, the champions were leading, 7 to 2.

Lillard Is Called In.

In the home sixth the Phillies made three runs off Vance Page, with the aid of Gee Russell's first major league error, and the Cubs still were ahead, 7 to 5.

It was still 7 to 5 going into the home eighth. Legrant Scott batted for Pearson and was thrown out by Herman. Herschel Martin and Heinie Mueller then banged successive doubles off the right field wall, hits Nos. 12 and 13 off Page. Gene Lillard was called in and Mueller was run down on Brack's grounder to Mesner, Martin scoring. Morris Arnovich, the National league's leading hitter, came up. He had three hits and a walk for a perfect day yesterday and had made four straight hits this afternoon. Lillard struck him out to retire the side. The Cubs smiled. They still were ahead, 7 to 6.

Pearson having disappeared, the Cubs were able to make a run in the ninth off Boom Boom Beck. Jim Gleeson's double and a single by Augie Galan produced the run and gave the Cubs an 8 to 6 edge.

You've Heard of Chuck.

Then came the home ninth. Joe Marty, Merrill May, and George Scharein smacked successive singles, Marty scoring and May reaching third on Scharein's hit.

Now there's a fellow named Chuck Klein. Used to be a star. Last night

Undefeated Lane Tech Plays Steinmetz for Prep Title Today

Lane Tech will win either its eleventh championship or finish as runnerup for the seventh time in the nineteen years which Percy Moore has been in charge when it meets Steinmetz in the finals of the Chicago Public High School baseball league in Wrigley field today. The north side is the favorite to win the City league championship.

Supporting the pitching of Frank Marino and Herb Chmiel, Lane has run roughshod over most of its opposition. It won twelve games and, clinching the north section title, traded a pair of forfeits with Von Steuben. Its outstanding victory was scored last Wednesday in the playoff semi-finals when Marino beat Amundsen without a hit, 8 to 0. Marino, a senior, pitched a no-hit game as a junior last year. Chmiel pitched two no-hitters earlier this season, but now has a sore arm.

Steinmetz, which joined the City league in 1937, has improved each season since then. The west side team, coached by Ed Ruzicka, won six and lost eight its first season. Last year it won top honors in its section, but was beaten by Lindblom in the league quarter-finals.

This year it was beaten twice, both times by Crane, but in the semi-finals last Wednesday, defeated Crane, 8 to 3, behind the pitching of Stan Kafara. It has compiled a team batting average of .335. Two of its leading batters are Warren and Clyde Lorenz, twin brothers, who play short and second base, respectively. Warren bats .490, Clyde's average is .385.

Kafara, winner of five of the six games he has pitched this season, will face Farino today. If Kafara falters he probably will be replaced by Dick Bassa. Bob Byrnes is listed as relief man for Marino. The game starts at 3 o'clock. Probable lineups:

FOUND! A WAY TO STOP THE YANKS: PASS A NEW LAW

Cleveland, O., June 6.—(AP)—If the Yankees win the pennant by a large margin this season club owners will attempt to correct by legislation some of the evils that make such one club supremacy possible.

President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians, asserting he spoke only for himself, today said the problem of a lopsided pennant race might be solved through rules governing control of minor league affiliates.

Regulation of options and ownership of more than one club in each minor league classification might be open to correction, Bradley said.

KAYAK FLEET TO RACE SUNDAY IN TRIBUNE REGATTA

Kayak racing, newest of the water sports, which was recognized internationally only two years ago, has a prominent part on the program of the annual Blade and Paddle regatta to be held Sunday afternoon on the Chicago river. The water spectacle is sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the Chicago Park district.

While the Chicago river interscholastic rowing championship event, in which eight oared shells manned by high school athletes from Lane Tech, Amundsen, Waller and Lake View, is the major attraction, the kayak races will furnish a full share of the thrills to the thousands of spectators who will line the course from the new lock of the Chicago river to the finish line near the Wrigley building.

Forty Kayaks in Race.

The kayaks will make their first appearance at 2:25 o'clock, No. 4 on the twelve event program. More than forty kayaks are expected to compete in the race, while many more will take part in the colorful parade. Some of the craft are covered with rubberized canvas, while others are of impregnated canvas and range in length from 14 to 17½ feet. Some are collapsible and others are rigid, and all are painted in gay colors.

The kayak is a replica of the

Brown Halts Rally in 9th Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Bill Dietrich called on his former Athletic pals yesterday and demanded damages for the embarrassment and pain they caused by slapping him down inside of three innings last Sunday. Bespectacled Bill got what he wanted, but his one time fellow workers were sort of balky about the whole thing in the ninth, so Doctor Clint Brown, renowned rescue specialist, was called for the sixteenth time this season. The doctor fixed everything in a hurry and the White Sox, as a sort of warmup for the Yankees, scored a 7 to 4 decision in the final with Connie Mack's boys.

Dietrich's pitching, which netted him his fifth victory of the year, glittered until the ninth, but he didn't restrict his day's efforts to defense. He hit a homer with one on in the third, driving in the first pair of the numerous runs that eventually chased George Caster, a Sox nuisance of long standing, to cover. And Dietrich also singled in the seventh to launch a three run splurge which proved highly valuable in view of his last inning tottering.

Walker Blasts One, Too.

Dashing Gerald Walker also played a home run rôle. After witnessing Dietrich's feat the ex-Tiger stepped up in the same inning and duplicated the stunt, which netted another pair of runs. This seemed more than sufficient, in view of Dietrich's slick pitching, but he struck a snag of phony hits in the seventh and his four run lead was cut in half, but not for long. His own single in this inning, aided by the bats of Ollie Bejma, Walker again, and Rip Radcliff, put him back on easy street until the ninth.

Dietrich sailed through the early portion of his job so easily that the Macks got only two hits in six innings. He also walked one during this stretch, but it was an intentional maneuver aimed to get him out of the jam precipitated by the two hits. Then in the seventh he was thumped for four drives. Another in the eighth yielded two hits, as well as a pass, before anybody was retired in the ninth. But the Macks swooned quickly when Doc Brown turned loose his lethal pitches.

Athletics Just Threaten.

Dietrich's first inning of work was perfect, but there was enough happenings in the second to create a little scare. He retired the first two men, making five in a row, but Brucker then singled to center and Chapman bounced a two bagger off the left field score board, Brucker stopping at third. Nagel was purposely passed to bring up Caster and the latter came within inches of showing that he resented being pictured as a setup at the plate. He cracked a whale of a line drive to left, but fortunately it was straight at Walker.

Rensa's single to left in the third started the rout of the Caster jinx. Dietrich ran his count to 3 and 2 and Caster, not suspecting the Dietrich power, wanted to be doubly sure his next pitch would be a strike. It would have been if it had gotten past, but Dietrich slammed it into the left field lower deck for two runs. Bejma singled to deep short and, after Kuhel had flied to Moses, drifted across the plate on Walker's seventh homer which dropped into the upper story of left field.

EASY MON SCORES SECOND LINCOLN FIELDS VICTORY

Favorite Forces Rivals to Run His Race.

Paul Ryan.

Warren Wright's Easy Mon, racing in the red and blue Calumet farm colors, scored his second victory of the Lincoln Fields meeting yesterday, getting home a length and a half ahead of C. H. Cleary's fast finishing Calexico while Joseph E. Widener's Carla was taking third.

Easy Mon ran in just the fashion that Trainer Frank Kearns has found suits him best, keeping close to the early pace and taking the lead soon after the turn into the stretch. When this horse gets very far behind he doesn't do so well under the constant urging necessary to get him to the front, Trainer Kearns has decided. So he gave Jocky Irving Anderson instructions to get him away with the pace setters during the first furlong. After that, he figured, the race would take care of itself.

Wins Race Easily.

That's just about the way it worked out. Warren Yarberry rushed Carla into the lead soon after Starter Bill Hamilton sent them away. At the end of a half mile, however, Easy Mon had disposed of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' No Competition and was only a length and a half behind the leader running easily. With little urging Anderson brought the Calumet colt to the front soon after the stretch run began and won with plenty in reserve. Meanwhile Calexico closed with a rush to take second place away from Carla by a neck.

On the strength of his impressive performance on Memorial day, when he beat a similar field at the same distance, Easy Mon was made the odds on favorite, paying $3.60, $2.80, and $2.20. He ran the seven furlongs in 1:24 3-5.

Long Shot Wins.

The horses which Bill Causey trains for Leo Beyda continued to run in top form yesterday, Ginocchio winning the fourth race and Decourcy the fifth. The latter paid the handsome price of $54.40, $18, and $6.60. Jockey Paul Ryan began driving Decourcy before they were half way around the bend in the six furlong dash. He brought him from sixth place, got to the front in last sixteenth, and won by half a length. A. G. Tarn's Pelter was second and the Woolford farm's Beau Insco third.

Ryan had also brought in Ginocchio half an hour earlier. This horse finished two lengths ahead of Emil Denemark's Prairie Dog with Ruth Sidell's Hope Diamond third.

These victories left Joji T. as the only Beyda starter which has failed to earn at least a second place so far in the meeting. The stable has won with Red Moss, Sure Swift, Maleman, and Bachelor's Bower in addition to Ginocchio and Decourcy. It has also taken five second places and two thirds.

DARK SEEKER, a strong factor from the start, was kept well in hand until the final quarter, responded strongly to hand riding, and, disposing of PARISIAN MAID, came away to win easily. SIR AJAX, never far back, raced wide after the first quarter, was under vigorous urging the final quarter, and held on well. PARISIAN MAID, away fast and rushed into command, was taken under light restraint on the turn, continued well for an eighth under pressure in the stretch, then weakened badly.

CRUMPET, well up from the start and always clear while racing on the outside, bore over badly when working her way to the front in the stretch, was repeatedly straightened up in the final eighth, and won easily. VALDINA SPY had speed from the start, was eased back slightly as PALSIE went to the front, saved ground to the stretch, then came out and held on with determination in the drive. IRISH SOAP, fractious at the post, but away well, was unable to hold the advantage, was taken to the outside on the stretch turn, closed with good speed under light pressure, and was getting to the leaders.

ARIANNA, outrun from the start, went to the middle of the track entering the stretch, was slow to respond when straightened out, but rallied boldly in the final eighth, and got up in the closing strides. GRAY ETHEL, rated close to the early pace and always clear, took command when called upon and held on fairly well but was not good enough. FLY TIME, kept under light restraint for a half mile, stood a drive gamely and was in close quarters near the finish.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time: :22 4-5, :46 1-5, 1:13 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Ginnocchio, $11.40 straight, $4.80 place, $4.20 show; Prairie Dog, $3.40 place, $2.80 show; Hope Diamond, $5.80 show. Winner trained by W. Causey. Went to post at 3:52. At post, 2 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won handily, place driving.

GINOCCHIO took command quickly, cut out the pace easily for a half mile, was shaken up entering the stretch, and continued well but was under energetic riding the final eighth and probably had little left. PRAIRIE DOG steadied when outrun, dropped back slightly on the stretch turn, but closed well under mild pressure and was slowly getting to the winner. HOPE DIAMOND, vigorously urged from the start but badly outrun to the last three-sixteenths, raced between horses when closing with a rush.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time: :23 1-5, 46 3-5, 1:13 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Decourcy, $54.40 straight, $18.00 place, $6.60 show; Pelter, $6.20 place, $4.40 show; Beau Insco, $5.40 show. Winner trained by W. Causey. Went to post at 4:22. At post, 1 minute. Start bad from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

DECOURCY, away fast but unable to keep up, began to improve his position after three-eighths, stood a drive gamely the final three-sixteenths, and wore down PELTER in the last fifty yards. The latter forced the early pace under strong restraint, disposed of POLYCLETUS gradually, and held on well after opening up a good lead but could not withstand DECOURCY'S challenge. BEAU INSCO, a factor from the start and kept in hand until the final quarter, held on well in the drive. GETALONG was going well in the final stages.

EASY MON, well handled and much the best, was lucky to escape interference in the opening quarter, moved up to follow CARLA'S pace under restraint to the stretch, took command without need of strong urging, and held his company safe while easily sustaining good speed the final eighth. CALEXICO dropped back soon after the start, began to move up when saving ground on the turn, came out in the stretch, and closed resolutely in a fine effort.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and a sixteenth. Four year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

MAYRO, taken back when in close quarters shortly after the start, saved ground while racing restrained to the last three-eighths, had to be eased when unable to get through on the stretch turn, slipped through next to the rail when straightened in the stretch, and, ridden out, held CHANCE STAR safe. The latter raced wide, bettered his position gradually after reaching the final half mile, swerved in the drive, but hung on with determination. BLACK GIFT, making his second start in as many days, was badly outrun to the final three-eighths, raced wide while closing a gap, and finished strongest of all.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and an eighth. Four year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time: :25, :49 3-5, 1:15 1-5, 1:41 4-5, 1:56. Two dollar mutuels paid: Scout Azure, $12.80 straight, $7.00 place, $4.60 show; Farquhar, $5.60 place, $4.60 show; American Emblem, $6.40 show. Winner trained by D. Womeldorff. Went to post at 5:48½. At post, 2 minutes. Start good. Won easily, place driving.

SCOUT AZURE, away fast and having speed, alternated in the pace making under steady restraint to the stretch, drew out fast when called upon, and won with something left. FARQUHAR, a strong factor from the start, lost much ground, particularly on the final turn, was under stout pressure the last three-sixteenths, and hung on courageously. AMERICAN EMBLEM, away slowly, began to work his way up after reaching the final half mile and continued strongly through the stretch.

BARLUND, MUSTO END DRILLS FOR STADIUM BOUT

Tony Faces Biggest Ring Test Tomorrow.

Tony Musto, a sort of Chicago junior physical edition of Tony Galento, stepped through five fast rounds in Kid Howard's gymnasium yesterday and announced himself ready for the biggest test of his professional heavyweight career—his ten round match with Gunnar Barlund of Finland in the Stadium tomorrow night.

Musto has done all that has been asked of him against heavyweights of the Chicago area and in the southwest where he also has campaigned with success. But the lantern jawed European is by far the best opponent he has been paired against. Tony sparred with Danny La Marre and Selman Martin, south side heavyweights.

At the same time, the Gunnar wound up his training chores in Trafton's gymnasium by going two rounds with Oscar Rankin, Los Angeles light heavyweight.

Milo Theodorescu, Rumanian welterweight; Nate Bolden, south side middleweight; Eric Seelig, German middleweight; Alex Kettles, South Bend heavyweight; Altus Allen, Peoria light heavyweight, and Marion Moseley, Chicago heavyweight, also concluded drills in Trafton's. Theodorescu meets Bolden and Seelig faces Ken Overlin in two supporting ten rounders. Kettles encounters K. O. Clements of Pittsburgh, Pa., in a six round event, Allen opposes Al Globe in a five rounder, and Moseley meets Floyd Gibbons of Detroit at four rounds.

Billy White, amateur bantamweight boxer representing the Northwest gymnasium, last night defeated Art Ellis, Stanford Park, in the five round windup of the boxing show in the Madison-Cicero outdoor arena. Al Jenkins, Savoy Athletic club, knocked out Tom Cahill in the first round of the semi-windup. Two other bouts and three wrestling matches were held. Results follow:

James Smyles beat Bob Dalya [3].

JIM GORE FREIGHT

C & G

JAMES GORE, one of the founders of Chapin & Gore, had been a pioneer overland freighter between Denver and the Pacific Coast in the days of '49.

KENTUCKY became famous for its BOURBON WHISKEY because it has the proper type of water and other necessary and ideal conditions for the making of that product. The best results are obtained when only the finest selected grains are used and when the whiskey is distilled in the old-fashioned way. The mash must contain a sufficient percentage of small grains to give the product body. That type of whiskey will continue to improve with ageing—and when fully matured in the wood nothing can be added that will improve its quality. For three quarters of a century CHAPIN & GORE whiskies have never been MIXED—have always been marketed as STRAIGHT KENTUCKY BOURBON WHISKEY—made in the old-fashioned way—the SOUR MASH METHOD. C & G "OLD RESERVE" KENTUCKY STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY has a rich, distinctive flavor. This whiskey is now 4 YEARS and 6 MONTHS old.

Lake Shore's 3 Stars Enter Skyline Meet

Three members of the Lake Shore Athletic club swimming team concluded workouts last night in preparation for the second annual invitation swimming meet at the Skyline Athletic club tonight and tomorrow. The three who will need to be in top form to win, according to Lake Shore Coach Walter Player, are Jay Brown and Margaret Johnston, sprints, and Beatrice Peterson, 15 year old diver.

Brown, who recently defeated Otto Jaretz in winning the Central A. A. U. senior 50 yard championship, may meet Jaretz again in the finals of both the 40 and 100 yard free style sprints.

Margaret Johnston, who holds the Central A. A. U. senior 50 yard free style championship for girls, will have to beat Claudia Eckert, versatile star of the Shawnee Country club, if she gets to the finals in the 40 yard free style event tomorrow.

Miss Peterson, Central A. A. U. junior high board champion, will meet such veterans as Claudia Eckert and Arlite Smith in the high board event.

Preliminaries tonight will be in all sixteen events, eight for men and the same number for women. They are the 40, 100, and 220 yard free style, 100 yard back stroke, 100 yard breast stroke, 120 yard medley relay, 160 yard free style relay, and low board diving.

Seven teams will battle for the team trophy. They are the Medinah club, Lake Shore A. C., Shawnee Country club, Central Y. M. C. A., Madison A. C., Sovereign Hotel, and Skyline.

WAR ADMIRAL'S RACING CAREER COMES TO END

Berlin, Md., June 6.—(AP)—War Admiral struck his colors today—the great thoroughbred son of Man o' War will go no more to the races.

Owner Samuel D. Riddle announced through William Whaley, manager of his Glen Riddle farms, that the champion of the 1937 3 year olds would be retired to the stud within the next few days.

Whaley said War Admiral had not rounded into form at Belmont Park after treatment for a rheumatic ailment. He will be shipped to Maryland shortly, ending the racing career of the gallant little son of Man o' War-Brushup which scored the difficult turf triple in 1937, winning the Kentuck Derby, Preakness and Belmont stakes, to join three other horses as wearers of this rare crown.

In twenty-six starts, War Admiral won twenty-one races, placed three times, was third once and ran out of the money once at Suffolk. He won $273,240.

Eskimo's canoe, known to 600,000 European sportsmen as the foldboat. It is estimated that 2,000 have been built in Chicagoland in the last six years. Exploits in these canvas craft range from a twenty-five mile passage over the open ocean between Catalina island and the mainland, to a circumnavigation of Bermuda. Kayak pilots have been known to venture out on Lake Michigan when the waves were too rough for small racing sail yachts. Most kayaks are used for cruising and camping along the lake shore or down the inland rivers, and for fishing. But Sunday's regatta offers enthusiasts one of their rare opportunities for racing.

All Craft Report at Noon.

The working committee of the regatta has been at work for several days recruiting entries for the various events. The United States Naval reserve at Monroe street on the lake front has been selected as regatta headquarters. All craft will tie up there and all contestants have been asked to report at 12 o'clock noon. This will insure starting of events according to schedule. Capt. Edward A. Evers is commanding officer of the naval armory.

Members of the working committees are:

NEWSOM LIMITS YANKS TO 4 HITS; TIGERS WIN, 6 TO 2

Triumph Gives Detroit Series, 2 Games to 1.

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—(AP)—The American league looked with respect toward Detroit today after the aroused Tigers slapped a second straight defeat by 6 to 2 on the world champion New York Yankees. For the second consecutive day they got four hit pitching. This time it was Buck Newsom who held the champions in check, to match Tommy Bridges' effort of yesterday. It was his sixth victory and gave Detroit the series, two games to one.

Cleveland, O., June 6.—(AP)—Five runs behind, the Cleveland Indians rallied in the last two innings today, drove Elden Auker from the mound, and beat the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 7, to take the series, three games to one. With the score tied, 7 to 7, in the ninth, Ben Chapman doubled. Jeff Heath drew an intentional walk from Joe Heving, and Oscar Grimes blasted a double for the winning run.

Passeau Named to Face Giants; Bartell Benched

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—Claude Passeau will make his second start as a Cub in tomorrow's Chicago-New York opener. The Cubs expect to face Lefty Cliff Melton.

Manager Gabby Hartnett announced the benching of Dick Bartell after brooding all night over what he thought was a shoddy performance in yesterday's game. To some observers it had appeared Dick was improving over some of his unhappy games in Wrigley field during the last home stand. It is said the pitchers have been yelping about Bartell's apparent inability to go to his right or left, especially left, to pick up ground balls.

The Cubs are going to outnumber their world series conquerors at the Baseball Centennial celebration in Cooperstown, N. Y., next Monday. Manager Hartnett, Capt. Bill Herman, Dizzy Dean, and Stan Hack will represent the Cubs. Manager Joe McCarthy has assigned Outfielder George Selkirk and Catcher Arndt Jorgens to represent the Yanks.

CARDS WIN IN 10TH.

Boston, Mass., June 6.—(AP)—Rookie Eddie Miller's double error opened the way for the St. Louis Cardinals' ten inning victory today over the Boston Bees, 5 to 3. The shortstop fumbled Pitcher Curt Davis' grounder in the tenth and it filled the bases. Then his wild throw to first allowed Don Gutteridge to score the winning run. It was a keen duel between Davis and Milburn Shoffner. It was Davis' eighth victory. Stu Martin hit safely his first five times at bat. Score:

Phillies Erase 4 Run Lead; Beat Cubs, 9-8

the Phillies management told him he could keep his suit for a few days until he gets a job tending bar, or some other honorable work. Old Chuck was on the bench at the juncture of which we are speaking.

Klein was sent up to bat for Virgil Davis and Jack Russell was summoned to pitch. Chuck singled to center, scoring May with the tying run and putting Scharein on third. Russell struck out Beck, then Larry French was called in, presumably to pitch to Martin. Manager Doc Prothro countered by sending up Pinky Whitney. Pinky lined a single to center, Scharein scoring the winning run.

Lillard was the losing pitcher, Beck the winner. And if you want to know more about it, call Gabby Hartnett's room in New York some time during the night or morning. He'll probably be there laughing and telling jokes and singing. It'll be a jolly party.

They Remember Old Style.

The Cubs started against Syl Johnson with memories of the four hit trimming the old gentleman gave them in Philadelphia on May 2 and the game saving relief pitching he did against them in Chicago on May 25. The manner of their revenge for these matters was brutal, considering Syl's ripe age.

Hack opened the game with a double and scored on Herman's single to right. Gleeson doubled to right, Herman stopping at third. Herman scored while Galan was bouncing out to Brack and Gleeson counted on Reynolds' sacrifice fly to Arnovich. Hartnett singled and scored on G. Russell's triple to center. Gene Schott replaced Johnson and Mueller threw out Mesner.

The Phils scored a run in the first inning. Mueller tripled with one down and scored on Brack's single.

Get No. 5 in Second.

The Cubs added their fifth run in the second inning. Hack led off with a single and went on to third when the ball got past Arnovich. He scored on Herman's double to right.

With two out in the third, Brack's fly evaded Gleeson for a two base error. Brack scored on infield hits by Arnovich and Marty.

The Cubs' third scoring session was the fifth inning. Reynolds doubled to left and stopped at third on Hartnett's single to right. Reynolds scored on G. Russell's sacrifice fly to Martin. Hartnett got to second while Mueller was throwing out Mesner and scored on Page's single to center. Schott was replaced by Ike Pearson. Pearson caught Page napping off first.

They Wouldn't Give Up.

The Phillies chased across three runs in the sixth to get the score to a 7 to 5 status. Davis singled and went to second while Hartnett was throwing out Pearson. Martin's grounder got through Gee Russell for the rookie first baseman's first error. He previously had accepted 333 chances without a misplay. Mueller doubled, scoring Davis. Brack was called out on strikes, but Arnovich came through with his seventh straight hit in two days, scoring Martin and Mueller.

Notre Dame Golfer Leads Northeastern Illinois Open

Tom Sheehan Jr., Chicago Heights, member of Notre Dame's golf team, yesterday shot a 132, fourteen under par, to take the thirty-six hole lead in the northeastern Illinois open golf tournament at the Hieland Lodge Country club near Kankakee. Denny Sullivan, Momence, Ill., professional, took second place ten strokes behind Sheehan.

TWO SOX HOME RUNS CONQUER ATHLETICS, 7 TO 4

was the result of an error by Kuhel, the Macks did some real damage with some flukey hits in the seventh. Siebert scratched a single to Bejma and Johnson got a single on a high bounder which slipped off the tip of Dietrich's upraised glove. Their good fortune continued when Brucker's grounder dribbled past Appling for a single, Siebert scoring and Johnson galloping to third. Chapman's grounder to Appling was turned into a double play, Johnson scoring. Nagel then doubled to left, but the wallop did no harm because Caster flied to Walker.

Dietrich helped to restore his original four run margin by singling to left with one out in the Sox seventh. Bejma singled to right, Dietrich sprinting to third. Kuhel was retired on a foul to Brucker but Walker turned the activity into a rally by singling to center, Dietrich scoring and Bejma taking third. Nonstop Walker took second on the throw. Radcliff took an active hand by doubling over first base, Bejma and Walker counting. Pippen came to Caster's aid and retired Owen to end the inning.

Brown to the Rescue!

The seventh hit off Bill was a single off his shin by Moses with one out in the eighth but the next two batters did nothing. Then, to open the ninth, Johnson singled to center and Brucker walked. Newsome took Brucker's place as a base runner. Chapman whistled a long single into right center, Johnson scoring and Newsome taking third. This was where Doc Brown came in to diagnose the case.

The doctor's first operation was three strikes on Nagel. Miles was sent up to bat for Pippen and he bounced to Owen, who after a glove hand stop, threw to Bejma to force Chapman, Newsome scoring. Miles took third on Gantenbein's single to center but on the doctor's next pitch Moses grounded to Bejma for the decision clinching play.

Thornton [Lefty] Lee nas made two futile attempts this year to exercise his pitching magic on the Champion Yankees. He'll try it again today in the opener of a three game series in Comiskey park. The Yanks will use Vernon [Lefty] Gomez.

FELLER'S SPEED UNDER RIVALS IN MACHINE TEST

Cleveland, O., June 6.—(AP)—Three members of the Boston Red Sox threw a baseball 122 feet a second into a new photo-electric pitching meter today. Three Cleveland Indians could do only 119 feet.

Pitchers were not included in today's test but, unofficially, Bob Feller of Cleveland threw three balls into the meter from a distance of twenty feet. The best mark he recorded was 119 feet. His teammate, Pitcher Johnny Humphreys, recorded 127 feet. There will be a contest for pitchers later.

Jimmy Foxx, Jim Tabor, and Roger Cramer made it a clean Boston sweep with a first place tie in today's fielders' contest. The best the Indians could do was a tie at 119 feet by Ben Chapman, Julius Solters, and Jim Shilling.

Field of 171 Will Tee Off Tomorrow in National Open

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—The rehearsal activities attendant upon a national open golf tournament generally narrow down to two schools—a wake or a welkin ringing. Tonight the ceremonies preceding the forty-third version of the big show tend toward the latter.

The consensus of the field of 171 professionals and amateurs, who will go to work for keeps Thursday morning in the first eighteen holes of the 72 hole, three day struggle for golf's No. 1 title, is that the Spring Mill course of the Philadelphia Country club is as fair a test as they have seen in years.

Critics Like Course.

Even the most finicky in the field could not, after a couple of practice rounds, say that the stage for the 1939 revival reveals any raised boards or splinters. Rather, the more particular critics are making a point of boosting this rolling yard, upon whose highest ridge such strategic points as the first tee and ninth and eighteenth greens converge.

The Spring Mill course is the younger brother of the Philadelphia Country club, senior layout which is located at Bala, eight miles away. When the P. C. C. members decided about ten years ago to build themselves a real tournament course, they chose these Conshohocken hills for a site. On them, they stretched out a yard which will measure 6,786 yards for the tournament.

Guldahl Seeks 3d Title.

Heading the opinions delivered today was that of Ralph Guldahl, the Madison, N. J., professional, who Thursday, Friday, and Saturday will attempt to put over his second triple. The giant Guldahl, whose name now looms as big in golf as his figure does on a fairway, has won the Western open these last three years, proving that it can be done. Now his objective is to add a third national open to those he won in Detroit in 1937 and in Denver last year.

Guldahl likes the course, not on the strength of what he saw today so much as on the basis of a few practice rounds he played here a couple of weeks ago, one of them being a frugal 68, one under par. Ralph, who arrived late last night, admitted he was a mite weary after running fifth in the Goodall round robin tournament, and added that he wasn't quite content with his putting.

284 May Win Title.

Another subscriber to the fairness of the course as a real championship problem was Will Turnesa, boss of American amateurs, who confessed that Spring Mill's length might become a trifle wearing over a 72 hole route, but said he will settle for another of four more 69s such as he had Sunday.

Harry Cooper, winner of the Goodall tournament; Tommy Armour, Bobby Cruickshank, Al Espinosa, Horton Smith, and Olin Dutra were among the oldsters who put their approval on the course. Most of them will be happy to take 284 and sit in the clubhouse waiting for it to be beaten.

Guldahl continued his swinging drill today playing the back nine one under par, including three excursions to bunkers. Lawson Little, one time double British and American amateur champion who has evinced signs this last season of working medal play sharply, came through with a 72 which included a back nine of 35, which, in itself, contained a seven at the eighteenth, where he topped a brassie shot.

UTILITIES READY TO MEET POWER NEEDS IN WAR

Kellogg Tells of Big Gain Over 1917 Capacity.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—C. W. Kellogg, permanent president of the Edison Electric institute, asserted today that, in the event of war, the electric utilities of the United States were prepared to produce more than the necessary power. Opening the annual convention of the institute, an organization financed by the industry, he declared there was no reason to fear a lack of emergency electric energy.

C. W. Kellogg.

"We are vastly better prepared to supply power for war needs today than we were in 1917," said Kellogg.

Deplores Federal Attacks.

"I should like to close on a note of moderate optimism, but also with a warning," Kellogg said. "The results of the last year have confirmed the long established reputation of our industry for relative stability compared to other lines of business.

"It is therefore encouraging to find ourselves no worse off than we are after six years of attack by the government of the most powerful nation on earth."

Discusses Problem of Idle.

"In discussing our domestic situation, the question pressing for solution is, how private industry can employ all the people able and willing to work.

"Our American private economy today is giving work to at least 43 million of our people, but is unable for the moment to employ about 10 million. Some of these 10 million are perhaps unemployables. They must in some way be supported out of the national economy."

INFLATION.

Disclosures of the last few weeks have shown that the policy of the administration in Washington continues to be inflationary. The government is to spend more billions of dollars in excess of its revenue. Taxes are already so high that they are discouraging business men and investors. For this reason the administration's policy seems to be to defer additional tax increases for the time being—at least until after the presidential election next year. Hence, large part of the expenditures will be financed by further borrowing, principally from the banks.

The cumulative net deficit of the federal government since 1930 is now nearly 24 billion dollars. This means that the government has financed about 24 billions of dollars of its expenditures in the last nine years by borrowing. As the government borrows it increases bank deposits. Bank deposits are the real money of the United States, about 9-10ths of all business being done by bank checks against demand deposits. Bank deposits are already higher now than they were in the boom year 1929.

This artificial expansion of bank deposits is inflation. As far as the mechanics of the thing are concerned it is just as inflationary as the printing of greenbacks. To date it hasn't had the frightening effect on the public that the printing of greenbacks would have had, because it isn't as clearly or generally understood.

The process, however, is going on. The machinery is in motion and has been in motion for nine years. Each new year of deficit financing brings the ultimate reckoning that much closer. The real price effects of inflation will come when one of two things happens: [1] People become more generally frightened about what is going on; or, [2] people begin to get more confidence in the profit possibilities of buying goods, land or stocks and start buying in the hope of such profit.

If there should be a sudden wave of buying through fear of the declining value of the dollar a serious situation would be precipitated. In other countries similar breakdowns in the government's finances have led to the establishment of dictatorships with blocked currencies, rigid price fixing and other devices.

If the political discouragements in Washington should lighten considerably during the next year or so it is entirely possible that the inflation already stored up in banks, the federal reserve system, and the treasury might form the basis for a sensational boom in the prices of such things as commodities, stocks, and land.

The situation is one which must be watched carefully by the investor. He must not be fooled by the lag in time between the process of inflation and the ultimate price effects of inflation. He cannot protect himself fully against the effects of inflation—for inflation of the type we are experiencing is simply a manifestation of cumulative national insolvency. But there are certain things that he can do toward avoiding the worst effects of inflation.

This subject will be discussed further in later articles in this column from time to time.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Fresh pork and live hogs yesterday sank to new five year lows under pressure of excessive supplies. Offerings on the meat and hog markets were among the largest of the year. Eleven markets in two days this week handled 138,000 hogs, compared with 97,000 in 1938, and 83,000 in 1937.

Declines in the day's hog trade ranged mostly from 5 to 15 cents, although some "lard hogs," particularly extremely heavy sows, sold off as much as 25 cents.

Most steers and yearlings held steady, but long fed stock was weak to 25 cents lower. [All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

BIG COMPANIES KEEP CASH IDLE TO MEET TAXES

Mounting Levies Reduce Employable Funds.

Mounting tax bills are causing corporations and other big taxpayers to place vast amounts of otherwise employable funds in bank deposits against the day when they will be needed to pay taxes, according to bankers and corporation executives.

Many companies having adopted the policy of storing away idle cash months—or even a year—in advance of the tax payment so that even if earnings should decline sharply they will be able to satisfy the tax collectors without having to borrow from the banks.

This practice, according to company executives, accounts for part of the "vast reservoir of money and savings" which President Roosevelt recently said was remaining idle in "stagnant pools."

Taxes Rise More than Profits.

Perusal of the tax payments by corporations and others during the last few years discloses a big increase in taxes at a time when earnings have not risen proportionately. If conditions were more favorable to business and idle cash could be employed with reasonable expectation of additional profits from the resulting expansion of operations, bankers say, corporations might put their cash to work and borrow from the banks to meet tax bills.

At present the prospects of thus investing money profitably are regarded as being too slim to warant taking chances. Hence, there is a widespread tendency to lay aside enough cash to pay tax bills a few months or a year ahead.

Billion Increase in Five Years.

A compilation published last year by the American Federation of Investors showed that the aggregate 1937 tax bills of 150 of the nation's largest corporations alone totaled 1 billion 631 million dollars—an increase of nearly 1 billion dollars in five years.

American Telephone and Telegraph company led the list with a total tax bill for 1937 of nearly 138 million dollars, against 85 millions in 1932. General Motors paid 105 millions, compared with less than 14 millions in 1932. Socony-Vacuum Oil company paid 117 millions, against 64 millions in 1932. Texas corporation paid 105 millions in 1937 and 56 millions in 1932.

Taxes Big Expense Item.

Official reports of the United States treasury department show how taxes are rapidly becoming a major item in the expense of doing business. For the fiscal year 1933 the treasury's total receipts were only slightly more than 2 billion dollars. In the fiscal year 1938 the treasury's receipts rose to nearly six and one-quarter billion dollars. At the same time state and local tax collectors have been similarly increasing their take.

With the prospect of still higher tax bills in the future to cover the government's spending in excess of revenues there is an increasing tendency on the part of taxpayers to leave idle cash in bank deposits as a protective measure.

BENSON ASSAILS CREDIT CONTROL BY GOVERNMENT

Scheme to Silence Opposition Seen.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6.—[Special.]—Control of the credit system by the government sought by the administration in bills before congress may be used as a means of silencing opposition to the government, Philip A. Benson, president of the American Bankers' association, asserted here today.

Philip A. Benson.

Extension of the government control over credit, Benson said, may be used to make the economic order serve the ends of the party in power. He asserted that propaganda is being directed at the small business man to convince him that recovery has not developed because existing credit agencies have brought about a "strangulation of credit."

Bares Federal Program.

"The objective of the propaganda," he said, "seems to be the establishment of government credit institutions, that is, the administration of credit by government."

Benson's statement, prepared for delivery here today before the American Institute of Banking convention, is the first direct reply that the American Bankers' association has made to the recent statements of administration leaders that more government credit is needed to promote recovery.

The Roosevelt administration drive to get new legislation extending its control over the credit system was opened two weeks ago by A. A. Berle, assistant secretary of state, when he testified before the monopoly committee. Berle advocated extension of government insured loans to small business men.

Would Socialize Capital.

Berle's program would result in the socialization of the capital financing machinery and eventually, he admitted, in the socialization of the country's basic industries.

Since Berle's appearance before the committee a number of administration experts have appeared before congressional committees to urge immediate support of legislation that would accomplish the objectives of the plan. The Mead bill, now pending in the senate, provides for insurance up to 90 per cent by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of private bank loans to small business.

"Control of credit," he said, "could easily become control of the entire economic system of the country."

Brands Scheme Unsatisfactory.

A politically administered capital-credit banking system will never serve satisfactorily, he said.

"We need only look," he said, "at the extension of other government agencies far beyond the limits set up for them as emergency institutions to see what will eventually happen if the government underwrites loans of banks and establishes capital-credit institutions for business.

"Suppose that government lending agencies, free from the influences of competition and local responsibility, are substituted for the 15,000 locally owned banks in the American banking system. What a burocracy that would make!"

Warns of Political Use.

Under such a system, he asserted, the extension of credit "would inevitably be made to serve the interests of the party and the program of the party in power at the moment."

Up to now, Benson pointed out, the use of the taxing and borrowing powers of the government for credit purposes has been reasonably limited. Reversal of this policy threatens to modify drastically the free enterprise system, he warned.

The steps needed for sound recovery are so obvious, Benson said, that it is strange that they have not been taken. "They consist," he said, "of a pro-business policy, a pro-capital policy, tax modification, a recognition of the social usefulness of business, restoration of faith in the future, and the release of the initiative and energies which make up the American enterprise order."

Int. Harvester Denies Labor Board Charge

The International Harvester company, Chicago, manufacturer of farm equipment, trucks, and other products, yesterday was cited by the National Labor Relations board as having engaged in unfair labor practices at six of its plants. The company denied the charge and announced that it would contest the charges.

The labor board's complaint charged the company with "instigating the formation of, fostering, promoting, dominating, and contributing financial and other support to "six organizations which it designated as company unions. The company has 50,000 employés.

Not True, Says McAllister.

"The proceedings filed today by the National Labor Relations board is upon complaint and request of the C. I. O. [Farm Equipment Workers of America].

"It charges that the International Harvester company has instigated the formation of six separate labor organizations at six of its plants and advised, urged, and warned its employés to join such organizations and to refrain from joining the Farm Equipment Workers of America.

"These charges are not true. When the case comes to trial the company expects to show that it has not been guilty of any unfair labor practices, but on the contrary, has constantly endeavored to live up to both the letter and spirit of permitting every employé to freely choose his bargaining representatives and to observe a strictly neutral attitude as between rival organizations."

Declares Firm Coöperated.

McAllister said the company has coöperated with the board by consenting to labor board elections at its plants to determine bargaining representatives. Six elections were held, of which the C. I. O. won three and the independent unions three.

McAllister pointed out that the labor board has held that even though a majority of employés organized and joined a union of their own free will, the union would be disqualified if it appeared that even a small percentage was influenced to join by unauthorized acts or interference on the part of some foreman.

"We do not know whether any employés joined any union because of such unauthorized actions," McAllister continued, "but if they did we believe it could only have been a very small number and we question whether it is a legal or appropriate remedy for such a situation to destroy a union which has been freely created and chosen as a bargaining agency by the great majority of its members."

C. L. Patterson, regional director for the labor board, said a trial examiner would open a hearing in Chicago on June 22.

FIRST CONSUMER, BUSINESS PARLEY SEEKS PROGRAM

Buffalo, N. Y., June 6.—[Special.]—After two days of fact finding, not excluding fault finding, the first business-consumer relations conference closed here today without tangible results except a better mutual understanding between the participating factors.

Amity characterized the discussions even though marked by frequent criticism, and the sessions terminated on a note of hope that some permanent program of coöperative action for the producer-distributor-customer elements may evolve from the immediately ensuing program of the sponsor unit, the National Association of Better Business Bureaus. The better business members go into a three day conference tomorrow at which proposals will be considered for such an entente.

BETHLEHEM MAY ISSUE LOAN FOR SHIP BUILDING

New York, June 6.—[Special.]—Expansion of ship manufacturing facilities and other expenditures will be financed by the Bethlehem Steel company through the proposed sale of an issue of about $25,000,000 of mortgage bonds towards the end of the month, it was learned today.

A registration statement covering the new issue will be filed in Washington in the next few days, at which time details of the disposition of the proceeds will be indicated. In part, it was learned, the bonds will reimburse the treasury of the company for expenditures previously made.

STOCK EXCHANGE FINDS PICKINGS THIN; IT MAY GIVE UP HALF OF HOME

New York, June 6.—(AP)—The stock exchange is considering giving up half its $7,000,000 building on the corner of Broad and Wall streets—the front half, with the great colonnade facing J. P. Morgan & Co.—to reduce expenses.

The exchange in these thin picking times is running into debt at the rate of $1,500,000 a year. William McChesney Martin Jr., president, looking around for ways to cut costs, thought the exchange was paying too much rent for the Broad street half of the property it lies on. The exchange owns outright the rear half.

So Martin has asked the heirs of Matthew A. Wilks, son-in-law of Hetty Green, owners of the front lot, to reduce the more than $100,000 annual rental paid for that lot. If they don't, Martin intimated, the heirs may have a present of that front part, including about half of the trading floor, and "they could just try to make a go of it."

GERMANS, JAPS SLASH IMPORTS FROM AMERICA

United States sales of goods in April to Germany, Italy, and Japan were far less than in April, 1938, the department of commerce reported yesterday. Exports to Argentina decreased more than half.

Germany purchased only $4,806,000 in American goods in April compared with $9,548,000 in April, 1938. German companies, however, about tripled their sales in this country from $4,614,000 in the 1938 month to $13,829,000. The heavy flow of German goods to this country in April resulted from the rush to meet the deadline of April 26, when an extra tarif of 25 per cent was levied on imports from Germany.

Italians reduced their purchases in America from $5,095,000 to $4,130,000. Japanese purchases in the United States declined from $28,833,000 in April, 1938, to $16,147,000 last April.

Currency restrictions applied by Argentina early this year in an effort to keep Argentina's purchases more nearly in line with its sales to the United States cut American exports to Argentina in April to $4,068,000, from $9,466,000.

FORBID BROKER FIRM PARTNERS' MARGIN TRADES

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Partners in brokerage houses which are members of the New York Stock exchange will be prohibited after June 30 from carrying personal margin accounts with their own or other member firms.

The exchange's department of member firms, it was disclosed today, is about to draft an announcement of this prohibition, agreed upon by the exchange and the Securities and Exchange commission.

The margin account restriction was intended originally, as one of the steps in the exchange's fifteen point reorganization plan of last October, merely to apply to a partner carrying his account with his own firm, but was widened to the present form at the request of the SEC.

Clash at Quiz on Group Life Rate Tactics

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—Senator O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the monopoly investigating committee, declared today that nineteen major insurance companies wrote their own rules of competition and fixed their own rates for group life insurance.

E. E. Cammack, a vice president of the Aetna Life Insurance company and a witness before the committee, insisted that the final fixing of group life rates was in the hands of the New York state insurance superintendent.

Pressing his point, O'Mahoney said that the state official "almost invariably" accepted the recommendations of the Group Life association, of which the witness is chairman.

Anti-Trust Issue Raised.

B. D. Flynn, a vice president of the Travelers Insurance company, told the committee that when the question of the anti-trust laws was raised in 1925, five companies which had maintained uniform rates since 1919 discontinued discussion of rates in association meetings.

After that, he said, rates were maintained under "gentlemen's agreements" reached in informal discussions by company actuaries. He conceded that these rates had become the basic charges on group life policies when the New York insurance law went into effect in 1926.

Cammack said that virtually all of the other insurance companies in the country followed the rates fixed by the New York official on the recommendation of the nineteen Group Life association members.

Insists Competition Remains.

He insisted, however, that competition was removed only insofar as rules governing underwriting and payment of commissions were concerned. He said a uniform initial rate did not prevent cost competition.

He explained that the net charge for group insurance was determined only after a year's experience with each policy, when the rebate by the insurance company was figured. He said insurance company expenses determined the amount of rebate.

O'Mahoney contended, however, that the only protection for the public in determining rates lay in the good faith and accuracy of the insurance companies.

"It seems to me that is protection enough," Cammack commented.

$900,000 of British Gold Engaged for U. S. Account

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported yesterday the engagement of $900,000 of gold in England for shipment to the United States. Most foreign currencies were comparatively steady in exchange transactions in terms of the American dollar. The Dutch guilder eased 0.03 cent to 53.22 cents.

HORNER VETOES BILL THAT PLACED LIMIT ON DOUBLE LIABILITY

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today vetoed a bill which in effect would have placed a statute of limitations on double liability for stockholders of state banks. The bill was an outgrowth of the failure of an attempt to eliminate the constitutional double liability in a referendum last November.

Under the provisions of the measure, suit against persons owning stock on July 1 or later would have to be filed during the period of ownership or within one year of sale or transfer. Former owners who transferred stock before this date could not be sued after July 1, 1940.

"The constitution itself provides the orderly and legal way to secure changes or amendments in it," Gov. Horner wrote in a four page explanation of his veto. "It was never intended and is entirely improper to attempt to secure changes in the constitution by the passage of a bill in the legislature. To my mind, that is exactly what house bill 423 seeks to accomplish."

Proponents contend that state banks will not flourish until relief is given stockholders from double liability.

BILL TO EXTEND DOLLAR POWER CLEARS HURDLE

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—The senate banking committee today approved continuance of President Roosevelt's authority to devalue the dollar further after an effort to terminate the power had failed on a 9 to 9 tie vote. [Under parliamentary procedure a motion loses on a tie.

The committee had under consideration a house approved bill to continue from June 30 to June 30, 1941, the devaluation power and the treasury's authority to maintain the 2 billion dollar exchange stabilization fund and to buy domestically mined silver at prices above the world market.

President Roosevelt already has cut the dollar to 59 per cent of its old gold weight. If continuance of this authority is approved by the senate he could cut it another 9 per cent.

STANDARD OIL (N. J.) REPORTS LOWER PROFIT

$5,000,000 a Month in First Quarter.

Earnings of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey averaged $5,000,000 a month in the first quarter of 1939, W. S. Farish, president, reported yesterday to stockholders at the annual meeting in Flemington, N. J. In the corresponding 1938 period the earnings averaged $6,500,000 a month.

"We are gratified that under existing conditions in the oil industry we are doing that well," Farish said in reporting the 1939 results.

Farish said the company is seeking an international arbitration of issues involved in the seizure by the government of its properties in Mexico.

Says U. S. Is Backing Effort.

"I think," he said, "that we have the support of our state department in our effort."

Farish said the company probably would sell to a government supported corporation its Chilean properties. The Chilean government has announced its decision to take over the oil marketing business of the country.

Florsheim Shoe company, Chicago, reported to stockholders that operations in the six months ended April 30 resulted in a net profit of $503,556. This was equal to $1.26 per share of class A stock and 63 cents per share of B stock. In the corresponding 1938 period the company earned $199,607, equal to 50 cents on the A and 25 cents on the B shares.

L. C. Smith Earnings Estimated.

L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters, Inc., reported indications are that its earnings for the nine months ended June 30 will be $382,000.

Mayer Urges Quick Passage of Slum Bills

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

"Passage of the proposed slum clearance bills at this session of the Illinois legislature is imperative for the welfare of Chicago. The city cannot afford to wait two years until the next session for passage of the bill."

This statement was made yesterday by Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and prime mover in the "Greater Chicago" campaign.

Mayer, who is president of Oscar Mayer & Co., meat packers, discussed the need for restoring to full usefulness the many obsolete areas located in the center of the city. The slum clearance bills would authorize the formation of "public service building corporations" vested with the power to condemn land. Thus they would be able to take over large areas for reclamation. These bills are now pending before both houses of the Illinois legislature.

Cites Benefits of Plan.

Mayer listed numerous ways in which the "public service building corporations" would benefit the city. Among other things they would accomplish the following, he said:

1. Convert large areas now in a dilapidated condition into desirable sections for residential purposes.

2. Restore to the tax rolls sections of the city where little if anything is now being paid in taxes. This would in turn reduce the tax load on other sections of the city.

3. Provide work for Chicago's great building industry which has been virtually dormant for ten years.

4. Halt the flight of residents from the city to the suburbs and thereby preserve business for Chicago.

"I haven't studied the public service building corporation bill from the point of view of a lawyer," Mayer said. "But I have studied it sufficiently to know that its passage is desperately needed by the city.

Emphacizes Assessor's Findings.

"A recent statement made by Assessor John S. Clark that the assessed valuation of real property has declined from $2,849,614,135 in 1930 to $1,367,949,169 in 1938 deserves the immediate attention of all interested parties. We must have more new property added to the tax rolls. As it is, the assessed valuation is being reduced by 2 per cent each year under the depreciation factor without new properties being added to offset the loss.

"While this is going on, the public demands the same high standards of governmental services that were provided when we had the high valuation on which to assess taxes. We demand the same police protection, fire protection, water and other services. As a matter of fact 'blighted areas' themselves add to police and

Tydings Raps USHA as Socialism.

Washington, D. C., June 6.—[Special.]—Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] demonstrated in the senate today that the federal government is paying the entire cost of the so-called slum clearance projects financed by the United States Housing authority. The senator insisted that the whole program is state socialism and not slum clearance.

Senator Tydings.

Senator Tydings spoke against the bill sponsored by Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.], which increases from 800 million dollars to 1 billion 600 million the lending limit of the housing authority. It also increases from 28 million to 73 million dollars the amount of annual contributions that may be made by the federal government for rental subsidies.

Norris Is Impressed.

The speech by the Maryland senator apparently impressed the senate, with the conspicuous exception of Senator Wagner and a few other New Deal yes men. Even Senator George Norris [Rad., Neb.], a fervent supporter of the housing program, told Senator Tydings he was impressed with the idea that the financial arrangement under which the federal government shouldered all the cost was "not quite fair."

Proponents of the housing scheme assert that the cities and local housing authorities put up 10 per cent of the construction cost in cash and repay the other 90 per cent, borrowed from the federal government, with interest of approximately 3 per cent.

Tells How Plan Works.

In support of his contention that the cities will not pay back a thin dime to the treasury, Senator Tydings gave the following illustration:

"First of all, when the city wants to build a million dollar housing project, it puts up $100,000. The federal government then puts up $900,000 in the form of a so-called loan; and the $900,000 plus the $100,000 make the

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—The stock market improved moderately today in expanded trading. Gains among active issues ranged from fractions to about a point. Volatile shares advanced as much as three points. Turnover reached 600,410 shares, against 349,470 on Monday.

Observers saw little in the news to account for the fresh buying. Some ascribed the demand to the belief of many in Wall street that stocks are worth obtaining at present levels on the chance that the market will be given a lift by government spending. The possibility of business tax relief was said to be another factor in the rise.

After an irregular opening, the list perked up. Demand spread to virtually all sections by midday, when the day's best prices were reached. In the afternoon some indecision appeared and prices slipped slightly.

Steel and motor shares benefited from encouraging reports from their respective industries. Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Youngstown, Crucible, and Greyhound contributed substantial gains.

New York Bonds.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Corporate bonds rallied strongly in a burst of late buying today. United States government bonds were mixed. At the close prices varied from 8-32 point higher to 4-32 lower.

The speed with which trading orders were executed was demonstrated by the fact that, despite a dull morning, the transactions for the entire day amounted to $7,091,100 face value, compared with $4,537,850 yesterday. It was the second best day since April 11, being topped only by the volume of May 25.

Chicago Stocks.

Advances predominated on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with seven issues recording new highs for the year. Of the 94 issues traded, 57 moved higher and 23 were unchanged, while 14 finished behind minus signs. Sales totaled 21,000 shares.

Commonwealth Edison touched a new peak at 28⅝, up ¼, on turnover of 3,400 shares. Middle West Utilities also gained ¼ at 7⅛. Midland Utilities prior liens climbed ¾ to 6¾, but dropped to 6½ at the close. Zenith Radio advanced ⅛, and Bendix Aviation ⅜.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks closed unchanged to slightly higher yesterday. Trading was somewhat more active than on Monday. Bid prices were raised on American National, Continental Illinois, and First National stocks.

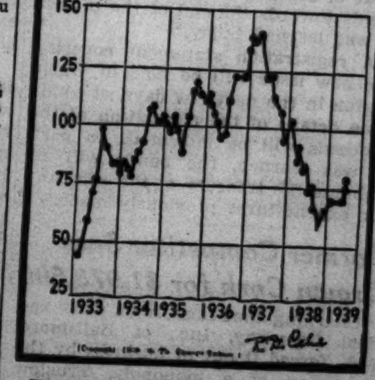
WHEAT PRICES STEADY AFTER EARLY DECLINE

The wheat market rallied yesterday after a moderate decline at the opening. Buying of futures attributed to cash interests was a feature. This buying was regarded by brokers on the Chicago Board of Trade as reflecting sales of flour to the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation on Monday. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower.

American markets held comparatively steady despite a decline of ⅛ to ½ cent in Liverpool, where all deliveries of wheat sold at a new low price for the season.

Part of the support given American wheat markets recently is said to have resulted from belief that farmers will not sell new grain freely at less than the government loan level.

Corn, oats and rye showed independent strength compared with wheat. The three grains closed ⅛ to ¼ cent higher. Aggregate trade was not large.



The chart shows the movement of cash wheat prices in the last 6½ years.

Commodities

A reduction of ⅛ cent a pound to 8½ cents in the bid price of No. 1 scrap copper yesterday failed to weaken the copper price structure noticeably. Quotations on the domestic metal held unchanged, with fair volume of sales reported. Export copper was easier. New York futures finished unchanged to .02 cent a pound lower.

Lead sellers reported sales of the spot metal were large. The futures prices closed unchanged. Other metals were quiet.

No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap was quoted yesterday at $14.50 to $15 a ton at Pittsburgh, an advance of 50 cents a ton. Several steel companies were reported to have adjusted their quoted prices on steel bars to buyers in large quantities. It was stated that this will result in a reduction of $1 a ton from the prices published several weeks ago. There is no change in small amounts.

In general, decisive price movements were absent in commodity trading. Wool tops, coffee, and rubber futures edged lower at New York. Cocoa, sugar, cottonseed oil, and hides finished higher. Silk was irregular.

Butter and egg futures prices advanced on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. November butter, unsettled early on reaction to Monday's Supreme court decision upholding the government's right to fix milk prices, rallied at the close for a gain of ⅛ cent per pound, reaching 24⅝ cents, the highest close since January.

Purchase by the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation of 280,350 dozens of eggs here and in New York encouraged buying of egg futures, which advanced ¼ cent a dozen. The cash market was firm.

SALES THIS YEAR BY MONTGOMERY WARD SET PEAKS

Increases Are Shown for May and 4 Months.

Sales of Montgomery Ward & Co. in May and for the first four months of the current fiscal year reached new all-time highs for those periods, the company reported yesterday. Other sales reports made public during the day showed substantial gains over 1938.

Montgomery Ward sales totaled $42,322,968 last month, an increase of 17.0 per cent over sales of $36,249,558 in May, last year. The previous high for May sales was in 1937, when they totaled $39,140,008.

Sales for the first four months of the fiscal year amounted to $144,612,259, up 14.9 per cent from sales of $125,773,869 in the like 1938 period. The previous high for the period was also in 1937, when sales totaled $136,327,259.

Follow Sears Roebuck Record.

Establishment of new high records by Montgomery Ward follows similar records reported by Sears, Roebuck & Co. The two corporations are the largest mail order and chain store merchandising firms in the country. There is some belief in the merchandising field that the new records may be partially attributed to increasing us of instalment selling by the two organizations.

The Western Auto Supply company of Missouri reported a gain of 35.1 per cent in May sales. In April sales showed an increase of 32.1 per cent over April, 1938. Sales for May were $3,778,000, against $2,760,000 last year.

For the first five months sales totaled $14,689,000, against $11,286,000 last year, an increase of 30.1 per cent.

COAL MEN URGED TO USE CONTRACT BASIS IN SELLING

Plans to exploit the use of coal to meet the competition of oil and gas were discussed yesterday at the annual convention of the American Retail Coal association at the Sherman hotel. About 3,000 coal men, including dealers, operators and manufacturers of equipment used in connection with coal are attending the sessions.

Frank Hoke of Indianapolis, vice president of the Stoker Manufacturing association, asserted that the coal industry should work out a plan for guaranteeing prices on a contract basis in the way that the oil industry does.

"Coal men have been unable to sell their product on a contract basis because of fluctuating prices at the mines," he said. "Retailers and dealers should endeavor to overcome this problem."

The coal men also propose to start a widespread advertising campaign to acquaint the public with the advantages of coal. The association's executive committee recommended such a campaign.

OUTPUT OF STEEL IN MAY IS LESS THAN FOR APRIL

Production of open hearth and Bessemer steel in the United States in May totaled 2,917,876 tons, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This was a slight decline from the 2,986,985 tons produced in April, but was much larger than the May, 1938, output of 1,800,877 tons.

To produce the May tonnage the industry operated at the lowest rate this year, 48.24 per cent of capacity. The April rate was 50.99 per cent, and the rate in May last year was 30.3 per cent.

ALTON REPORTS SMALLER LOSS THAN YEAR AGO

The Alton railroad had a net loss of $227,742 in April, compared with a loss of $268,482 in April, 1938. The road's loss for the first four months of 1939 was $729,512, compared with a loss of $865,370 in the like 1938 period. Net loss is after provision for bond interest and other fixed charges.

The Fort Worth and Denver City had an April loss of $92,810, compared with an April, 1938, loss of $75,890 and a four months' loss of $320,843, compared with a loss of $168,140 in 1938.

House Probe of Illinois Insurance Office Sought

Springfield, Ill., June 6.—[Special.]—An investigation of charges against the state department of insurance was asked today in a resolution submitted to the house by Representative Leo Crowley [R., Peoria]. The inquiry would be made by five representatives. Crowley charged that an automobile insurance rate war is being waged by eastern and Illinois companies. He said Ernest Palmer, department director, approved rates so low that smaller companies are threatened with bankruptcy.

Tydings Attack on USHA Stirs Senate.

"But at the same time that the housing authority lends this money to the cities—namely, $900,000 in the illustration I used—it makes a contract with the city wherein it agrees to give to the city each year for 60 years a rent subsidy of a certain amount.

"In every case the amount of money which the housing authority agrees to pay the city annually as a subsidy is sufficient to enable the city to give back to the housing authority, and thus to liquidate, its proportionate part of the loan for that year, and the city has enough left over to liquidate the 10 per cent which it originally put up."

Questioned by Schwellenbach.

Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] asked whether the requirement in the act that the subsidy be passed along to the tenants in the form of rent reductions did not nullify Senator Tydings' argument.

Tydings said it did not, because the tenant's rent did not come back to the United States treasury. He said it was easily possible for the cities to take the subsidies and use them for the purpose of paying off their loans.

"The city does not have to charge the tenant anything at all for capital outlay, because all of this money has been furnished," he explained.

"We are building these projects entirely out of the federal treasury. The only contribution which the cities make is in the form of the elimination in whole or in part of the taxes which the tenants of the houses would have to pay if they were privately owned."

Wagner Joins Discussion.

Wagner asked Tydings whether he was opposed to any contribution by the federal government toward the rent, "so that the person who has been dedicated to a life of misery in the slums may be able to live in a place with fresh air and sanitation, thus bringing about a better health condition, reducing crime, and all that sort of thing?"

Tydings replied he was not opposed he added:

"One of the things upon which I look with much concern is the constant disposition of communities to let Washington do it all."

Of the housing authority's existing 800 million dollar lending limit, 656 million dollars has been earmarked or committed for projects, but none of the projects has been completed. The entire 800 million dollars could not be committed because the authority's $28,000,000 limit on annual rent contributions was sufficient to cover loan contracts of only 656 million dollars.

Projects under the present program will accommodate 164,000 families, and if the new Wagner bill becomes law the total program will house 402,000 families.

ACTED FOR U. S., SAY DEFENDANTS IN BUTTER CASE

In requesting a removal of proceedings from the Circuit to the federal court, defendants in a consumer suit to halt federal butter price pegging yesterday placed on the government the responsibility for their part in the butter program.

The Dairy Products Marketing association and three other defendants asserted any action taken by them was "pursuant to resolutions of the Commodity Credit corporation." Their petition was presented to Circuit Court Judge William V. Brothers.

Judge Brothers said the statements contained in the plea might be a basis for a defense rather than for removal proceedings. Ralph J. Gutgsell and Lewis F. Mason, attorneys for the plaintiff, then asked for and received a continuance until today.

HOLC Plans to Make Loans to Delinquent Taxpayers

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—An official of the Home Owners' Loan corporation said today the corporation was arranging to advance funds to delinquent taxpayers to help them avoid foreclosures. The advances will be made only to HOLC borrowers. The official said that the corporation's newly adopted policy called for home owners to sign an "absolute agreement" under which they will pay one-twelfth of their yearly taxes each month. The HOLC is authorized under the new policy to use any money paid by the taxpayer to take care of pending taxes first.

South Shore Line Wins Writ Freeing It from Rail Act

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 6.—(AP)—Federal authorities were enjoined by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick today from forcing the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad to comply with the railway labor act. The railroad claimed it is exempt under provisions which make the law nonapplicable to street, interurban and suburban railways. District Attorney James R. Fleming said the government sought to bring the railroad under the act because of a labor dispute.

Chicago Home Loan Bank to Cut Rates on Loans

A. R. Gardner, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago, yesterday announced that interest rates on loans to member borrowers will be cut one-fourth of 1 per cent, effective July 1. The new rates will be 3 per cent on collateralized loans and 3¼ per cent on loans made without collateral. Gardner said the cut resulted from the increased flow of private funds into building and loan associations.

MAYER PLEADS QUICK PASSAGE OF SLUM BILLS

Says City Can't Wait Next Legislature.

fire costs because of the hazards inherent in them.

"The sight of building scaffolding and a load of bricks has become a rarity in the streets of Chicago. We want to see our great building trades employed again as they were in the old days. This can be done if we start rebuilding the large areas that have become obsolete.

"Many of the rundown areas are but a short distance from the lake. They are close to great schools and universities, near the art galleries, the musical centers, the theaters and other institutions that mean so much to a pleasant life. They can be brought back to their former usefulness.

"But this can only be done through reclamation on a large scale. The power of eminent domain must be the keystone to the success of such undertakings. We favor especially the small residential units, either single family residences or small apartment buildings.

Favors Supervision.

"Rehabilitation should be supervised by the Chicago Plan commission with the end that utility and beauty be combined. I believe that we should follow the suggestion of Robert Kingery of the Chicago Regional Planning commission that we provide one acre of open space for each 100 of population. This would include parks and playgrounds.

"We have the opportunity to start the creation of a new Chicago which will be a better place in which to live. The state legislature has it in its power to help."

The executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce in a recent action indorsing the principle of the "public service building corporation" pointed out that housing projects financed with federal funds do not pay taxes, whereas the proposed "public service building corporations" would be taxable.

Parking Spaces Suggested.

In its recommendation the committee suggested that in large housing projects consideration be given to parking spaces to get automobiles off the streets. It suggested that the bill be amended to require approval of local planning and zoning boards and that in all cases city approval be required before a project could be submitted to the state housing board. This suggestion has been incorporated into a series of amendments presented to the legislature.

Toombs Files Bankruptcy Plea; Lists Assets at $75

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court yesterday in behalf of Roy C. Toombs, 5450 Blackstone avenue, now a salesman. It listed liabilities of $757,914 and assets of $75. It was filed by Attorney Lewis L. Levin. Toombs served from Feb. 26, 1930, until Aug. 4, 1931, on a three year sentence to the Missouri penitentiary for manipulations in connection with the collapse of the International Life Insurance company of St. Louis. The claims listed yesterday were said by Levin to be old ones growing out of the insurance case.

Business Bits

Walter J. Tuohy has been elected president and a director of the Globe Coal company, Chicago. Tuohy was formerly vice president of the Shippers Fuel corporation of Chicago and sales manager of the Consumers company. Joseph T. Routh, chairman of the board of the Pittston company, New York, has been elected chairman of the board of Globe Coal.

Frank C. Nahser, formerly of the Globe Engraving and Electrotyping company and more recently with Fred H. Ebersold, Inc., advertising, has opened his own advertising agency, Frank C. Nahser, Inc. The new agency is located at 919 North Michigan avenue.

Robert Burrows, associated with the J. C. Wood company, provision brokers, and Thomas J. Friel have been appointed to fill vacancies in the directory of the Chicago Board of Trade. Bracket B. Denniston Jr. has been elected to membership on the exchange.

URGES CONGRESS GO SLOW ON NEW BANKING SYSTEM

Washington, D. C., June 6.—(AP)—A representative of the American Bankers' association urged congress today to go slow in setting up what he described as a new federal system of mutual savings banks.

A. L. M. Wiggins of Hartsville, S. C., former A. B. A. president and now its legislative chairman, asserted that he considered proposed amendments to the home loan bank act a move to give building and loan associations the privileges of savings banks.

"If this is the intent of congress, it should be examined in the light of the whole banking setup," he told the house banking committee. "Let's not edge into it."

The main point to which Wiggins and other A. B. A. representatives have objected is that the amendments, now pending before the committee, would permit building and loan associations, which are members of the Home Loan Bank board, to take first mortgages on all real property. Such building and loan organizations now are limited to a maximum of $20,000 on mortgages and to four unit dwellings.

Refunding Issue Planned by Gulf States Utilities

The Gulf States Utilities company, an operating subsidiary of the Engineers Public Service company, plans to issue $27,300,000 of first and refunding 3¼ per cent bonds of 1969 to retire a like amount of first and refunding 4 per cent bonds of 1966, it was disclosed in a utility act declaration filed with the SEC.

Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 3% per month on the first $100 of balances, 2% per month on balance above $100 to $200, and 1% per month on balances above $200 to $300, which is less than the lawful maximum rate on all loans above $100.
